Hate, and Counter Hate. Fairly Pleasant May Day. Low Profits, High Taxes. Mothers—Two Kinds.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WOLL ABLE, eloquent union labor official, has a plan to combat the reds. The reds in their May Day parade carried signs:

"Down with the Socialists, give us free rent and free food."

The Socialist cry is:

"Down with government by big money."

THUS UNION labor hates the reds, the reds despise the Socialists, the Socialists hate "big money" and big money doesn't hate anybody. Or if it does, it keeps quiet about it.

Of the four, unions, reds, Socialists, big money, which do you think will survive?

CONSIDERING THE world's unrest, it was a peaceful May Day. In New York it rained, and the "red" parade was abandoned. You must not expect men to get wet.

The New York police, wisely, kept order WITHOUT CLUBS. Talking and parading, within reason, provide a good safety valve. Britain has always known it. You can say anything you like in Hyde Park, as long as you don't DO anything outside of Hyde Park.

RUSSIA HAD a fine May Day. A million fighting Russians paraded in Moscow, to let the world know that they are ready. The Russian display of fighting airplanes was striking. In addition, Russia inaugurated the first of her great power plants.

Some day, when this country gets over feeling about Russia as a small boy feels about an imaginary black bear on the staircase, we might investigate Russian conditions, impartially. Something might be learned there.

WOULD YOU like to run a New York hotel in these days of low profits and high taxes? One, well known, has gone back to 1914 prices. Instead of eight and ten dollars the charge is five and six dollars for a room and bath.

Taxes have NOT gone back. In 1914 that hotel paid a little more than $50,000 a year in taxes. Today it pays more than $140,000 a year.

EVERY YEAR 16,000 mothers die in childbirth in the United States, a record the worst of any nation on earth calling itself civilized. The mothers die because they have no care. Cows do not die in that fashion, because the Agriculture Department will look after them, if the farmers ask for information or assistance.

THE MATERNITY Center Association of New York plans to do something about it next Sunday, which will be Mother's Day.

Why doesn't our proud and usually prosperous government do something about it? Or would it be paternalistic waste of money to help human mothers, since their babies are not worth half as much as a calf or young pig, have in fact no commercial value?

MRS. ALICE HARGREAVES, The original of "Alice in Wonderland," describes America as "topsy-turvy land."

The 80-year-old Alice-in-Wonderland will find in Wall Street a good imitation of the Cheshire cat, that gradually faded away. Stock exchange values have faded in the last month to the tune of four thousand million dollars, having already vanished to the extent of nearly FIFTY BILLIONS.

CONGRESS FEARS it will not be able to finish work by June 11, and hurry home for the conventions.

Wall Street, twice as much worried as Congress, says unless Congress does go home and "let up" there is no hope of better times.

It is sad when the doctor wants to get rid of his patient, and the patient wants to discharge the doctor.

THE ANTI-PROHIBITION gentlemen want to raise five million dollars to fight the dry forces and for a slogan they adopt: "Swat the Dry."

They could learn from Mr. Capone and a dozen other leaders on the dry side, that five million dollars would be a trifling sum in such a fight. You cannot easily undermine a bootleg industry that pays profits greater than the total income of the United States government.

MUSSOLINI MANAGES well. He is only short seventy-five million dollars in his budget, and needs for all his expenses, army, navy, pensions, gigantic flying force, only one thousand million dollars, about half of our deficit. And Italy's casualties in the war were at least ten times as great as ours.

What would our deficit be if we had entered the war, as Theodore Roosevelt suggested, at the beginning and had enjoyed its full run?

Officer Believed Mistaken For Holdup Man; Killers Flee Following Shooting

Apparently mistaken for a holdup man, Vernon P. (Port) Moses, 42, Ross Township constable, was shot to death early today by two men he had halted in Perrysville avenue near the Keating car barn of the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

Constable Moses

A violent argument preceded the shooting, according to a number of railway employes and nearby residents. None, however, witnessed the actual shooting.

County detectives said they learned that Moses, employed as a watchman by the county on the Butler plank road where trolley tracks are being torn up, was off duty at midnight, that he left a roadhouse about 2:35 a. m. and was killed before 3 a. m.

CAPONE STARTS TO PEN TONIGHT

CHICAGO, May 3.—(AP.)—"Scarface Al" Capone will start his long-deferred trip to prison tonight.

United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer completed arrangements for the gangster's removal to the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, after the last legal technicality had been removed today.

Capone, convicted of evading income taxes, was sentenced to 10 years in federal prison and one year in the Cook County (Chicago) Jail. He fought the case to the last ditch, losing an appeal to the United States Supreme Court yesterday. Today the United States Court of Apepals vacated a writ of supersedeas which had held the big gangster in the county jail while he appealed.

Capone, giving up hope at last, packed his belongings soon after arising at the county jail. When informed of the Supreme Court decision yesterday, he flew into a rage and later wept on the shoulder of his aged mother, who was visiting him.

Japanese Near Clash With U. S. Infantry

SHANGHAI, May 3.—(AP.)—Fifty Japanese soldiers crossed Soochow Creek into the International Settlement from Chapei today and for a time it seemed possible that there would be a clash with the 31st United States Infantry, patrolling that sector.

American officers succeded in halting the Japanese while they investigated. The Japanese said they were pursuing Chinese who had thrown rocks from hiding places in the Settlement among Japanese soldiers on the opposite side of the creek. After some conferring the Japanese withdrew.

Congress Should Unite On Intelligent System Of Economic Relief

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 1, 1932

JAMES T. WILLIAMS, Jr.

Universal Service, Washington, D. C.

HAS not the terrible tangle in which Congress has involved the tax situation made return to the simple and essentially sound proposals of the Crisp Committee seem necessary both to the House and the Senate?

It would seem certain that if Senators and Congressmen go back to their constituents with such a record of stupid muddling of vital financial questions in a national economic crisis, the public will repudiate not merely one party or the other, but the INDIVIDUALS responsible for this conspicuous failure and its consequences.

Is it not desirable under these circumstances for Senate and House to unite on some intelligent and intelligible system of economic relief, and then return to their constituents with proper claim upon their consideration?

AN ADEQUATE SALES TAX should certainly be comprehended and enacted at this session.

A general sales tax will entirely solve the immediate taxation problem in an orderly and systematic and effective manner.

It would now and hereafter become an integral part of the tax system of the United States.

It would now render an increase in income taxes unnecessary.

Nothing could be more disastrous to the economic condition of the country than to INCREASE income taxes and so diminish INCOMES at this time.

THE WHOLE OBJECT of government should be centered on means to increase incomes and so increase purchasing power, and thus increase buying, and increase the production of commodities to be bought.

That means increasing business and expanding industry.

To take the opposite course is suicidal.

To diminish incomes is to reduce purchasing power, to restrict buying, and consequently further to decrease the selling of commodities and the consequent production of commoditions, and the consequent employment of labor in the production and selling of commodities.

These facts are the very primer of economics.

It seems incomprehensible that intelligent men in the House and Senate should be so blind to the elementals of the situation.

WITH THE TAX QUESTION simply and systematically solved, the Senate and House could turn their attention to the relief of unemployment.

This must be done by expanding instead of contracting the program of public works.

A prosperity bond issue of five billion dollars would be sufficient to relieve unemployment during the period of depression and to promote the quick return of normally prosperous conditions.

Here again it seems wholly obvious and elemental that this money distributed to the unemployed in wages upon government work will immediately be spent in the purchase of commodities which these workers urgently need.

The production and disposal of these commodities would give employment to hundreds of thou-

HONOLULU, T. H., May 3.—A secret conference has been held between members of the Hawaiian Attorney General's office and Sanford Wood, United States Attorney here, to consider a pardon for the four convicted "honor slayers," it was learned today.

Wood, it was reported, has been instructed by Attorney General Mitchell to inquire into the situation, but principals in the mysterious parley which may spell freedom for the four Americans refused comment.

Efforts here to erase the stigma of conviction imposed on Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue and two sailors accused of killing Joseph Kahahawai coincided with the movement in Congress to reverse the decision of the mixed blood jury.

BALTIMORE'S VOTERS KILL BLUE LAWS

Record Majority Polled For Legalizing Sports, Entertainment on Sundays

BALTIMORE, May 3.—(AP.)—Baltimore can go to its moving picture shows, buy a loaf of bread or go to a baseball game legally Sunday for the first time in history.

By the most overwhelming vote ever registered on a question, the voters yesterday repealed the state's 200-year-old blue laws, insofar as they applied to the city, in a special election which overshadowed the presidential primary between President Hoover and former Senator Joseph I. France.

Baltimoreans cast 142,000 votes on the question, and passed the repeal by a majority of 83,990, while the entire state put but 41,000 ballots into the boxes on the presidential question.

25-YEAR FIGHT

The repeal become effective upon passage of the referendum, which was authorized by the last session of the Legislature after a 25-year battle by the city to gain the right to decide its Sabbath observance independent of the more conservative county elements.

Always Baltimore met defeat in the legislative halls, being outvoted by the counties, although the city was one-half the population of the state. At the 1931 session, however, city delegates succeeded in gaining the right to vote on the question in the most bitter fight of the entire meeting.

BY POPULAR VOTE

The Legislature passed an enabling act, under which the city Council of Baltimore passed an ordinance, through which Sunday sports, entertainments and restricted retail sales were permitted. The ordinance, the Legislature decreed, should be submitted to the electorate, and become effective, if passed, repealing the state laws in the city.

It was the ordinance which was passed yesterday, after the Court of Appeals ruled, over the objection of the Lord's Day Alliance and other conservative organizations, that the legislative act and the council's action were legal.

BULLETIN.

BUTLER, Pa., May 3.—The Commonwealth landed a telling blow in the Kline-Succop trial this afternoon when it won from Deputy City Controller John Schlipp, Jr., testimony that no bids were asked for three costly rugs purchased by Mayor Kline for his office.

By M. V. BURGESS
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., May 3.—A warrant showing payment of $1,350 for a rug in the office of Mayor Charles H. Kline was excluded from the evidence in the trial of Kline and his ousted supplies director, B. L. Succop, on malfeasance charges, by the court today.

This was done, the court explained, because Council had authorized the payment by a two-thirds vote, although no bids were asked.

A contract for automobile tires, intended as a link in the chain of evidence against Mayor Kline and Director Succop is missing, the prosecution revealed.

This came shortly after the Commonwealth was victorious in its fight to introduce in evidence a mass of documents purporting to show that Kline and Succop had ignored the law in awarding contracts to other than the lowest bidder and on trick specifications.

Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed told the court that the contract between the city and the Glick Auto Supply Company, made in May, 1930, had disappeared from the city controller's office, as he tried to establish over strenuous objections of the defense, that

HIRSH DECISION ON OPENING VOTE MACHINE BOOKS AWAITED

ACTION RESTS ON ADVICE OF COUNSEL

Conference on New Phase of $1,000,00[illegible] On Absence of M'Govern

Final decision as to whether county investigators will be given voluntary permission to inspect the records of the Electromatic Voting Machine Company, sales agent for the Poole Engineering and Machine Company in its $1,000,000 voting machine order from Allegheny County, will be made late today.

Attorney H. D. Hirsh sought by the investigators for several days after his promise to deliver the records, informed Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank that he and Attorney Oliver K. Eaton were studying the records in Eaton's office this morning. He said surrender of the books depended on Eaton's decision.

CONFERENCE POSTPONED

Eaton late yesterday was called into conference with Frank, County Solicitor J. F. Fife, Duane R. Dills, of New York, counsel for the Commercial Credit Company, C. G. Hopkins, an official of the company; Commissioners W. D. Mansfield and C. M. Barr and Attorney Alex P. Lindsay, counsel for the Citizens' Committee, on another phase of the voting machine matter.

Another conference, set for today, was postponed when it was found Commissioner C. C. McGovern could not attend.

After yesterday's conference Dills issued a statement in which he said:

"The Commercial Credit Company has been mentioned in the public press and at the examination of Proctor Brady, president of the Poole Engineering and Machine Company. The company's position in this matter should be clearly understood. It came into this picture because of the fact that the Poole Company secured money from Commercial Credit and assigned its account with Allegheny County as security.

COULD REFUSE REPAIRS

"The last $400,000 paid by Allegheny County under the court order in the mandamus proceeding was assigned at the time the order was made. The court required a bond which was given by the Home Indemnity Company. This bond is payable only when and if the Maryland Casualty Company first performed on its $200,000 bond with Allegheny County. The Maryland Casualty Company so far has done nothing.

"If the Commercial Credit Company chose to do so it could refuse to proceed in reconditioning the voting machines. However, it has provided funds to put the machines in the required condition.

"The Commercial Credit Company is doing this work to keep faith with Allegheny County and it will continue to do so."

TELLS OF CASH PAYMENT

Hopkins, of the Commercial company, asked about the payment by the Poole company of $21,000 in cash to Hirsh September 24 in the office of the company at Baltimore said:

"Mr. Hirsh asked for this payment in cash. He would not sign a receipt for it and I made a notation on the receipt: 'Delivered in my presence.' Hirsh did not explain why he wanted the cash."

Hirsh's explanation to newspapermen at Baltimore of the cash demand was:

"They wanted to give me stock or a check. But circumstances surrounding the matter made it advisable in my judgment to get the cash."

home the shooting occured, said he was awakened by a violent argument. As he awoke, he said he overheard one of the men say:

"There ain't no police out here."

DARED TO SHOOT

Looking out a window, Kanary said he saw Moses, swinging his gun and cursing, Moses said:

"You hit me. If you move I'll shoot."

County Detectives began a search for a man and a woman whom Moses "flagged" as he talked with his alleged slayers.

Joseph Matthews, a railways repairman, of 1712 Mary street, said the second machine turned in front of the car barn and stopped alongside of Moses. Moses spoke to the occupants and, as it departed, turned to the other machine.

Matthews said:

"I saw the two machines stop about 100 feet from the car barn. One machine had apparently been forced against the curb by the other. As they stopped, the occupant of the first machine left it and walked back, a gun in one hand and flashlight in the other. As Moses walked back, one of the occupants got out and said:

"'You ain't going to get away with this.'"

"Turning to his companion, he said:

"'Come on out. This wise guy is looking for trouble.'"

"Three shots were then fired and Moses fell to the ground."

BADGE FOUND

Moses was dressed in riding breeches with leather puttees and wore a light overcoat and a cap. He wore nothing that would distinguish him as a policeman.

The dead officer's automobile bore evidence of having been in a recent collision. Constables D. H. McRoberts, of Pine Township, and Carl Hildebrand, of Reserve Township, however, said the accident occurred last Wednesday, discounting the theory that Constable Moses may have been pursuing a hit-and-run driver.

Moses had been constable in Ross Township for the past 12 years. In addition to his present duties he was employed as night watchman by Allegheny County patrolling the Butler road.

He was married and leaves his widow, Mrs. Florence Moses, two children, Mrs. Genevieve Rickley and William V. Moses and two adopted children, all at home at 4439 Lucenne avenue, Ross Township.

Three men grappled with a prohibition agent early today in the Showboat, a cabaret at Fullerton street and Wylie avenue formerly known as the Little Paris, and attempted to wrest from him a half-pint of liquor he had purchased from an employe, the raiders reported.

All three were arraigned before a United States commissioner this afternoon and held for court under $2,000 bail each.

3 DEMOCRATS BATTLE TODAY IN CALIFORNIA

Roosevelt, Garner and Smith Seek Delegation; Each Group Sure of Victory

Associated Press.

A primary vote was on today in California which may come near settling the Democratic party's choice for President.

The state which only twice has gone Democratic in a presidential contest since 1896, was given the opportunity to arbitrate between Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and John N. Garner. Supporters of all three claimed victory.

This significant primary came on the heels of an unusual Republican contest. Yesterday in Maryland President Hoover grasped by a good margin the preferential vote from his one campaign opponent on the latter's home soil. Apparently it spelled the end of former Senator Joseph I. France's single-handed campaign for the nomination, heretofore ignored by the Hoover forces.

Yesterday also the Democratic State Convention of Rhode Island gave the state's 10 votes to Smith. He now ranks third among the party's candidates with 46 votes, 12 behind the "favorite son" strength of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois. Roosevelt has 279.

Garner Men Confident Of Winning California

By JOSEPH TIMMONS

LOS ANGELES, May 3.—Confidence in the election of the Garner delegation to the Democratic National Convention was universal among the leaders in the California fight for the nomination of the Speaker today.

John B. Elliott, manager of the campaign in Southern California, declared that tests in all the more populous counties in the state in the last few days show an astonishing swing to Garner, and added:

"Our ticket, headed by William Gibbs McAdoo, will receive a huge plurality in Los Angeles City and County, where the great Democratic votes is registered."

Henry H. McPike, of San Francisco, former Democratic state chairman and manager of the Northern California Garner campaign, in a statement today, declared:

"That Speaker Garner has won the Democratic delegation from this state is a certainty."

'COURT' GOING TO GIRL'S HOME

A judge, jury, court attaches and witnesses were to be taken to the home of Olive Davis, 12, of 1005 Wymore street, Elliott, today to take the child's testimony in a statutory case brought against three youths by her parents.

Olive, missing from her home for 10 days early in 1931, came home and named Michael Carr, Martin O'Hara and Vincent Gray, all of Homestead, as three of several men who had taken her to rooming houses and mistreated her. Since then she has been in a nervous condition, which has prevented calling of the trial.

Judge Elder W. Marshall, presiding in Criminal Court, this morning ordered the trial to be started and directed the court to be moved to the girl's home until her testimony was taken, then returned to the courtroom for the remainder of the proceedings.

County autos will carry the court personnel to the home.

sands of other workers, who in turn would spend their wages in buying necessary commodities.

THIS INCREASE IN PURCHASING power and in actual buying, and consequent selling and resultant manufacture, would start the wheels of industry in motion, revive business, and tend to restore prosperity.

The essentials of the situation in this economic crisis are to increase incomes and enlarge purchasing power, and so promote prosperity, and not to aggravate and intensify the depression by decreasing incomes and diminishing purchasing power.

Surely the intelligent American citizens in the Senate and House have enough clearness of vision and enough patriotic concern for their country to recognize their obligation to the community and to perform it without further aimless confusion and disastrous delay.

BONUS SPONSOR MAKES ATTACK ON MILLS

Declares Treasury Head Would Profit Millions by Proposed Estate Levies

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, charged before the House Ways and Means Committee today that a flood of "inspired propaganda" had been loosed in the country against the cash bonus payment.

A leading sponsor of the $2,000,000,000 new money outlay, Patman's testimony marked the close of all hearings. The committee will meet behind closed doors Thursday to begin consideration of the bills offered.

SHOWS ADS

Patman presented huge newspaper advertisements against the bonus. He said:

"I have tried to find who is paying for them, but cannot. The newspapers will only say they received $375 for printing it."

Patman also said pressure had been brought on legion posts to prevent them from favoring cash redemption of the bonus certificates.

ATTACKS MILLS

Patman then swung into an attack upon Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, who has been opposing the bonus and charged that a retroactive estate tax provision of the House tax bill "will be equal to an inside burglary of the Treasury," under which Secretary Mills "will profit by many millions of dollars" under a revaluation of his father's estate. The Texan said:

"Mr. Mills has charged the proponents of this measure and all who are supporting it with attempting to make a raid upon the Treasury; that we have a dishonest device, which, of course, can only be conceived by dishonest people.

"Such a charge comes with poor grace from Mr. Mills. If we are attempting to raid the Treasury, which we deny, we are doing it in the broad daylight by laying all of our cards on the table face up and by getting legislative approval backed by public support after all the facts are known."

Slash of Vets' Benefits Attacked in Congress

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—What to do about benefits to World War veterans—one of the most controversial items of the economy bill—was debated today by the House in an effort to reach a final vote on the federal retrenchment measure by nightfall.

Meanwhile, the Senate attempted to reach a decision on whether to take up for action the bill by Chairman Hale, of the Naval Committee, for a construction program to bring the American fleet up to the limits of the London treaty.

House insurgents opposed proposals to reduce veterans' benefits by $48,714,000, as contained in the economy bill. Their drive against certain provisions of the measure has left only a skeleton of the bill which was intended to reduce expenses by $200,000,000.

TYPICAL BUTLER COUNTY JURY TRYING KLINE, SUCCOP

3 LINKED WITH POLITICS OF DISTRICT

Kin of Mayor, Daughter of Ex-Treasurer on Panel; One Man Official at Polls

BUTLER, Pa., May 3.—It is a typical Butler County jury which holds the fate of Mayor Kline and his former director of supplies, Bertram L. Succop, on trial here for malfeasance in office.

Mrs. Nellie Heineman is related to Mayor Heineman, listed in the panel as a clerk. Mrs. J. E. Beighley, housekeeper, is the daughter of Thomas Alexander, one-time county treasurer.

Bert Kildoo, of Clay Township, investigators say, served on the election board last month in his district.

James Donnelly, of Parkers Landing, testified during his examination that he was acquainted with May Daugherty, of Pittsburgh, and William Cook, of Hilliard, two of the eight indicted in the grand jury investigation of an alleged jury plot last March. He said, however, that he knew these two defendants only slightly.

H. W. Badger, a married man, is a member of an old Butler County family. He is a bricklayer.

Harry A. Dickey, Butler Township laborer, is married and is well known to Butler County officials. W. S. Gill is a farmer. He lives in Brady Township. R. E. Palmer has worked in various parts of the county as a stationary engineer. He lives in the rural community of Burton Heights.

Mrs. Mary Smith, wife of a Butler Township driller, and Mrs. Clara Nicklas, wife of an Evans City farmer, are the other two women on the jury.

Second Jury 'Fix' Plot Believed Foiled

BUTLER, Pa., May 3.—Butler County's second alleged jury tampering plot is believed to have been nipped in the bud yesterday with the disclosure of two arrests at the outset of the Kline-Succop trial.

Investigators for District Attorney Edgar H. Negley's office and the Allegheny County Citizens' Committee are understood to have canvassed the entire panel of 60 persons from which the jury was chosen, and it was unofficially reported that only two prospective jurors had been approached.

W. DeWitt McBride, local realtor, was still held in jail on an embracery charge, but Charles H. Flick, another realtor, of Bakerstown, was released under $2,000 bond, pending a hearing Thursday night.

Of the persons called for jury service, J. J. Brown, of West Sunbury, is the only one said to have been approached. Efforts are said to have been made to reach him through a relative. The check for $75 from a Pittsburgh attorneys, which Flick held when arrested, is said to be legitimate, but seluths are still holding it.

Poor Funds Stolen From Pastor's Home

CHICAGO, May 3.—(INS.)—Two "meanest" bandits were sought by police today. They forced their way into the home of the Rev. Theodore Siemon, terrorized the minister's daughter and a young man caller, and fled with $30 collected for a poor fund.

Weather Conditions.

The eastern high is centered over Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia this morning, while another high appears over Manitoba. Low pressure stretches from north of Lake Superior southwestward over the plains states to New Mexico, thence northwestward to the Far Northwest. This distribution of pressure is causing clear skies over the Atlantic Coast states and westward to Ohio, while west of Ohio cloudiness prevails and it is raining in Wisconsin and Illinois. Showers were general over the central plains states yesterday and last night. It is cooler than yesterday over the Atlantic Coast states and warmer over the Mississippi Valley states. Light to heavy frost was general over Eastern New York, Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, West Virginia and southward over the mountains to Northern Georgia. In the Pittsburgh district temperatures as low as 27 degrees occurred this morning.

Kline, Former Judge, Finds Court Routine Irksome, But Twits Succop

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

BUTLER, May 3.—Mayor Kline has a "crick" in his back and Bertram L. Succop, the man he fired as director of supplies, has a stiff knee and the trial has just begun.

Kline, for many years a judge and more recently used to a sumptuously furnished office, with Oriental rugs, soft-cushioned chairs and all the trimmings, finds it hard to get used to hard-backed courtroom furniture and long hours of tedious routine.

Succop, who has been spending his time in his South Side real estate office since quitting the director of supplies' job, finds it just as uncomfortable.

The Mayor, however, insists he is bearing up under the strain better than his former director. Chaffing Succop at the dinner table last night, he laughingly remarked:

"Bert, old boy, when you and I came to Butler last March the newspapers said you had a smile and I looked pretty tough. We're even now—look at that frown on your pan.

"I am always smiling now. Did you see those pictures in the paper today?"

The Mayor said he found court routine tiresome as well as uncomfortable. He said:

"You know down in the city when I have to sit through a long session I can always drop out once in a while to freshen up a bit. There's nothing like a brisk dash of cold water on the face and a brisk tooth wash to freshen up."

The director laughed. He said:

"All right then, Mr. Mayor—even if I have a stiff knee, I'll run you a race around the block or ride in a horse race with you."

The Mayor declined but the horse race was quickly seconded by Attorney Zeno Henniger, one of Kline's counsel, who is active among a group of Butler County horsemen who ride here daily.

He invited the Mayor and his party to accompany the local group on their next Sunday morning ride. Both Succop and Kline declined.

In unison, they replied:

DENY CONTRACT EXISTED

District Attorney Andrew T. Park told newspapermen that the contract had been missing since before the grand jury investigation. He could not explain its disappearance but indicated that he did not believe it had been stolen.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard, for the defense, contended strongly that the Glick written contract could not be missing because it never existed on paper—which has been his contention on all of them.

Reed admitted that the Mayor had not signed the contract but denied the defense statement that Succop's signature was absent.

The court recessed for lunch at 1 p. m. (Pittsburgh time), after Reed had introduced three city checks payable to A. Nathanson and Sam Adler for city contracts.

Reed contends these checks found their way into the bank account of Marcus & Co., a firm which was unapproved for city contracts. The commonwealth charges that Succop knew these men represented Marcus when they entered bids in their own names.

FIGHT TO QUASH FAILS

The defense lost its bitter fight to have the court outlaw 24 counts, dealing with city meat contracts, when Judge Thomas D. Finletter, after a private conference with counsel of both sides, announced the commonwealth would be permitted to present whatever evidence it had and that he would rule later what testimony, if any, was to be eliminated as irrelevant.

Because of the defense objections, Judge Finletter said:

"I note the objection and will grant an exception. That applies to all these papers."

City Clerk Robert Clark was in the courtroom today.

He said he has the original copy of the letter which Reed said yesterday was initialed "OK. C. H. K."

IDENTIFIES SIGNATURE

Deputy City Controller John Schilpp, Jr., who was on the stand yesterday, was recalled today as the second day of the trial started. He was shown a number of tabulation sheets and identified the signature on them as that of Succop.

Attorney Reed offered in evidence a long series of contracts and vouchers. Judge Finletter examined each one.

The Mayor, still minus his spats, and seemingly carefree, sat at the counsel table near his co-defendant, Succop, whom he dismissed as director of supplies, both charged with malfeasance in office.

The counts which the defense sought to have quashed are those based on meat bids of the A. L. Brahm Company and comprise more than half the counts in the joint indictment.

Judge Finletter ruled it is unnecessary for the prosecution to prove a formal contract for the meats existed, but it must show some sort of an informal contract. Judge Finletter said to Reed:

"You must show a written bid was made and orally accepted, and you have not shown it was orally accepted."

'AVERAGE' BIDS

The bid was awarded on the average price basis. In some instances the city received bids as low as 1 cent a pound on sirloin steak, which were rarely purchased, and paid as high as 70 cents a pound for veal cutlet, which was ordered in considerable quantity, it was revealed in figures made public at the time of the audit of the Supplies Department.

Park in describing the meat contracts in his talk to the jury said:

Attorney C. B. Prichard objected for the defense, declaring Park was arguing the case in his presentation. Judge Finletter sustained the objection.

Later, when Reed attempted to identify the meat contracts through John Schilpp, deputy controller, the defense blocked his efforts.

The office of the City Controller was blamed by Zeno Henninger, attorney for the defense, for any irregularities in bids.

Kidnapers of Youth Sought Despite Plea

CHICAGO, May 3.—(INS.)—Despite his family's plea that official activity be dropped, police today scoured Chicago's West Side for traces of the kidnapers of Gustav Miller, 23, son of a wealthy Joliet (Ill.) merchant.

Although declaring he cannot pay the $50,000 ransom asked by the gang, Max Miller, Gustav's father, said he preferred to deal with the abductors without police intervention.

He learned, believe it or not, that Pittsburgh had been arrested—a man named Pittsburgh—and told in his radio address about a Pittsburgh district man who had just finished engraving on the head of a small nail Lincoln's entire Gettysburg address.

AIDES RELIEF DRIVE

He then dashed to the William Penn Hotel headquarters to speak to the leaders in the Family-Help-Family movement.

While there, he will say hello to some former buddies—the baseball writers. Some years ago he covered the Giants.

Carnegie Tech's Little Theater will see him at 4:30 o'clock, while at 6 he will be the guest of S. M. Kinniner, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. He and his party will visit the research laboratories of the Westinghouse company, East Pittsburgh, at 7 o'clock.

Ripley will leave for New York on a late train, being scheduled for a radio program there tomorrow.

LINDY REPORTED ABOARD YACHT

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT,
International News Service.

NORFOLK, Va., May 3—With reports that Col. Lindbergh was aboard only partially denied, the yacht Marcon was ready to put out to sea today on a cruise termed the crucial one in negotiations of Norfolk men to recover the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Today's trip, provided the Marcon gets under way, will mark the fourth time the 85-foot Diesel-motored craft has sailed from the port of Norfolk with a view to winding up efforts of the Norfolk negotiators to return the stolen infant to its parents.

Twice bad weather drove the boat to shelter after she started out. John Hughes Curtis, shipbuilder and chief of the Norfolk negotiators for the baby, was confident that this trip would bring an end to his wearying work. So, too, were associates of Curtis—Edwin B. Bruce, retired Elmira (N. Y.) banker, formerly of Portsmouth, Va.; Lieut. George L. Richard, Navy airman, who has piloted Curtis on his flights in connection with the negotiations; the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, rector of Christ's Episcopal Church here, and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired.

2 Queens to Visit New Yorkers Abroad

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 3.—(AP.)—Robert College, the famous American institution on the Bosporus, is to receive two queens at once tomorrow.

The Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania and her daughter, the Queen of Jugoslavia, are coming to visit their old frends, Prof. and Mrs. George Huntington and Mr. and Mrs. Theron Damon, of New York. The Jugoslavian Queen is traveling incognito and there will be no state receptions.

VOLPE INDICTED ON DRY CHARGE

Louis Volpe, of the political Volpes, and two others were indicted by a federal grand jury this afternoon, charged with four specific sales of liquor.

Volpe, one of the family which until recently controlled the politics of Wilmerding as the Republican bosses of the borough, was fined $100 in 1927 after he had pleaded guilty to a similar charge, the indictment stated.

The others indicted today are Alfredo Corleto and W. M. Wallace, both of Wilmerding.

The three are accused of selling undercover prohibition agents one drink of whisky August 20, half a pint August 25, three half pints on September 22 and five gallons September 28. All of the sales, according to the indictment, were in Wilmerding.

Damage by Frost Held Slight Here

A heavy frost, accompanied by a drop in the temperature to an official 35 and to 27 in some outlying districts, covered blossoming fruit trees and housetops this morning.

Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said he believed the damage would be small, partly because of the profuseness of the fruit blossoms this year, although the extent could not be determined for several days.

The mercury rose rapidly with indications of mounting into the 60s late today, probably followed by showers and warmer tomorrow.

BRITISH FLIER CHARGED WITH MURDER

Mrs. Keith-Miller's Friend Admits Forging Suicide Notes, Police Declare

MIAMI, Fla., May 3.—(AP.)—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British flier, was in jail today charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Haden Clark, writer and fiance of Mrs. Jessie Keith Miller, woman aviator. Authorities said Lancaster has confessed to forging two suicide notes.

The flier was detained yesterday on a warrant sworn to by State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne, who said he probably would go before the Dade County grand jury today to seek an indictment. Hawthorne has exonerated Mrs. Keith Miller, in whose home the two men were guests at the time of the shooting, April 21. He said she would be called as a grand jury witness.

DENIES KILLING

Hawthorne, who described the relation of the trio before the shooting as forming a "love triangle," said Lancaster confessed in the face of statements by a handwriting expert that he wrote the two notes, addressed to himself and Mrs. Keith-Miller, but denied killing the writer. Lancaster, Hawthorne said, explained he wrote the notes to remove suspicion from Mrs. Keith-Miller and himself.

When Clarke was shot, he was collaborating with Mrs. Keith-Miller in writing her life story for publication. It was during this work that their romance began.

Upon their decision to marry, each wrote letters to Capt. Lancaster, then in St. Louis. After telegraphing his congratulations and asking them to postpone their marriage until he might arrive to act as best man, Lancaster came here hurriedly by airplane on April 20. The next night Clarke was shot.

PARTNERS FOR YEARS

Lancaster and Mrs. Kieth-Miller were held three days while police conducted their first inquiry. The fliers have been partners since a flight from England to Australia in 1927. Mrs. Kieth-Miller told Hawthorne that love finances caused her to solicit Clarke's aid in writing her life story.

Since the shooting the aviatrix has affirmed her love for Clarke but maintained her belief he took his own life. She told the prosecutor:

"I am surprised you did not believe Capt. Lancaster and me."

"It came as a great shock to me. I am absolutely innocent, and I know the outcome will prove this.

"Mrs. Miller is a devoted friend, and she at the right and proper time will tell the truth about the death of Hader Clarke, so far as she knows it."

WOMAN BANDIT SLAIN IN FIGHT

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 3.—(AP.)—A young woman dressed in black was shot dead here today as she fled from a drug store holdup.

The druggist, J. H. Jackson, declared he shot her as she hurried from the place with about $10 of his money. She was identified by L. J. Hilbert, police auto theft bureau operative, as Lena Hurt, 25. Hilbert said she had been arrested previously on vagrancy and drunkenness charges.

"Give me your money."

Jackson complied, and the woman ran from the store. The druggist seized his pistol and followed, firing from the doorway. The first bullet went wild and the woman wheeled about. Jackson said he fired again, and she fell, a bullet in her head.

GIBBONS URGES WASHINGTON 'HONOR' PLEA

Mighty Appeal to Congress To Save Massie Group Is Needed, Declares Writer

By FLOYD GIBBONS

NEW YORK, May 3.—Hello everybody!

Ten years' imprisonment—the law's absolute limit—for those four unfortunates in the Fortescue-Massie honor slaying! Ten years in prison for that dazed and bedeviled young naval lieutenant whose avenging trigger finger rid this world of probably as abysmal a brute as ever befouled it.

Ten years in prison for the mother of that young wife who was the victim first of a horrible crime, and then of a campaign of slander hardly less vile. Ten years for those loyal young sailors, too.

The limit! The outside limit! By the Almighty, are we going to stand by and let such things happen? Are we no longer Americans? No longer free and white? Are all the mainland millions of us in a class with those seven white men of the Massie jury who let five yellow and brown men swing a verdict directly against the sympathies of the whole civilized world?

WRITE TO WASHINGTON

I don't think so. I won't think so. I know better. And so I'm going to ask all you boys and girls, who automatically line up on the side of right and decency—I'm going to urge you with every ounce of force at my command—to throw your weight against this frightful miscarriage of justice.

You have the power—make it felt, and make it felt now. Down in Washington, in Congress, certain of our lawmakers have already introduced bills aimed at canceling the verdict that five little men of Pacific races imposed on seven full-sized white Americans. Get behind those bills, boys and girls! Grab yourself a telegraph blank or a sheet of note paper—or even a postal card.

Write or wire your representatives in the Senate and the House to do what they can not only to knock down that verdict but to make life safe for our American women in Hawaii.

MUST BE LIGHTENED

And something else. We ought to press Congress—you and I, all of us—to put Hawaii under military rule. Under the combined rule, maybe, of the United States Army and the United States Navy. That can't be done too soon.

We want the policing of our Pacific Gibraltar taken out of politics. We want disciplined and well-officered soldiers and sailors patrolling those perilous streets for the protection of our women, not a motley and undependable force running so strongly to Asiatics and half-castes.

We've got to make Hawaii American and keep it American, if we're not some day suddenly to find ourselves without our protective outpost in the Pacific, and our West Coast exposed to hostile raiders.

HAWAII PARDON PARLEY HELD

with Kahahawai of attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie.

The retrial of the remaining defendants in the Ala Moana attack case has been tentatively set for May 23.

Threats against the men accused with Kahahawai have been openly expressed on the streets of Honolulu as a result of the manslaughter convictions against the four Americans.

The four half-caste, Horace Ida, Ben Ahakuelo, Henry Chang and David Takai, have persisted in their claim of innocence, asserting they were victims of mistaken identity.

Their first trial ended with a hung jury, precipitating the killing of Kahahawai in what Lieut. Massie said was an effort to secure a confession of the attack.

MASSIE TO TESTIFY

Lieut. Massie and other naval officers will be called to the witness stand in the re-trial by the prosecution, it was learned. They will be asked to describe events at the dance preceding the attack in anticipation of the expected attempt of the defense again to assail the character of Mrs. Massie.

Territorial government officials feel that a vigorous and intelligent presentation of the evidence at the retrial will be necessary to offset the unfavorable reaction on the mainland to the "honor slaying" verdicts.

House Committee to Push Massie Case Bills

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—Two measures resulting from the Massie attack case in Hawaii will be considered by the House Judiciary Committee in executive session Thursday.

It reached that decision today after hearing Seth Richardson, assistant attorney general, who has made a personal survey of conditions in Hawaii.

One of the measures, by Representative Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, would give a congressional pardon to all four defendants convicted of manslaughter in the death of Joseph Kahahawai. The other, approved yesterday by the Senate, would prevent persons in Hawaii from being freed in criminal cases if two juries were unable to agree.

Committee members indicated they would favor the Senate bill.

HORNE SINGERS IN CONCERT

The annual spring concert of the Joseph Horne Company Chorus will be presented Thursday night in the Nixon Theater. 90 voices composing the program, which is announced as being unusual, through the absence of solo numbers.

The chorus members are all employes of the company. They are being directed by L. A. Hubach, who has led church choirs in Kansas City, Chicago and here, and is a divisional merchandise manager of the store. Accompanists will be Clark Moss and Dale Phillips.

The chorus was organized five years ago through the efforts of A. H. Burchfield, president of the store and honorary president of the chorus. Many of its singers are well known in local musical circles, including Miss Angelina Casale, Max Kroen, Edward Kroen, Will Rhodes, Ray Hodgdon, Warren Kinder, Brindley Jones and Orville Draper.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

If You Want Friends You Must Be One Yourself

She's pretty and bright—admits it herself—also accomplished. She plays the piano, golfs, swims, drives a car.

See if you can. See if you'd like to chum up with Lois.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"Like so many helpless creatures, I ask—What is wrong with me?

"I am 16 and attractive if I care to look that way, but most of the time I dress plainly and neatly, and don't bother about make-up. I am very interested in school. I was nine when I started grammar school, and now at 16 I am in my first semester at high.

"Naturally, I haven't time for many good times because I am always busy if not with school work, then with my music. I teach a piano class on Saturdays, and other things come up, too, that make it impossible sometimes for me to go out and enjoy myself at all.

"Don't think I am all work and no play. I have my little good times, too. I go to a movie with my mother and my only good girl chum, Helen. I go golfing, riding and swimming, and drive our car. I have taken all this time telling you about myself, so you can see my faults.

HAS FEW FRIENDS

"And now here is the troublesome item:

"Why can't I make more true friends—both boys and girls? Many boys and girls tell me I am 'too busy to bother with them,' but how can I waste my time on their silly, good-for-nothing chatter? They talk of nothing useful. Everything is silly and not educational.

"I don't have friends—not until something needs to be done and they can get me to help them. Then they call and beg and plead for me to please do these things for them. After it is all over I have a carload of friends who call me once or twice, then drop out, for of course, I must refuse them because I can't let my studies go. So I don't hear from them again till they want more favors.

I have a choice. I guess between friends and education, and what sensible person wouldn't choose the education? But what shall I do? I am in desperate need of help. What is wrong? LOIS."

What is wrong? You are, honey. And you don't have friends for the simple reason that you are refusing to be one.

ELUDING EDUCATION

You're pushing folks away, sitting in judgment on them, feeling superior to them. You wouldn't be a friend yourself to anyone who treated you that way.

"But they seem so silly!" you wail, and who wouldn't choose education rather than them!"

For real education doesn't come from books. It comes from living—living with people. Not a few selected "worth while" people, but just regular, everyday, ordinary, human people, with all their "silliness" and commonness and normal human moods.

Actually these young people whom you despise are much more normal than you and will make better citizens, for they are better balanced. Their silliness, their lightness of mood, their excitement about love and fun, are as necessary for growth as your heavy thinking. And unless you share their moods, you'll end by being a pain-in-the-neck to yourself and everyone who knows you.

So if you want friends be one, Lois.

And if you want to know life, live it.

Today Offers No "Outstanding Beauty" and There's a Reason

By FAY KING

When we speak of beauty these days, there is not one lovely woman's name who comes instantly to mind, as Lillian Russell's did in her day.

In a dozen shows and 100 movies we see beautiful faces that we admire.

But even those who have attained the spotlight of fame do not stand far and beyond comparison with pretty faces we see in shops and offices and audiences.

Twenty years ago only professional beauties dared resort to those little touches of enhancement that improved even the loveliest features and most perfect complexion.

And so they seemed ever so much lovelier, because of the contrast provided by the majority of women in private life, who dared do nothing to improve themselves.

End Play Problems

Problem 7 and its solution are given below. How many tricks can Y-Z take against the best play of A-B? There are no-trumps. Y is the leader.

Note that there is no way of gaining re-entry to Y's hand in case Z once gains the lead. To win four of the five tricks, proceed as follows: Lead Y's Q of diamonds, and discard Z's Ace of hearts. B's best discard is his lowest club; if B discards a spade of course Y can win two immediate tricks of that suit, by discarding Z's Ace of spades, instead of his Ace of hearts, on the first lead. Having discarded Z's Ace of hearts on the first lead, Y forces B to discard again, by leading his J of hearts (the dummy already having discarded the Ace of hearts, and B having discarded his lowest club). B must discard either a spade from the 8-6 or a club from the 8-6. Dummy will discard from the same suit that B does. In case B discards a club, Y-Z will win all the remaining tricks; Z will discard a low club, Y will lead a spade and the Ace of spades held by Z and his two clubs will win three tricks.

B's best discard is his lowest spade. Then Z's Ace of spades can be discarded upon the Jack of hearts, giving Y two spade tricks, by obliging Y to yield a diamond trick to A. Another way that the hand can be played for four tricks out of the five cards shown is this: when B comes to discard either from his two spades or his two clubs, on the second lead from Y's hand; if B discards a spade, Y can discard a club from dummy; then Z's Ace of spades will win a trick, and his 9 of clubs will win the fourth trick, but B must win the fifth trick with his 8 of clubs.

The answer to the problem is Y-Z can win four out of five tricks against the best possible defense of A-B.

PROBLEM 8 — Hearts are trumps. Z is to lead. Y-Z are to win six tricks against any defense. How can this be accomplished? The answer will appear next week.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Pre-Natal Care Essential to the Health of Infants

Dr. Copeland

During this very important period the health of the mother should be carefully guarded and any family tendency to tuberculosis or other constitutional diseases should be corrected as far as possible. Proper attention should be given to the mother's digestion, the condition of her mouth and teeth and especially to constipation or defective action of the kidneys. Symptoms such as dizziness, bright spots before the eyes, headaches and decreased secretion from the kidneys demand immediate attention by a physician.

When proper care has been given to the general health, supervision of the diet is the next step. Too frequently this important item is left to the fancy of the patient. The maternal organism must furnish material for the developing infant. If there is a lack of necessary elements in the food of the mother, both parent and child suffer. There is an old superstition that every child born means the loss of a tooth to the mother. In many cases this is based on fact, for the development of the baby's bony system requires certain minerals. If these are not present in the mother's diet, they must be supplied at the expense of her system.

During the early months of the period many women suffer nausea and other digestive disturbances. It is imperative at this time to guard against fatigue, excitement and worry, as well as indigestion. Constipation must be corrected and simple food should be taken in small amounts at rather short intervals. Severe nausea and vomiting may cause the development of excessive acidity, and to prevent this an abundance of base-forming foods is advisable. Milk, fruits and vegetables are useful, especially when combined with carbohydrates.

At the fifth and until the seventh month the growth of the infant requires an increase in the mother's diet and a rather bulky type of food, laxative in character. It must be rich in whole grain foods, together with milk, fruits and vegetables. Some preparation of cod liver oil or one of its substitutes is useful at this time. Formation of the teeth during this period requires minerals and vitamins to insure their proper mineral supply.

During the eighth and ninth months the growth of the infant is rapid and it is necessary that the nutrition of the mother should be at the maximum point. It has been estimated that 20 per cent more food should be taken during these months than at ordinary times.

Overeating, especially of fattening foods, must be avoided. Otherwise an overweight baby may cause unnecessarily difficult labor. Likewise, undue increase of weight in the mother, or kidney disturbances, may complicate the case. Meat and other animal protein food must not be taken in excess, but the maternal system must receive an adequate supply of nutriment rich in vitamins.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Letter to Family

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am writing to settle a dispute concerning a matter which I will explain below.

Mrs. Jones has a family of six children, three are married and have families of their own, living apart from Mrs. Jones and the other three are single and live at home with Mrs. Jones. A friend writes and addresses the letter to Mrs. Jones and family, and at the close of the letter writes "Best regards to your family." Just who is meant by the family? Does the "regards" include the children who are married and living apart from Mrs. Jones, and have children of their own or is it only for the unmarried children who live with Mrs. Jones? K.

It is never correct to address a letter, any more than it is correct to address an invitation or an announcement, to Mrs. . . . and family, or to Mr. and Mrs. . . . and family. For the reason that you indicate in your question; that this form leaves it uncertain as to whom this includes and how personal it is. In this case it would have been better for the writer to have written the letter to Mrs. Jones; therefore addressed it to Mrs. Jones only, and then have written her message to the members of Mrs. Jones' family. Undoubtedly she meant that her greeting should be given to all the Jones family by word of mouth to those living away from the Jones roof.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Coiffures smooth as glass on top, rippling in wide, fluid waves at sides and back, continue to be popular. Very satisfying to the gal whose permanent wave is growing out, getting away from her. Bobs stay at two or three inches below the neck line — the hair is curled upward and flat—or it has sufficient length to be arranged in two or three upturned rolls.

Few women know about the perfect comfort of sports shoes. Wearing them now and then is one way of developing a bitter hatred of spiked heels, which are a bit ridiculous in this age of hygiene and beauty sense. Women have progressed a step or two because they are wearing shoes of larger sizes, but as long as the spiked heels prevail there will be backaches and horrid-forward-thrown figures.

When a person places a Classified Ad in a newspaper, the idea in mind is to place the message before a large number of prospects. When your ad runs in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph it will go to the largest group of readers ever reached by any Pittsburgh newspaper. What have you to rent, sell or exchange?

SUPPORT OF ART WELCOMED BY CONNELLY

Opera Sponsor Appreciates Stand of Sun-Telegraph; Committee Being Formed

Eugene L. Connelly, one of Pittsburgh's sponsors of grand opera, warmly commends the Sun-Telegraph for its support of the cultural arts in Pittsburgh. He is particularly pleased with the editorial which appeared in last Friday's Sun-Telegraph. Mr. Connelly said:

"Your editorial in Friday evening's Sun-Telegraph, under the title "Opera for Pittsburgh" should strike a responsive chord in every civic-minded resident of Greater Pittsburgh, and especially arouse those who really care for and appreciate the cultural arts.

"The suggestion 'that to insure our having at least a few performances (of grand opera) next season, it would be well if a committee of sponsors were formed' prompts me to inform you that the nucleus of such a committee has been formed, and, a partial guarantee has already been pledged for a season of grand opera by the Chicago Civic Opera Company under my personal direction next spring.

"Loyal supporters of the brilliantly successful opera season of 1931, which I had the honor to manage, sponsored a series of performances which were to have been given in February, 1932, but when, for economic reasons and as a matter of public policy, these were deferred until 1933, practically all guarantors then under pledge voluntarily bound themselves as patrons for next year.

"We will, of course, require additional sponsors and your suggestion that the supporters of the orchestra concerts would be doing something well worth while for the city if they would also pledge their support to a brief season of grand opera is most timely.

"It would, indeed, be a fine gesture for these real music lovers to permit their names to be added to our guarantors.

"I thank you for your highly commendable and constructive editorial. Your conclusion that 'the fine arts should not be wholly neglected even in times like these is worthy of the spirit of civic enterprise that characterizes the attitude of the Sun-Telegraph at all times."

Col. Cameron C. Smith, 71, founder of the Union Steel Castings Company and director of several Pittsburgh corporations, died late yesterday on his way northward from his winter home at Eustis, Fla. He was retired.

Col. Smith died as the train neared Jacksonville.

The body will be brought to Pittsburgh, according to advices from Florida. It will be taken to his home here at 6127 Callery street.

BORN IN BUTLER

Col. Smith was born in Butler in 1861. After his graduation from Waynesburg College, he entered the employ of the Carnegie Steel Company as clerk. Later he became assistant to the president of the Reliance Steel Casting Company and in 1899 founded the Union Steel Castings Company.

During the World War he was business manager of the New York district for Ordnance and a member of the War Claims Board. He was commissioned lieutenant colonel.

Col. Smith was a trustee of Waynesburg College and a member of the American Iron and Steel Institute, American Society for Testing Materials, American Society Mechanical Engineers, Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania and the Army Ordnance Association. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and a thirty-second degree Mason.

MEMBER OF CLUBS

Active in club life, he was a member of the Duquesne Club, Stanton eights, Golf Club and Shorewood Country Club. He was also a contributor to the Literary Digest, the National Geographic, Iron Trade Review and Better omes and Garden.

He leaves his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Jay Willard Badgley, of Dunkirk, N. Y.

For many years he served as chairman of the board of the Union Steel Castings Company. He was also board chairman of the Pittsburgh Rolls Corporation and a director of the Potter Title and Trust Company and the Potter Mortgage Company. He was treasurer of the Duncan Land and Improvement Company.

German Vets Hike To Honor U. S. Dead

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 3.—(AP)—Two German war veterans are on a march of 400 miles to pay tribute to the men against whom they fought 15 years ago.

Carrying an American flag and the banner of the newly organized Buffalo branch of the German and Austrian Veterans of America, Lothar Mannheimer and Johann Koehler began their trek to the national cemetery at Arlington from Fort Erie, Ont. At Arlington they will unfurl the flag of their organization for the first time and will lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Child 'Showing Off' Burned to Death

EDMONTON, Alta., May 3.—(CNS.)—A little girl's love of "showing off" today had claimed her life as the price.

Sally Podgurny, 4, was eager to demonstrate to her sister, Sonya, 5, that she could make her dress burn. She applied a lighted match to it. Before help arrived the child was burned to death.

DUPLICATIONS AVOIDED BY RELIEF PLAN

'Help Family' Volunteers Assured of Careful Check By Harris Headquarters

Any person selecting a family to care for under the Family Help-Family plan of Senator Frank J. Harris, may be sure they are providing for someone who is not already obtaining aid from another source.

All that is necessary to provide for one family is to fill out the coupon in today's Sun-Telegraph and send it to the Family-Help-Family headquarters in the William Penn Hotel.

When the coupon is received there, a check is made through the social agencies' clearing house to determine whether or not the family already is being helped. This check will prevent any duplication of relief work. Persons signing a coupon will receive a call from a social worker who will complete the details.

Contributors who have no specific family in mind may have one assigned to them by the Family Welfare, the Jewish Family Welfare, the Salvation Army, the Lutheran Inner Mission, the Conference of Catholic Charities, the American Red Cross or the Association for the Improvement of the Poor.

Principals Urged To Promote Safety

Child safety measures in the new codified traffic ordinance were called to the attention of school principals today by Walter Rosenbaum, education section chairman of the Better Traffic Committee. He pointed out that with the approach of warm weather, playing in the streets is increasing and asked principals to instruct children in the elementary safety rules of the code.

During 1931 nearly 75 per cent, or 26 of the 36 children killed in traffic, were playing in the street or crossing between intersections, Rosenbaum said.

Illness of Mrs. Cox Reported Critical

Mrs. Julia Cox, mother of the Rev. James R. Cox, was reported critically ill in Mercy Hospital today. Father Cox, his brother, Dr. Earl J. Cox, and Mrs. Dennis Dwyer, a sister, and other relatives hurried to her bedside when her condition became alarming after an operation yesterday morning.

The illness has confined Mrs. Cox to the hospital for the last eight weeks.

Jacksonia Street Parking Ban Lifted

A "no parking" order on the south side of Jacksonia street, between Garfield street and Shields way, was ordered rescinded for a 60-day trial period today by Public Safety Director James M. Clark at the request of residents of the section.

The thoroughfare, 35 feet wide, is not materially affected by heavy traffic movements, and parking there does not interfere with the orderly flow of vehicles, Clark believes.

Farm Boy, Bride Held in Robbery

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—Ward Summerfield, former Rio (Wis.) farm boy, and his bride, Elvira, 18, were held for the grand jury on charges of robbery yesterday by Magistrate Thomas Aurelio. Bail for Summerfield was reduced from $25,000 to $10,000, and bail for his wife was reduced from $25,000 to $2,500. The couple was arrested last week after, it was charged, Summerfield attempted to rob a grocery store.

Father Cox Relief Moves Under Way; Farm Site To Be Revealed Soon

The two new movements to provide additional funds and food for the welfare activities of Father Cox among the unemployed are swinging into definite shape.

Within a day or two he will announce the location of "Coxtown," the new farming community he plans to establish. "Coxtown" is to furnish summer occupation for many of the residents of "Shantytown," and will also have garden plots reserved for needy families. These families will till and plant the soil for their own needs in the way of vegetables, selling the surplus to Father Cox to feed his breadline and the hundreds of distressed families now in his care.

Father Cox

The movements to "plant a row for Father Cox" and "reserve a tree for Father Cox" have met with ready response from the farmers and gardeners in Allegheny County. From this movement the "father of the jobless" expects to get a big supply of food to assist in taking care of his urgent needs next fall and winter.

From the returns already in, it is evident that the Father Cox Unemployment Fund will get substantial assistance from the subscription drive now being conducted by the Sun-Telegraph in which this fund gets a liberal commission for every new subscription turned in from his friends and admirers. The funds thus secured will help to feed from 2,500 to 3,000 unfortunate in his daily breadline at Old St. Patrick's and will also help to furnish baskets of food for hundreds of Pittsburgh families in distress.

If you wish to help Father Cox send in your order, either to Father Cox or to the Sun-Telegraph, to have this paper delivered to your home by carrier. A subscription blank will be found in this issue.

Use of Auto for Bath House Barred

PRIEST ASSISTS THOUSANDS

A report of activities among the unemployed, given out by Father James R. Cox last night, showed that during the last 77 weeks more than 43,000 pieces of clothing have been distributed to needy persons. Of this number, 23,000 were given to women and 20,000 to men.

During the period 1,110,933 meals have been served, and 168,492 baskets of food, 2,210 tons of coal and 19,681 gallons of milk distributed. In addition, 448 persons were provided medical treatment. Shoes were repaired for 2,139 persons, haircuts for 19,695 and shaves for 11,663.

Wedding Rings Lose Favor in England

LONDON — (AP) — There are fewer and fewer wedding rings among London newlyweds these days.

Seek Return of 5 Accused in Slaying

Indictments having been returned charging murder against five men in the slaying of Leroy Houze, a Negro, whose body was discovered in an old cistern at North Hills Estates, Perry highway, extradition papers were expected to be prepared today to return the suspects from Laurel, Miss.

The men, Webb Wilson, Charles Wilson, John Jenkins, R. C. Crumby and Percy McDonald, all Negroes, formerly employed at the estates, confessed the killing when arrested in Laurel with the automobile of the slain man, officials said.

Fisher Nominated Chamber Director

Preparations for the annual election of the Chamber of Commerce were begun last night. Twenty-four businessmen will be candidates for the office of director at the voting, Thursday, May 12. Twelve will be elected by the 5,000 members eligible to vote, to fill vacancies occurring on the directorate this month.

Former Gov. John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania; 12 presidents of Pittsburgh concerns, an attorney and two traffic experts are among those nominated. Allegheny County voting machines will be used in the election.

New Raglan Sleeves
Pattern 2335
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

Two very good reasons for the very smart effect on an otherwise very simple frock are the raglan sleeves and the pert tie ends. Red and white flat crepe made the frock, blue ribbon made the trimming.

Pattern 2335 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 40. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 36-inch fabric, 2¼ yards of 4-inch ribbon.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Your summer wardrobe can be planned easily and inexpensively with the assistance of our current 32-page FASHION CATALOG. The best of the season's afternoon, sports and evening frocks, lingerie, house dresses and kiddies' models all personally chosen by Anne Adams, are made available through this beautiful book. SEND FOR YOUR COPY TODAY. PRICE OF CATALOG, 15 CENTS. CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS. Address all mail and orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

ANTIQUE SILVER ON DISPLAY

Douglas Lorie of New York is exhibiting the James Robinson collection of eighteenth century English silver at the Junior League galleries through May 7. The collection has a considerable proportion of pre-Georgian items, dating from the Queen Anne period (1702-1714).

The Duke of Richmond's fruit bowl, made in 1705 by T. Ley is transitional and more elaborate in style and the articles definitely of the Queen Anne type. Of particular interest to collectors to whom the silversmith is as individual as a painter, will be the chocolate pot by Pierre Platel, father-in-law of the eminent designer, Paul Lamerie.

Made in 1708 for the Earl of Darnley, the piece epitomizes the simplicity of the Queen Anne style which depended upon structural design rather than decorative embellishment. The form was allowed to flow naturally without being broken into artificial curves. In the Queen Anne style of silver material and design are at their happiest moment of co-ordination.

Joliet Police Have Guns, No Bullets

JOLIET, Ill., May 3.—(INS)—Plenty of guns but no bullets. Such was the situation in Joliet's Police Department.

"I guess I'll have to send the patrolmen out armed with slingshots," said Chief Nicholas Fornango on being notified there was no money in the town treasury to pay for ammunition.

WOMEN HONOR MRS. HARRIS

Mrs. T. S. Harris, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Jewish Home for the Aged, Breckenridge avenue, was honored yesterday, her birthday, at a president's day reception at the old Brown mansion, Brown's Place, purchased a year ago to be the site for a new home for the Jewish aged. Nearly 300 women attended the meeting.

A musical program and tea followed Mrs. Harris' address. She is celebrating her sixth term in office. Assisting her were Mrs. J. H. Frank, chairman of the reception committee; Mrs. Charles Mandelblatt, chairman of the program committee; Mrs. S. Aronson, the oldest member of the auxiliary; Mrs. Ashinsky, wife of Rabbi Ashinsky, founder of the home, and Mrs. L. G. Rubenstein, chairman of publicity.

Ex-Ohio Publisher Dies in Florida

PALATKA, Fla., May 3.—(AP.)—Charles Edmund Gaumer, 55, former newspaper publisher of Ohio, died here after an operation. The body will be sent to Urbana, O., tomorrow for burial.

For several years, Gaumer published the Champaign Democrat, weekly publication at Urbana. He was also formerly assistant managing editor of the Marion Star, owned by Warren G. Harding.

Islam Grotto Host To Grand Monarch

Islam Grotto will be host to Charles E. Minsinger, of Portland, Ore., grand monarch of the Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm and former Pittsburgher, May 17. A special ceremonial will be staged with a large class of candidates as part of the program. The affair is being arranged under the direction of Monarch J. Clifford Franz.

Erie Slayer Gets 14 Years Sentence

Columbo and Cab Calloway Among New WCAE Stars; Sawders on WJAS

A scintillating array of famous orchestras comes to Pittsburgh listeners nightly when WCAE inaugurates a new schedule tonight.

Tonight's headliners are Russ Columbo and his orchestra at 11:05 and Cab Calloway and his Cotton Club Orchestra at 11:30. Buddy Rogers and his California Cavaliers and the St. Regis Orchestra are featured tomorrow night. Other new grams tonight include Beal Street Nights, a presentation of the music and gaiety found nightly on Beal street, New York, at 11:45, and "Opry House Tonight," a fast-moving skit describing the trials and tribulations of an old-time theatrical manager with a troupe on the road, at 11:15.

Russ Columbo

Miss Sargent

Added to these features is the regular dance hour at 10 with Louis Sobol piloting the "magic carpet" for music by Jimmy Grier and his orchestra, playing from Los Angeles, and Ted Fiorito and his band from Culver City.

Maj. James Sawders, Pittsburgher and former student at Carnegie Institute of Technology whose varied career as author, lecturer, adventurer and explorer has led him all over the world, is interviewed by Allie Lowe Miles on the Bath Club program on WJAS tonight at 8. Some of the unusual experiences he has encountered during his travels form the basis of the interview. Maj. Sawders, also a correspondent and photographer, includes among his adventures time spent with the Marines in Nicaragua.

Program Pointers

Marjorie Evans Stewart, Pittsburgh concert soprano, presents a program from KDKA today at 4:15. Immediately following the recital Miss Stewart leaves for New York to fill concert engagements and give several programs over an NBC network. Another soprano well known in Pittsburgh musical circles, Ellen McKim, sings from WCAE at 5:30.

Miss Stewart

Six scenes from the life of Andrew Jackson are presented in dramatized form during the "Great Personalities" program on KDKA at 9:30.

Followers of the Musical Memories program on KDKA at 9 are assured of hearing Alice Mock regularly for a long time. She recently signed a long-term contract.

"The Clue of the Twisted Candle," another thrilling mystery from the pen of the late Edgar Wallace, is dramatized on WJAS at 9:30.

"The Gay Caballero," Frank Crumit's best known song, is his featured number on WCAE at 8. Julia Sanderson sings the old favorite, "Deed I Do."

The Westinghouse Pioneers Quartet sings "Deep River" on KDKA at 10:15 in response to many requests from the South.

Question Box

When does Cab Calloway broadcast? There are a number of orchestras we would like to hear on the Cigaret dance hour on WCAE. Where should we send our requests?—Two Readers, Duane street, Crafton.

Cab Calloway has been broadcasting from the Cotton Club recently, but he has no regular time on the air. Tonight you can hear him on WCAE at 11:30. The Music Corporation of America helps select the bands for the dance hour. You might send your suggestions to them or to the sponsors in care of NBC, 711 Fifth avenue, New York.

Fan Fare

Jean Sargent, young singer feature on Ziegfeld's radio shows Sunday nights, started her career as a newspaper columnist. She wrote about radio celebrities.

Fan letters received by Welcome Lewis during her recently completed 13-week series totaled nearly 14,500. Her regular Wednesday night broadcasts bring about 1,000 letters a program. James Melton can cook exactly three things . . . fried chicken, baked beans and a southern delicacy called "spoon bread."

When he took his friends on a week-end cruise following his Town Hall concert he found a large box waiting on the dock for him. It contained 20 cans of chicken, 50 cans of baked beans and a dozen boxes of hard tack.

Elsie Hitz, NBC actress, used to appear on the stage without the aid of a wig as either a blonde or brunette. She has one light eyebrow and one dark one and a light streak on the right side of her dark hair. It all depended on the way she combed her hair and faced her audience.

Paul Whiteman made his musical debut at the age of seven with a fruit vender as his sponsor. The remuneration: All the fruit Paul could eat . . . but the concert ended rather abruptly when Paul's mother, en route to a luncheon, beheld her angel child fiddling for dear life and a couple of bananas in the midst of a mob.

Homay Bailey once played a trumpet in a women's band. . . . Alice Joy is filling an engagement at the Palace Theater. . . . The eldest member of "The Shindiggers" on WWSW is 74. . . . The youngest is 17. . . . Arthur Allen has kept a diary since he was 16, but never reads it. . . . The books are loose-leaf and the entries typewritten. . . . As an engineer, Ward Wilson assisted at several broadcasts on which Harry Richman was featured. . . . Now they are both broadcasting for the same sponsor on different programs.

Ted Jewett threatens to make a cake using a new recipe calling for breaking eggs on the ceiling, and Catherine Field, soloist, vows she will direct Hugo Mariani's Orchestra on the anniversary program of the Women's Radio Review on WCAE tomorrow at 3:30 . . . All because Claudine Macdonald promised they could celebrate the first anniversary of the program by doing as they pleased.

Want 6 "plies" ★ at a Low Price?

HERE is a tire that needs no introduction to several million car owners who have proved its sturdy value and honest wear on the road.

But even to old friends, the price is NEWS. And get this fact—these tires are built by Goodyear—marked with the Goodyear name and house flag—sinewed by that famous Goodyear cord material, Supertwist.

All of which means that these Goodyear Pathfinders can give you more for your money than tires ever gave before, and that is saying a whale of a lot.

If the tread on your tires is getting bald—if the rubber is getting thin—don't flirt with trouble and take chances of skids. You can get a whole set of tires at such prices as these and hardly miss the money.

Read the sample prices shown here—remember they buy Goodyears.

Doesn't that make you ask yourself: "Why buy any second-choice tire when FIRST-choice costs no more?"

★ SIX "PLIES"
—of the six layers of cord fabric under the tread in this tire, two do not run from bead to bead—they are really "breaker strips", and that's what we call them, although some tire-makers call them extra plies

	Price each in pairs	Price per single tire
28 x 4.75-19	$6.16	$6.33
30 x 4.50-21	5.27	5.43
29 x 5.00-19	6.45	6.65

Here is a car equipped with the latest driving features, mounted on a 117-inch wheelbase, and developing 80 horsepower, that is practically identical in design and character with the famous Reo Royale—pace-setter for the industry in aerodynamic styling.

Far more important still, Reo's 27 year reputation for building honestly and well is evident in every rugged detail.

Examples of the unprecedented Reo goodness built into every part include: tough, long-lasting Lo-Ex pistons; chrome-nickel cylinder block; hydraulic brakes with new safety-type centrifuse brake drums; vibrationless counter-balanced seven-bearing crankshaft; double drop x-shaped cross member frame that withstands stress and strain from every angle—and many other fine car features.

Sensible people today are buying their transportation on an investment basis. This remarkable car is built for that market. See it, drive it, and investigate its impressive specifications before you buy.

COUNTY FURORE OVER MISSING WHEELCHAIR

Need in Courtroom Reveals Device Sent to Sewickley For Use of McGovern

The mystery of the missing wheelchair intrigued the official circles of the City and County today.

It was discovered to be missing when Judge Samuel H. Gardner, sitting in a City-County Building courtroom, sent for it to have Mabel Ponsonby, plaintiff in a damage suit taken to a hospital when she became ill in court.

A tipstaff reported that the chair had been sent to the Sewickley Valley Hospital for County Commissioner C. C. McGovern's use.

TO BE RETURNED TODAY

Inquiry at Director of Supplies Ray Sprigle's office brought the information that the chair had been taken from the City-County Building to the courthouse while repairs were being made on one kept there. It was to be returned to the City-County Building today, an employe of Sprigle's office said. Later the Director issued a statement in explanation of the McGovern phase. It read:

"When notified that Commissioner McGovern was about to leave the hospital at Sewickley I, on my own initiative, sent one of the two county-owned invalid chairs to the hospital for his use on the assumption that he was going to return immediately to his duties at the courthouse. If the county can get a $15,000 a year employe back at work by using one invalid chair, that is good business.

USING OWN CHAIR

"Commissioner McGovern sent the chair back, as he will not be ready to use it at present. If he will come back to work before he is able to walk, I will have a county chair here ready for his use and we will use it in order to get this valuable county employe back on the job at the earliest possible moment. This is to the county's interest and not McGovern's.

"The county has had a chair available at all times for anyone becoming ill in either of the county buildings, and will continue to have."

At the hospital it was said that McGovern was using a chair which was "his own personal property."

3 MEN DROWN NEAR ELKINS

ELKINS, W. Va., May 3.—(AP)—The swollen waters of the Rygarts Valley River are being searched today for the bodies of two young men who perished when their boat capsized. A man who tried to rescue them is also dead.

Virgil Nash and Leon Waugh, both 22, were crossing the river yesterday in a rowboat when the current upset them. They sank from sight within a few seconds.

Olin Slayton, 28, father of two children, and Glenn Meyers reached the scene in a motorboat, but as the latter slipped while operating hooks he upset the vessel. Slayton swam only a few strokes before he sank. Ayers reached land safely.

Thomas Morris recovered Slayton's body within a few minutes and efforts were made to revive the unconscious man. After five hours work ceased and Slayton was pronounced dead.

Southern Route Likely for Akron

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 3.—(INS.)—The naval dirigible Akron will leave on its flight for California to join in the naval maneuvers in the Pacific probably Friday or Saturday.

It will pursue a southern course toward El Paso, Tex., and cross the Rockies from there, according to tentative plans. The exact route will not be decided until shortly before the flight, to take advantage of the most favorable weather conditions.

Invention Patented By Youngest Edison

WEST ORANGE, N. J., May 3.—(Universal.)—Theodore M. Edison, youngest son of the late Thomas A. Edison, yesterday received word from Washington that his first independent patent—on a device for eliminating vibration in machinery—had been granted. He had previously been granted patents on inventions developed in conjunction with his father.

Street Jammed, Autoist Takes To Sidewalk

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP)—The problem of every motorist—how to advance down a thoroughfare already jammed with vehicles—was solved today by young Mr. William Grossman.

It is very simple. All one does is to drive right down the sidewalk. There is no vehicular traffic there, and whosoever is careless enough to be afoot thereon has only himself to blame.

Of course the idea is still comparatively new. The public is not educated to it yet. That explains why a policeman arrested him for reckless driving.

RED ORGANIZER HELD IN RIOT

Ben Carruthers, Negro Communist organizer, was held for court today charged with inciting to riot as the result of two eviction riots, one in Mahon street and the other in Wylie avenue, late yesterday.

W. C. Patterson, 45, of Wylie avenue, Fred Griffith, Duff street, and Page Watkins, of Webster avenue, all Negroes, were ordered turned over to the sheriff for further investigation by Magistrate J. J. O'Connor, in Center Avenue Police Station today. They are said to have interfered with the deputies.

Police said Carruthers was arrested when he urged a crowd to return household goods into a residence in Mahon street, which had been emptied by deputy sheriffs in eviction proceedings.

Police answering a riot call dispersed a crowd of 1,000 which had gathered. The furniture was returned to the house. In the melee Irwin Scott, of Bedford avenue, and Carl Holmes, of Wylie avenue, were slightly injured.

Arbuckle to Try Comeback on Stage

NEW YORK, May 3.—(INS.)—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, retund comedian who formerly thrilled world-wide audiences by his clowning antics for the silent screen, today prepared to achieve a comeback.

Out of the limelight for 12 years, Arbuckle with his fiancee, slender, titian-haired Addie McPhail, will open in a vaudeville engagement in New York Friday night. If it is successful, he hopes to appear again in the movies.

Snodgrass, Herron Denounce Delay on Subway

EARLY START ON CANAL URGED IN CAPITAL

POLITICS

Selecting Chairmen Is Next in Order.

By MARK SHIELDS

Next business before the politicians of the county is the selection of Republican city and county chairmen.

Mr. Shields

County Commissioner William D. Mansfield is county chairman, having been selected some months ago to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Joseph G. Armstrong. Councilman W. J. Soost is city chairman, being elevated to that position when Senator James J. Coyne stepped aside.

The meeting of the two party organizations held simultaneously, must be within two weeks after the certification of the vote for party offices cast in the primary. The speed being shown by the Return Board should make it possible to hold the session any Saturday after May 14, when the Republican State Committee organizes in Philadelphia. Certainly the meeting will be held before the Republican National Convention meets in June.

It is a question whether Mansfield will be re-elected. So far he has not indicated a position on the subject, but there were times during the recent campaign when he exhibited something of an impatience at the antics of the party in its own affairs. It will be recalled that both regulars and independents joined in McKeesport to defeat the legislative candidate of the county chairman, something unique in party warfare.

Many leaders are talking chairmanship, but none is coming to the front with candidates at the moment, and there is a probability that Mansfield may be permitted to retain the place without a fight, something in the spirit of default, if he wishes. In sporting parlance, the county chairman may draw a bye.

* * *

Hard to Find Leader Universally Approved

It is quite true he does not meet universal approval from the contending political elements. But neither would any other man now on the horizon. Imagine a chairman satisfactory to Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, Coyne, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, County Commissioner C. M. Barr, Mayor Charles H. Kline and other factors of more or less potency—and you possess some imagination, that only, and nothing in substance.

McGovern and Barr are mentioned because they represent a large number of Republican voters in this county, and not with any thought that eventually they will agree with the organization leaders noted. Indeed, we eventually may get something of a two-party system of government in this county through divisions within the Republican group at the primary.

But even so there must be chairman who can theoretically lead the party at general elections, especially in presidential years.

A county chairman in Allegheny now has his troubles. Part of his effectiveness—the major part—is predicated on ability to get things done for what the late Chairman Armstrong used to call "the boys and girls." In other words, he should be able to provide jobs for the faithful.

The county board is under control of two independents, the governor's office has broken with such organization leaders as were its friends, and it may be that in the regime of the next county chairman there will be an overturn of the national government at Washington. That is a dismal outlook for a county chairman, and not much should be expected of him, not even unity in the coming general election.

Questions Hirsh Should Have Chance to Answer

There is one aspect of this voting machine maze which has received too little attention. It is the fact that a public office apparently was used by H. D. Hirsh, impresario of the tragic farce, as a headquarters for a private company. It was testified in Baltimore that communications were sent to "C. G. Brown," secretary-treasurer of the company, at 811 City-County Building, Pittsburgh.

These are offices occupied by Hirsh as counsel for the Public Service Commission, which is his public employment.

Such an address is an asset, stamping the occupant with an official atmosphere which sometimes is persuasive.

This feature of the episode should also be thought-provoking to the Public Service Commission, which should—if it does not—wonder how its legal employe has time to function in such important private deals. It should also be of concern to the public, which helps pay Mr. Hirsh's salary as an attache of the Public Service Commission.

It may be argued that this is just another of those "part-time jobs" which so liberally color the public payroll, giving their holders an impressive status in contacts with outsiders, as well as a neat income. But the public hereabout, paying the burdensome utility tariffs, may think that there is enough work to be done by any one connected with the Public Service Commission to require his full time if he has any conception of public responsibility.

These are all questions which Mr. Hirsh personally should have the chance to answer. But up to this morning he could not be found in his public-private offices, though in Baltimore last Thursday he promised to have his voting machine company books here for inspection the next day.

TRANSIT BOARD SUBWAY DELAY ASSAILED

Herron, Snodgrass Denounce Commission; Assert Work Being Denied Hundreds

Council President John S. Herron and Edward J. Snodgrass, Jr., proponents of a downtown subway plan announced several weeks ago, today censured the City Transit Commission for its failure to offer something better than the Brown-Snodgrass plan in the 10 years it has had to devise a proposal.

Snodgrass declared the commission's laxity was holding up a project that would give work to hundreds. He said:

"If the work is ever to be started on an underground transportation unit it should be done this summer. Hundreds of starving and deserving men are hopeful some action may be taken soon."

DETAILS SOUGHT

The commission asked Snodgrass and his assistant, Norman F. Brown, former County Public Works director, for more detailed information on their plan last week.

Commenting on the status of the subway, Herron said:

"The new plan was better than any ever devised. If the commission cannot give us something as good, they should tell us now. We are in a very receptive mood for some immediate action on subway construction. The city has the money, hundreds of men need employment and, in our opinion, the city needs the project. Why the commission wants to hold this matter up is beyond my comprehension."

BONDS AUTHORIZED

A $6,000,000 bond issue to build the subway was authorized by the voters in 1919. More than $125,000 has already been spent for research work by the Transit Commission. Snodgrass has pointed out to both the commission and Council that the subway could be built within the remainder of the appropriation, if work were started promptly.

Civic organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce, have protested the building of an underground loop downtown at this time.

The latest to protest is the Sheraden Board of Trade, which asserted the construction would be futile because trolley cars will be supplanted by buses within a few years.

ERIE-OHIO ROUTE BACKERS SET FOR HEARING

Traffic Expert's Tonnage Survey Offers Argument For Big Inland Waterway

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A barrage of maps, charts, graphs and statistics was dropped on the United States Army engineers today in the battle of industrial and civic interests of the tri-state steel, coal and shipping area for an immediate start on the Lake Erie-Ohio River ship canal.

Backers of the canal project were armed with reports of the most comprehensive researches, both physical and economic, that ever have been made on the subject, it was said.

The principal ammunition was contained in an economic report of Theodore Brent, nationally-known traffic and transportation consultant, whose survey dwelt on the tonnage fertility of the local area, and a physical survey by the Randolph-Perkins Company, of Chicago.

ARGUMENTS READY

Brent in his report attacked the findings of Col. W. C. W. Kutz, made in June, 1925, in which he held that it was inadvisable to construct the canal.

BIG SAVING SEEN

Included in the list of maps and charts presented was one showing the volume of lake cargo coal from the various coal fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio to Lake Erie, as carried by the railroads at present with another showing how the proposed canal would handle the major portion of it at a great saving in freight rates.

The report said:

"Actual sustained competition between an agency, which when well equipped can transport at three mills per ton mile, and one which must have 10 or 11 mills in order to exist is an economic impossibility."

Much of the report was given to rail rates on lake cargo coal from 1887, showing approximately a 100 per cent increase.

WOULD BENEFIT BIG AREA

The maps show that not only the Pittsburgh district but the whole Appalachian coal region would be effected by the canal.

One of the exhibits showed that Pittsburgh had shipped 197,557,901 tons of lake cargo coal from 1896 to 1927, being 34.97 per cent of the lake cargo coal shipments, while in later years Pittsburgh shipped only 7.75 per cent, Kentucky shipped 21.85 per cent; the Fairmont district 11.80 per cent, and the Kanawha district, 28.78 per cent.

The report continues:

"While the Pittsburgh field held a fair volume of the traffic, it has not been able to keep pace, under the railroad rate adjustments, with the fields which have been favored with comparatively low rates for longer hauls."

THRIFT GARDEN LAND CLEARED

Forty acres of ground, comprising a portion of the old Guyasuta Indian Reservation and burial grounds along the Allegheny river, near the county workhouse, were being cleared and plowed today in conjunction with the thrift garden program.

W. C. Rice, of the McIntosh-Hemphill Company, owners of the property, estimated 500 persons will be able to plant gardens on the plot. Rice is in charge of the preliminary work and the erection of shelters.

Matthew Taylor and William P. Witherow, of the Thrift Garden Committee, are allotting ground to persons applying through charitable organizations. Frank Jeffrey, riverman for 45 years, now living in a houseboat near the garden plot, has offered his services, and, in going over the ground, said he found numerous spear heads, stone hammers, arrows and other relics of earlier days.

Across the river, near the Edgewater Steel Company plant, about 150 employes of the company have begun their thrift gardens on a seven-acre plot owned by the concern. Men, women and children yesterday plowed and dug the ground.

PRIMARY ROW CASE DROPPED

Charges against three North Side men, one a city policeman, in connection with disturbances in the Twenty-firstt Ward at last Tuesday's primaries, were withdrawn shortly before the scheduled hearings before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley, last night.

John Campbell, of 1224 West North avenue; Patrolman Thomas Walsh, of 1228 Hammond street, and Joseph Keally, Jr., of Manhattan street, said to have been named in the informations, were discharged at the request of John Profeta, of 1203 Sheffield street, and William Schaeffer and his brother, Herbert Schaeffer, 1233 West North avenue, the prosecutors, according to Justice of the Peace Morgan.

Revolver, Blackjack Taken by Burglar

Whiteman Winners Get KDKA Contract

The three Pennsylvania College for Women girls who won the Paul Whiteman-Pontiac audition contest here last week have a contract today for weekly broadcasts each Thursday night from Station KDKA at 6:15 o'clock beginning this week. The girls, Miss Virginia Miller, Brookline; Miss Gene Llewellyn, Wilkinsburg, and Miss Alice McCorkle, Point Breeze, will be known as "The Westinghouse Maids."

'Bugs' Tells Why Senate's Probes Aren't Revered

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

We have been accused of having little reverence for senatorial investigations and their results.

The reason dates back many years. We attended a senatorial quiz in the Senate office building.

The man on trial was alleged to have escaped from a sinking liner dressed in women's clothes. The Senators knew it and they knew that he knew they knew it.

It was a seance of table rappings and mysterious voices. When it was over the man on trial was a hero and the Senators were wearing sunbonnets and Mother Hubbards, figuratively speaking—if you have a figure in those things.

DIVORCE PARTS 10 COUPLES

A divorce was granted to Mildred Douglas Woods, 30, of 302 Kirk avenue, Carrick, yesterday from Dr. Willard Woods, 32, a dentist, of 208 Beverly road, Mt. Lebanon, after she testified before Judge Thomas W. Marshall Dr. Woods, intoxicated after entertaining out-of-town friends, had beaten her.

Nora Leasure Hanna, 47, dressmaker, 237 Atwood street, was given a decree after testifying that she had missed a train and returned home to find her husband with another woman.

Maria Vargo, 105 Beavertown road, Wilkinsburg, obtained a decree from Sam Vargo, 241 East Fifth avenue, their second, after telling the court her husband had not kept promises of reformation made before she remarried him.

Other divorces granted included:

Charles E. Garnham, 341 Arabella street, Knoxville, from Elizabeth M. Garnham, 309 Natchez street, Mt. Washington; Cora Neely from Samuel J. R. Neely; Charlotte F. Beltz from Teane M. Beltz; Joseph Levin from Pauline Levin; Dorothy May Sheltenbrand from Andrew Shaltenbrand. Edith Scott from Donald E. Scott; Edna Switak from August Switak.

Radio Instructor In Bootlegging Arrested

CLEVELAND, May 3.—(AP)—The man who told radio fans over Station WGAR how to be a successful bootlegger was under arrest today on a federal prohibition charge.

On the radio he was billed as Jackie Schwartz, but he gave his name to the prohibition agents as Abe Cohen. The officers charged he had 60 quarts of whisky and two cases of beer in his automobile when they arrested him Saturday night.

25,000 Passengers On Week-End Trips

More than 150 extra cars were necessary to accommodate the 25,000 persons who patronized the special week-end rate inaugurated by the Pennsylvania Railroad last week, officials said today. A majority of tickets sold in Pittsburgh were for New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Atlantic City, Chicago and Cleveland.

Rotarians to Mark Mother's Day Here

Mother's Day will be the theme of tomorrow's program at the Rotary Club of Pittsburgh luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Rotary Anns, wives of club members, will conduct the meeting. The principal talk will be given by Miss Imogene Wardner, college girl lecturer. The program is being arranged under chairmanship of Wister L. Lynch.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 3.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This is primary day out here in California. Course it's all cut and dried with the Republicans, but the old Democrats out here in Orangejuiceville have a chance to name the next Democratic nominee. Al Smith's big spurt in the East has shown that Gov. Roosevelt can't possibly go the convention with enough to nominate. Give Garner California and Texas, and he will be sitting prettier than any of the three. For there is one thing about a Smith delegate, he is sure loyal to Smith, and won't go for anyone else at the finish only who Smith tell 'em to. The Democrats always beat the man that goes to the convention with the most votes. McAdoo at Madison Square Garden when he had a big majority, Champ Clark at Baltimore when he had 600, so California can win with Jack.

Yours,
WILL.

TROLLEY LINES TO ELIMINATE WEEKLY PASS

May Be Reinstated at Higher Or Lower Rate If Test Shows System Profitable

Officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company have decided to eliminate the weekly pass as an experiment, but have not decided on the exact date of the test. It likely will start the last Sunday in May or the first in June, according to Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager, who added:

"If the experiment shows the pass has been profitable, it should be reinstated at either a higher or lower rate, for purposes of further experiment. If the test shows it is unprofitable, it should be permanently discontinued."

At the peak of the use of the pass, approximately 65,000 were bought weekly, it was said, but during recent weeks the sale has averaged only about 35,000.

Conferences between the Street Railway Employes Union of the Beaver Valley Traction Company, a subsidiary of the railways company, regarding the company's request that the 80 employes accept a voluntary wage cut of 25 per cent, will be started tomorrow or Thursday, it is said.

The officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company yesterday signed a two-year contract with the union here calling for a reduction of 7½ per cent in wages. This was the rule of the compromise agreement decided on last Thursday and ratified by the employes. All employes of the company are affected by this cut. The new scale for carmen will be 74 cents an hour for one-man car operators and 65 cents on two-man cars.

CITY OPENS 16 PLAYGROUNDS

Ten playgrounds were to be thrown open by the city today, while six others conducting indoor programs throughout the winter months, were to inaugurate outside activities, Supt. W. C. Batchelor, of the Bureau of Recreation, announced.

Reweds Ex-Husband, Saves Him From Jail

CLEVELAND, May 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Harriett Moyer remarried her former husband yesterday to keep him from going to jail on a non-support charge.

She fainted as sentence was pronounced on charges that he dropped payment of $50 monthly for support of their child. The husband, Marion Moyer, claimed he lost his job as an insurance adjuster and could not pay. And, since the family funds were low, a justice performed the second marriage without charge.

BIRTH CONTROL CLINIC FILES REPORT

400 Women in District Get Information; Some Sent by Social Agencies

The first report of Pittsburgh's birth control clinic, in operation more than a year, shows over 400 women have been given such information.

For the most part, they were mothers of from two to seven children and aged between 24 and 32, although information was given to women ranging from 17 to 45.

A few families were living in comfortable homes, the report said, but 74 per cent of them were in small and crowded rooms.

Of the 484 women who applied, 21 were refused. The report shows 285 of the remainder, who were given advice were white, 129 Negroes.

Of the white group, 119 were Protestants, 120 Catholics, 28 Jewish, six Greek Orthodox, two had no religion and 10 did not record theirs.

The "patients" were sent to the clinic by social agencies, physicians, members of the Birth Control League of Allegheny County and by other patients, the report said.

'Scarlet Hawk' Testifies In WCAE Drama of Girl's Murder Trial

Dolores Devine, the "Scarlet Hawk" of Broadway, last night testified she met Damon Fenwicke, murdered architect, at the Golden Bowl, night club where she danced, and that the wealthy bachelor paid her marked attentions.

Miss Devine, the first witness, appeared unfrightened by Saturday night's episode, in which a knife barely missed her, as she took the stand. She talked, in this fictionized radio drama "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," of their friendship, and accused Miss Ware of interrupting it.

Last night's episode, which began at 8 o'clock over Radio Station WCAE, was the second. The next session will be at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, over WCAE.

John C. Sutherland, broker; Delia Maloney, attendant in the washroom of the John Golden Theater, and Axel Nordstrom, garage attendant, also testified. The session concluded with the appearance of a surprise witness, who will be called to the stand tomorrow night.

Miss Maloney declared she was fired because Miss Ware, at the theater the night of the murder, left her pocketbook in the washroom. She returned before Miss Maloney had turned the purse into the box office, complained, and the attendant was told she was through, the woman said. She described Miss Ware as "very nervous."

Sutherland admitted on the stand, after cross-questioning, that he was in love with Miss Ware, and would always be at her service. He had been at the Golden Theater with her, he said, the night of the murder, but left her after the performance, while she went with a friend.

The state's attorney asked:

"Do you love Miss Ware enough to perjure yourself if it aided her?"

Sutherland answered:

"When such an occasion arises it shall be met."

Nordstrum created a furore in the court when he admitted, after severe questioning, that Miss Ware returned her car to the garage about 12:30 a. m., a short time after the murder was thought to have been committed in Fenwicke's home. Nordstrum declared Miss Ware was sobbing.

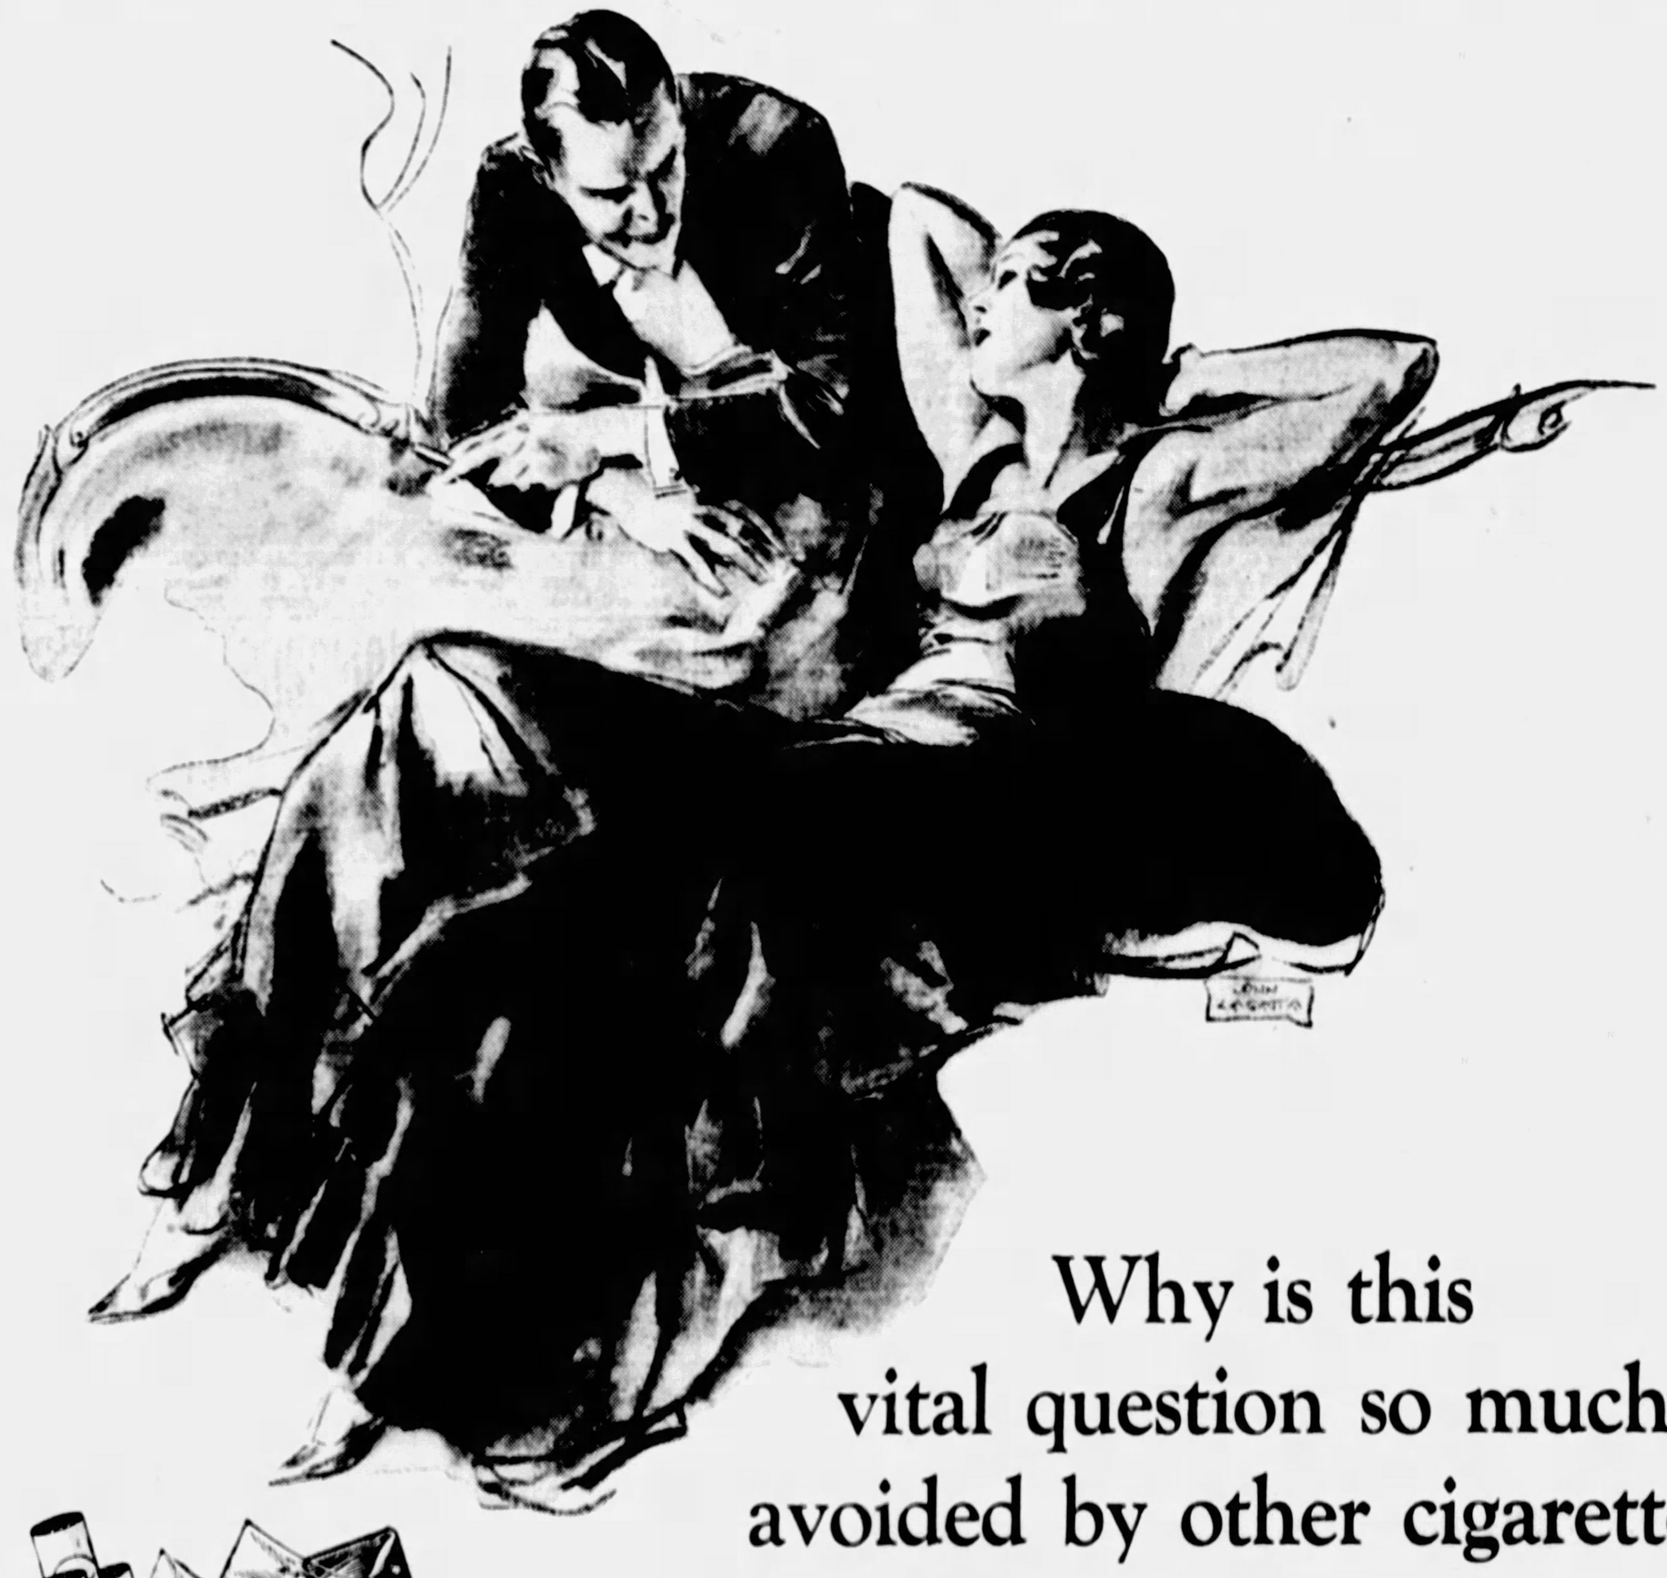
DO YOU INHALE?



Why is this vital question so much avoided by other cigarettes?

O. K. AMERICA
TUNE IN ON LUCKY STRIKE—60 modern minutes with the world's finest dance orchestras, and famous Lucky Strike news features, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening over N. B. C. networks.

EVER since Lucky Strike created that special process for purifying fine tobacco and told the full facts about cigarette smoking—the industry has been in an uproar. For Lucky Strike has dared to mention things that were considered "taboo" in the cigarette trade.

You may have noticed a striking avoidance generally of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it gives you the protection you want . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

4 PITTSBURGH MEN ELECTED BY M. E.'S

Dr. Day, Kidney Chairmen Of Mission Committees; Bishops Rap Anti-Drys

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 3.—The tables have been turned on the anti-prohibitionists in today's "serious crisis in the fight for a sober world," declared Bishop William F. Anderson, of Boston, in the address of the general superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal Church before the quadrennial conference today.

While repealists may feel their opinions are not being respected in certain states, they must not forget that the situation was precisely the other way round before the national prohibition law was passed, he pointed out.

PROHIBITION UPHELD

And that law, the Eighteenth Amendment about which there is such a hue and cry these pre-presidential campaign days, still is the proper method for reducing the consumption of beverage alcohol, the Methodist bishops believe.

Two Pittsburgh delegates to the conference were elected to chairmanships of important committees.

The Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Church, was made chairman of the Committee on Foreign Missions. Elmer L. Kidney, prominent Pittsburgh attorney, was elected chairman of the Committee on Home Missions. Both will assume their new duties at once, and conduct the meetings which are held every other day throughout the conference period, lasting all month.

Dr. Ralph B. Urmy was appointed to the committee on fraternal delegates; Dr. W. L. Wilkenson to the committee on revision.

RECALLS DRY BATTLE

Bishop Anderson, in his address, said:

"Prohibition has proven embarrassing in certain regions, where public opinion protests, just as in the previous order of things, dry states doing their utmost to outlaw the liquor traffic had liquor imposed upon them against their will.

"A century ago the alcoholic drink traffic had every right of property, of free contract and police protection, and appeared to be forever secure. Today it is a hunted outlaw bearing the mark of Cain."

As a possible substitute for national prohibition nothing has been suggested but local option, the bishop stated. His report was the considered judgment of the whole board of 38 bishops.

SEEKS TO OPEN BALLOT BOX

County Commissioners supervising the count of ballots cast in last Tuesday's primary, will hear arguments tomorrow on a proposal to open the box of the First District of Springdale Township.

The proposal was made by Attorney Edward O. Spotts, representing A. B. Davidson, who is trailing W. L. Brown by about 56 votes for the second place as member of the General Assembly from the Thirteenth Legislative District. Brown will be represented by Attorney Alexander J. Lindsay.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

In the same church in which her grandfather and grandmother were married 60 years ago, the Trinity Episcopal Church, of Freeport, Pa., Jane Elizabeth King, daughter of Philip C. King, of New Kensington, became the bride of Jan H. H. Meyer, of Pittsburgh, son of the Einar H. Meyers, of Tyssedal, Hardanger, Norway, today at noon.

The church was decorated with white spring flowers and cibotium ferns and bamboos. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. Homer A. Flint, executive secretary of the diocese.

Wears Heir Gift

For "something old," which every bride must wear, she had a pin, her grandfather's gift to her grandmother, on her wedding day. She wore a gown of ivory satin with the bodice and long sleeves of Alencon lace and with the skirt full below the molded hip-line, falling in back into a train. Her veil of tulle cascaded from a coronet of orange blossoms, and her flowers were calla lilies.

Her only attendant, Mrs. John P. Henry, who was Mary Templeton Phillips before her recent marriage, wore a graceful gown of hydrangea blue lace and a small blue straw hat quaintly trimmed with pansies and carried fuschia-colored garden flowers.

A wedding breakfast and reception in the King home followed the ceremony. Mr. Meyer and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Norway, where they'll visit Mr. Meyer's parents. After July 1 they will be at home in New Kensington.

Alice C. Johnson Is Married to W. O. Osbon

Mrs. Johanna Johnson, of Delaware avenue, Swissvale, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Alice Christina Johnson, to William Oran Osbon, of Edgewood, which was solemnized on Monday, April 18, in the home of the bride.

Officiating was the Rev. Dr. P. H. R. Mullen, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Swissvale.

The bride wore a gown of pink chiffon and carried pink roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Hilda Johnson, as her sister's maid of honor, wore blue chiffon and carried pink roses and blue delphinium. Kirk A. Oplinger served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Osbon will be at home in Wilkinsburg.

CITY HEADS HONOR RUTH NICHOLS

MISS ROSEMARY CASEY STARTING TO GOLF AT LONGUE VUE

Flier of Woman's Council Receives District's Quota of Names for International Congress

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

City Council Chamber took on an unwonted aspect yesterday when potted plants and ferns were placed on its table in honor of Miss Ruth Nichols, champion aviatrix. Miss Nichols was making Pittsburgh her last stop in a 10 city flight to collect the Postal Telegraph books of signatures for the National Council of Women petitioning foreign governments to send representatives to the International Congress of Women in Chicago next year. Nearly 25,000 signatures, this district's quota, were presented to Miss Nichols. Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky bringing a great roll of more than 2,400 which she had personally collected.

Mrs. John M. Phillips, vice president of the State Federation presided and introduced John S. Herron, president of Council, and Controller J. P. Kerr, both of whom extended the hospitality of the city to honor guests. Miss Suzanne Beatty, assistant city solicitor, several of the councilmen, Thomas Dunn, of the Chamber of Commerce, and Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang also spoke.

Tells of Congress

In response, Miss Nichols told of the proposed Congress of Women and of its being a potential step toward the elimination of war. It was a nice gesture and added to the impressiveness of the picture to have a good-looking Postal Telegraph lad at each end of the table where the petitions were deposited.

Miss Nichols is a speaker of charming voice and manner. In a little talk which she gave after luncheon at the Congress of Clubs she stressed the safety and economy of flying as compared with other modes of travel, and she emphasized the fact that the International Congress will not in any way touch upon disarmament, but that a better understanding between nations is expected after their representative women have met face to face.

Among other guests at the luncheon were Judge Sara M. Soffel, Miss Beatty, Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, Congress president; Miss Helen Richey and Miss Helen MacCloskey, Pittsburgh fliers, and a number of the Congress board.

Conclave Outlined

Some pertinent questions are asked of members, chairmen and officers of clubs by Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, in her last presidential letter of the current season as printed in this month's "State Federatin Club Woman." The state president suggests that "Wise Sharing" might well be adopted as the slogan in club work.

Appointed Chairman

The magazine contains an article on Child Health Day and another one of especial quality concerning the nature of celebrating Memorial, Flag and Independence days, asking that there be "less fireworks and more reverence" and making several suggestions.

Most interesting in this month's issue, however, is news of the Federation's thirty-seventh annual convention in Philadelphia October 10 to 14. The 72 clubs of the Philadelphia Federation will be hostesses. One change this year will bring conferences on Thursday afternoon instead of Monday. There will be three official dinners on the opening evening and several others later in the week. For that same day a sightseeing tour of historic Germantown has been arranged, and at noon the executive board members will be guests of the Philadelphia Federation at luncheon. Another change is in the date of the Federation dinner, which is to be Wednesday instead of Thursday of convention week. Grace Morrison Poole, who will then be president of the General Federation, is to be one of the convention speakers.

Festival Of Song

A three-part program will be offered tonight at the "festival of song," which is being given by the Mt. Lebanon Women's Club department of music in the Washington School auditorium.

The first part is purely choral and will be given by a men's chorus, a women's chorus and mixed voices.

Mrs. Harold Hanson, soprano; Mrs. Eda Shaffer Kreiling, contralto; James McKelvie, baritone, and Mrs. Helen Hunt Allen, violinist, are the soloists. Lucille Miller Werner and James McKelvie are directing the program and Mrs. R. B. Cuthbert is accompanist.

DRESSMAKER TYPE OF SUIT FAVORED ABOVE TAILORED-MADE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 3.—It isn't merely a question of wearing a suit this season. Care must be given to the variety of suit chosen. Although many women prefer the tailor-made suit, we must go on record and report that so far as the mode here is concerned, there is a leaning to the suit of the dressmaker type. In fact, many houses report that the latter type has completely eclipsed the tailor-made as shown by the purchases made by private clients as well as professional buyers. The tailor-made has its uses strictly defined, while the softer suit can be worn for ever so many occasions. Care is taken, of course, to prevent the dressmaker suit from being too overladened with detail which would only serve to make it fussy, something that even the softest suit must carefully avoid. These suits are good in color and can be noted in every smart assembly at and after lunch. Fur is used for many of these models, but it is discreetly applied, as a too lavish treatment gives a deliberate, heavy effect that the woman who knows her fashions will always side-step.

* * *

IF YOU WOULD like to know the type of dressmaker suit that is being worn by smart women in Paris, just glance at the Augusta-bernard model sketched, for it is typical. The material is wool crepe in a strawberry color and the jacket has a rounding shawl collar reaching down to the waistline, bordered with summer ermine. The fur band finishes at the waistline and is tied to hold the jacket shut. Small puffs, cut in a piece with the bodice of the jacket, fit over the shoulder and upper arm above the long, close sleeve. The skirt is a wrap-over model with a loose flare at the center front. Buff colored georgette matching the lighter tones in the fur makes a tucked-in blouse with narrow whipped-on silk braid in the same shade.

THE SIMPLE BUT effective afternoon frock is by Vionnet and it is made of lightweight green wool crepe with a deep bertha of white georgette. Coin dots border the bertha and are embroidered by hand with shaded green floss. The double-breasted closing fastens with four small silver buttons. The bodice is snug fitting, while the skirt flares moderately. The narrow wool crepe belt ties at one side.

URGE EXTENDED RIVER FRONT PROJECT

Planning Group Proposes Length of Duquesne Way And Water St. Be Improved

Early improvement of the entire length of Duquesne way and Water street, rather than limiting any planned wharf beautification to parking purposes alone, was suggested to City Council today by the Municipal Planning Association to relieve traffic congestion.

The city has before it proposals to improve a part of Duquesne way and part of the municipal wharves for added parking facilities. The association suggested improvement of Duquesne way and Water street, west of Eleventh and Grant streets, in conformity with a plan approved by the city and the City Planning Commission. The association said:

"The earliest possible complete improvement of these amplified river front streets will give the maximum traffic relief inside the Triangle, and is to be preferred to any proposal which, by including extra expenditure for wharf parking space of costly character, will delay general traffic relief in that district."

Ripley 'Believe It or Not' Contest Is Launched Here

Airplane, Auto, Radio And Tours Among Grand Prizes

The Sun-Telegraph and Robert L. Ripley, creator of the "Believe It or Not" cartoons, are seeking the most amazing facts in America and have arranged an astounding group of prizes for those who submit the winning entries. The contest starts today.

If you win the contest you get your choice of these desirable prizes:

THE GRAND PRIZES

Curtiss-Wright airplane with course of instruction at flying school.
Trip to Cuba, two weeks, for two people, via Ward Line, all expenses, with week's stay at National Hotel, Havana.
Trip through Province of Quebec, two weeks, for two people, all expenses.
Rockne Six Sedan, 66 h. p.
RCA-Victor Radio-Phonograph combination.
Jenkins' Radiovisor Television Set.
Encyclopaedia Britannica — 24 volumes, with mahogany case.
Wm. A. Rogers, Ltd., Silver Cabinet, complete dinner service—87 pieces.
Gruen Guild Watch—new Carre model.

Ripley himself will be the final judge, for there is no more competent authority on astounding facts in the world.

10 PRIZES DAILY

Starting Wednesday, and continuing for the duration of the contest the Sun-Telegraph will award 10 copies of Ripley's famous "Believe It Or Not" book as daily prizes, in addition to the national prizes.

The "Believe It or Nots" which win these daily prizes will be sent on to Ripley to compete for the grand prizes. So hurry and send us your "Believe It or Not" right away. Promptness will give you a better chance of winning one of the daily prizes.

ROBERT L. (B.I.O.N.) RIPLEY

Everyone has a chance to win, for everyone knows one or more "Believe It or Not" facts. Your first thought may be that it takes foreign travel or unusual experience to produce them. It is true that Ripley has visited 130 countries for material, but he has found his most successful material right at home.

Thousands of Americans knew the explanation of Ripley's famous "Believe It or Not": "Lindbergh was the sixty-seventh man to make a nonstop flight across the Atlantic," but hadn't thought of it. It was common knowledge that two Zeppelins and Alcock and Brown had made the hazardous journey previously.

Sun-Telegraph to Give 10 Books as Awards Daily

WORLD ABOUNDS IN AMAZERS

Any unusual fact may win. Remember that things which are very familiar at home may astound others—some fact about a friend or relative may leave America gasping with amazement.

Many of the best "Believe It or Not" facts have been taken from yesterday's paper—facts restated in an amazing way. What about the place you work? There are probably a lot of "believe-it-or-nots" there, familiar to you, but unknown to the public.

Do you go to school? Every schoolboy knows that the sun is farthest from the earth in summer and nearest in winter; yet that fact, forgotten by most grownups, made a good "Believe It or Not." Do you play bridge or poker? You probably remember some "Believe It or Not" hands.

B. I. O. N.'s IN KITCHEN

Do you cook? There are Believe-it-or-nots about your kitchen stove. Are you a sports fan? Sports provide many of the best ones. Do you read history or the Bible? Both are full of believe-it-or-nots. Are you a nut on figures? The freaks of mathematics make good ones. Do you hunt? Do you fish?

Let's have your stories — but prove them. You need not illustrate your facts. Just write legibly on only one side of the paper and include any explanation or proof necessary to make your "Believe It or Not" believable. Then mail it to the "Believe It or Not" Editor of the Sun-Telegraph and you'll be in the running for the grand prizes.

Contest Rules

1. You may submit as many "Believe It or Nots" as you wish. You do not have to submit any drawings or sketches. Write legibly on one side of the paper. Have your name and address on each sheet of paper if you send in more than one. Each entry must contain the explanation or proof of its truth. The Sun-Telegraph will not be responsible for the return of entries.

2. Contributions will be judged daily for the local prizes. No contribution will be considered which is mailed after midnight, May 16.

3. The contestant agrees to accept the judgment of the Sun-Telegraph in the awarding of the daily prizes. Only contributions winning daily prizes will be forwarded to Mr. Ripley to compete for the grand prizes. The contestant agrees to accept Mr. Ripley's judgment on the grand prize winners as final. Nine grand prize winners will be named in the order of the merit of his or her contribution. The first prize winner will have first choice of the nine grand prizes; the second prize winner will have his choice of the remaining eight prizes, and so on, until the grand prizes are all taken.

4. In case of ties the same prizes will be awarded to all tying contestants.

5. You do not have to buy the Sun-Telegraph to compete in this contest. Files of the Sun-Telegraph may be found at the public library or at the office of the Sun-Telegraph, where the drawings of Mr. Ripley and the instructions of the contest may be consulted.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Things That Will Bore You No End!

(And reason why you don't have to read 'em.)

That the poison fangs of a snake are used primarily for food killing and only secondarily as a means of defense. (So when you're dying, console yourself that the snake meant no harm. He was only hungry.)

That the most perfect hand ever painted, according to art experts, is the right one on Da Vinci's Mona Lisa.

That smoking is not permitted on the floor of the House. (But it's okay to take your shoes off, ready a newspaper, or go to sleep.)

That Henry Clay's famous utterance, "I had rather be right than be President," was never made in public but in private conversation with Senator Preston of S. Carolina. (At any rate, it's probably Hoover's sentiment, too.)

That while Washington refused to accept a salary during the Revolutionary War, he did enter an expense acct. for $64,315. (And newspaper reporters have followed his example ever since.)

That the ear reacts to stimuli faster than the eye. (But so does the hand.)

That the most damaging flood in modern history was in 1887 when the Hoang-Ho in China overflowed drowning nearly 7,000,000 persons.

That three layers of cellophane, properly arranged, will stop a bullet. (Make mine a double-breasted vest with whipped cream buttons.)

That when you are hypnotized, it is simple to tell the front or back of a playing card by feeling it. (Oh, so those fellows I played with Saturday night were hypnotized!)

That the old belief that hair grows after death is false. The apparent growth is due to the shrinkage of tissues around each individual hair. (That changes my opinion about my office boy's beard.)

That George Simenson, the French detective story writer, completed 18 full-sized novels last year. (That's for you lazy birds with litt'ry ambitions.)

That there is three times as much copper in a 5-cent piece as there is nickel. (But that's another subject that I wouldn't know much about.)

That Cardinal Giuseppe Caspar Mezzofanti, who died in Rome in 1849 at the age of 74, could speak 114 languages and dialects, and that the ancient King Mithridates could speak the language of the 25 nations he ruled.

That Canfield, the famous gambler, declared the card game which lends itself to cheating most easily is Seven-Up. (No one has yet learned which is the hardest to cheat at.)

That the 9 of diamonds is known as the Curse of Scotland because it was on that card that the drunken Duke of Cumberland is supposed to have written the order to give no quarter during the Battle of Culloden. (However, there are 52 cards in the deck known as the Curse of Yawitz.)

That there are not more than 3 gorillas in the U. S. (zoologically speaking, of course.)

That the Eiffel Tower in Paree cost slightly less than $1,000,000 and that it paid for itself via admission fee the first year.

That more than 600 people are still receiving financial aid from the Titanic fund which was established shortly after the disaster.

That during the early days of the war, French aviators carried a bag of bricks as part of their equipment in the hope that they might be able to hurl them into the enemy's propellers. Two German planes were brought down in this fashion. (And any number of French infantrymen!)

That the Great War was not the first in which dogs were used, the Greeks of Ionia having made use of them against the Cimmerians as long ago as 650 B. C.

That a watch balance vibrating exactly 18,000 times an hour will keep perfect time, but if it vibrates 18,001 times an hour, it will gain 2 and two-fifths minutes a mo. (Why do you worry about such things?)

That in most States it is illegal for the store-keeper to hand you a cigar out of a box. He must take the box out of the case and let you help yourself.

That discarded pipe heels cause more forest fires than either cigar or cigarette butts. (What do you expect of a heel?)

That the American Guvment was compelled to pay for the burial ground of its dead in France.

Plays and Players

—By WILLIAM J. LEWIS—

"The Merchant of Venice," being presented by students of the drama department at Tech, as the annual show to the Bard of Avon is to be continued at performances open to the public tonight and Wednesday night. The final performance, Thursday night, will be exclusively for members of the Pittsburgh Drama League, of which Prof. Elmer Kenyon, head of the department of drama at the Schenley Park institution, is president emeritus. Tech Thespians produce one Shakespearen play yearly, and their current effort is being praised by those who have seen it as ringing true traditionally and artistically. It was directed by B. Iden Payne.

* * *

Activity in the legitimate theaters is quite restricted this week, the sole production to be for Wednesday night only, when the Nixon stage will be occupied by the Misha and Lucy German Company in the Yiddish comedy-drama of New York, "Such Is Life." The stars will be supported by their Folk Theater cast, including Menashe Skulnik, popular Jewish comedian.

* * *

The next attraction in the Alvin will be "Hay Fever," coming next Monday for a postponed engagement as the final play of the Professional Players subscription season. The star is Constance Collier. Seats are now to be had at the box office. Matinees will be as usual, Wednesday and Saturday.

* * *

Come the middle o' May and the Nixon will go gay with a week of light opera that came to the world through the gifts of Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan. This week of music and comedy will be presented by the Civic Light Opera Company, a group of artists that will include Fay Templeton, William Danforth, Hizi Koyke, Frank Moulan, Vera Ross, Herbert Waterous, Ethel Clark and Allen Waterous. In the olden days Miss Templeton was a famous Little Buttercup in "Pinafore," which will be combined with "Trial by Jury" in the opening double bill.

Jill Esmond Gets Role At Last

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 3.

Good news to some of us in the fact that Jill Esmond is being recognized at last by R-K-O.

The young actress, who scored so sharply with Ruth Chatterton in "Once a Lady," is the final choice to play the society girl in "Is My Face Red?" She succeeds to the part for which Genevive Tobin, Sidney Fox and several other players had been mentioned.

Jill Esmond

Miss Esmond who, off-screen, is Mrs. Laurence Olivier, is slender, youthful and English. She went under contract to RKO along with her husband but was allowed to languish without roles until the energetic David Selznick took over the studio.

Now she has a very good performance to her credit in "States Attorney" and will be further groomed by an awakened studio.

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Continuing his row with the censors over "Scarface," Howard Hughes left his yacht at Mazatlan and flew into Los Angeles for conferences with his attorneys on the proposed suits against the New York scissor-wielders. By now he is winging his way back to rejoin the yachting party . . . Carl Laemmle (Uncle Carl to Hollywood) is about to leave on another of his visits to Europe. He'll be gone two months this time . . . Nils Asther played host last week to Frank Jordan, California's Secretary of State. During those months when the talkies drove Nils out of pictures, he worked with Mr. Jordan's son in the insurance business. This practical sales experience was what really drove Nils to improve his English . . . Heard Ernst Lubitsch telling an interviewer: "American women are plenty glamorous for me." . . . Despite all the tricky work involved, the first assembled run of "Strange Interlude" is only 12,000 feet . . . Tallulah Bankhead favors the one-flower corsage—an Easter lily . . . Bill Parker, formerly in charge of International News Service on the Pacific Coast and now editor-in-chief of its Paris bureau, writes me that the Dick Barthelmesses tried to hide away in a hotel in Place Concorde, but were recognized by a newspaperman and thereafter were much feted . . . also that Joe Zelli (many a Hollywood celebrity has sat in his "royal box" in Montmartre) is giving Paris a musical version of Jim Tully's "Jarnegan."

Penn Stage to Have 'Girl Crazy'

Loew's Penn, for the first time in its history, will present a complete musical comedy on the stage, opening Friday — "Girl Crazy," by George Gershwin. This is a musical show played for 42 weeks in New York at $4.40 top, and for three months in Chicago. In the cast of 65 are Bert Gordon, Frances Upton, Vivian Janis, Hal Thompson, Carlton Macy, Donald Foster, Floria West, Lew Parker, Patricia Garrity, John Lock, Chief Rivers and a chorus of dancers. The entire musical score is by Gershwin, while the book was written by Guy Bolton and Jack McGowan. The story deals with love in the Wild West.

New Picture in Fulton Opens Tomorrow

"The Devil's Lottery," starring Elissa Landi, will close its engagement in the Fulton tonight, and "The Broken Wing," starring Leo Carillo, will open in that theater tomorrow, instead of Thursday, the customary opening day. Lupe Velez has the feminine lead in "The Broken Wing."

Caddie Wins $5,000 For Loss of Eye

CLEVELAND, May 3.—(INS.)—Harry Williams, 15, a golf caddie of Glendale, O., a suburb of Cincinnati, blinded in one eye when hit by a golf ball, was awarded $5,000 yesterday in his suit against Harold E. Foote, vice president of the United Electric Company, Cleveland.

Blonde Hero Featured In Murder Film

Reversing the more usual Hollywood order, a blond hero is cast opposite a brunet heroine in "The Roadhouse Murder," the RKO-Radio mystery romance. Eric Linden, a fair-haired descendent of the virile Vikings, is the boy. Dorothy Jordon, a dusky-eyed daughter of Tennessee, is the girl. Four out of five of Hollywood's leading men and male stars lean to the brunet side of the complexion ledger. The feminine ratio is decidedly uneven, with a big majority going to the blondes.

'Grand Hotel' Continues In the Aldine

"Grand Hotel," photoplay version of the Vicki Baum novel and play, began its second week in Loew's Aldine yesterday. This stirring movie, which was extensively reviewed in this department a week ago, has what undoubtedly is the greatest "name" cast ever assembled for the screen. The players include Greta Garbo, as the dancer; Lionel Barrymore, as the invalid bookkeeper; John Barrymore, as the baron; Joan Crawford, as the stenographer; Wallace Beery, as the capitalist, and Lewis Stone, as the lonely, disfigured doctor.

This picture is showing twice daily only, once in the afternoon and once in the evening, and will prove interesting to all, and especially those who have seen the stage version and like to make comparisons.

Come to Tyrol Via Screen In Cinema

By GEORGE SEIBEL

It's like a trip to the Tyrol to visit the German Avenue Cinema this week, only the language has been changed to English with queer results. The principal picture, "The Immortal Vagabond," known in German as "Der Unsterbliche Lump," tells the story of a parish schoolmaster who becomes a great composer. The scene is a Tyrolean village, with local color laid on thick, and a wedding where the "Schuhplattler" is danced with bucolic fury. Alas, the poor schoolmaster, who loved the postmaster's daughter Anna, thinks she has become faithless while he was away in Vienna getting his opera accepted at the Royal Opera House. So he disappears, and the world thinks he is drowned, but he comes back five years later to the unveiling of his own monument which is done amid ceremonies almost as elaborate as these at the cattle show. Anna recognizes him—and there is a happy ending—for Anna is now a widow, thanks to Providence or pneumonia.

Mr. Seibel

The picture is made with great care as to detail, apparently on the spot, not in some studio. All the more grotesque is the translation of the vocal part into English. To hear the Tyrolean village postmaster talking a glorious cockney is enough to force a revision of the Versailles treaty.

Tyrolean atmosphere also pervades the Newman picture of Oberammergau during the Passion Play performance, which is altogether admirable. Even more striking is an Alaskan travel film, showing some of the finest scenic glimpses in the new world. The short educational films at the Avenue Cinema are about the best of the sort we get in Pittsburgh.

Brooks Benedict Cast As News Gossip

Brooks Benedict has been cast to play a newspaper chatter writer in the Constance Bennett starring vehicle, "The Truth About Hollywood." Just to prevent any faces from getting red, David O. Selznick, executive vice president in charge of production, hastens to add that Benedict's character is purely fictional.

Atta Boy!

Jackie Cooper is happy about something or other in this scene from "When a Feller Needs a Friend," coming Friday to the Penn screen.

Beery, Montgomery Sign New Contracts

Wallace Beery and Robert Montgomery have signed new long-term contracts with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Beery's most recent characterization is that of Preysing, the scheming textile magnate, in "Grand Hotel," while Montgomery's last starring film was "—— But the Flesh Is Weak." Montgomery is also co-starred with Joan Crawford in "Letty Lynton."

Trusted Worker Held In Bank Shortage

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—Richard Smith, 46, who for half his life has been a trusted employe of the Corn Exchange Bank, was in the police lineup today charged with grand larceny, amounting to at least $24,000.

Police said he admitted that as manager of a branch of the bank at Jackson Heights, Queens, he had for the past year and a half been withdrawing money from dormant accounts by signing depositors' names to withdrawal slips.

Fake Money Passer Must Do Washing

HARTFORD, Conn., May 3.—(AP.)—Instead of going to jail, Michael Bartis, 21, of Nashua, N. H., found guilty of passing counterfeit bills, was ordered to return home to help his mother with the washing.

Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas yesterday gave him a suspended sentence of a year and a day and placed him on probation for two years, with instructions that he help with the household duties.

Mr. Columbus Sails Again

NEW YORK, May 3.—Brock Pemberton has decided to shatter theatrical precedent and produce a non-musical play in May, the month legitimate theaters are usually put in moth-balls. His reasons for this decision are several. First of all, he believes that what the country needs more than a good 5-cent cigar is laughter and the play he has chosen is funny. Next he knows New York will be a summer resort this year because it is cheaper for most people to stay here than go abroad or travel elsewhere. Furthermore, there ill be a dearth of entertainment, since from present prospects not more than 10 theaters will be open, and lastly his experience with "Strictly Dishonorable" proved to him there is plenty of business for comedies in summer.

The play Mr. Pemberton has chosen from his new program is Hawthorne Hurst's farce comedy, "Christopher Comes Across." This is the story of what happened to Columbus at the Court of Ferdinand and Isabella the day he set sail for America. It is Mr. Hurst's conceit that Columbus found the amours of the cour more interesting and believable than the theory the world was round and sailed under protest. Tullio Carminati, himself an Italian, who made his Broadway debut as the opera singer in "Strictly Dishonorable," will be featured in the title role of Columbus.

Mind Over Money

I TALKED the other night to a gentleman who advanced an interesting thought.

"Did you ever realize, Mark," he said, "that the average man would be afraid to handle too much money? I don't mean money that he earned; I mean money that he found. If, for example, a poor man walked along Fifth avenue and found a $10 bill, he'd carry it off in a highly elated fashion.

"But suppose he found a wallet that contained $10,000 in big bills. By any process of reasoning, he should be a thousand times as happy as he was with his $10 discovery. But would he? I doubt it very much. He'd be afraid to change the bills. The magnitude of his find would worry him greatly. He'd probably wind up by trying to trace the owner of the wallet and taking a chance on a reward. Because, in such a disturbed mental condition, the money would be more of an annoyance than a pleasure.

"Am I right?"

I told him I thought he was. And as I replied, I suddenly remembered a story that I had been told several months ago. It was a story exactly along those lines, and he seemed to find it interesting. Perhaps you will, too. I am not positive of all my details, but I imagine I can supply sufficient meat for you to get the drift.

The tale concerns a conductor on one of the interurban trolley lines in the southern part of Ohio. The man had been working for the same company for plenty of years, and he was a highly respected employe. Inasmuch as his car shot through the same small towns at the same hours each day, he knew many of his passengers by their first names. He was more of a friend than a trolley conductor.

His home life was none too hot. He was the father of three young children—but with the birth of the last child, his wife had become a cripple. A visit to one of America's great specialists might have helped her, or a year at one of Europe's watering resorts might have done some good. But such thoughts were ridiculous. In her husband's financial condition they were lucky to be able to sleep and eat. . . .

It was this man who found $15,000 in cash. He found it at the end of a day's run as he walked through his car to gather together some newspapers that the passengers had left behind. And as he picked up the wallet that contained the money, he remembered distinctly to whom it belonged.

The man was a farmer who lived some 12 miles away. He hadn't seen him very often on that run, but he had heard that the man had just sold some of his property at a very excellent price.

The conductor's memory was most excellent. That farmer had sat right in that corner seat. He had paid his fare with some loose change, but he had taken out that wallet to buy a bottle of pop from the boy in Hicksville. Once you saw it, you couldn't really miss that wallet. It was a large brown affair, and the farmer had at least four rubber bands around it. No question about the ownership at all.

But how could the man have been so careless as to lose it? Such money! The conductor's hand trembled as he counted the bills. There were twelve $1,000 bills—and six of the $500 denomination. $15,000 in all! What that poor man could have done with the money!

He struggled with himself. He knew that the wise course would be to turn it in at once. The farmer had probably missed his wallet by this time, and would have wired ahead immediately. There would unquestionably be a quick investigation. The conductor knew it was useless even to consider keeping that money. Why, it was nonsense.

But his fingers fondled the cash. It was so pleasing to the touch. If it were only his. If he could dare take a chance. His wife could go away, and he could go with her. The kids would have everything they wanted. Pleasure would push poverty far into the background. It would be heaven, really.

With a hasty movement, he placed the wallet in his back pocket. He walked rapidly toward his home. And it annoyed him to imagine that so many people looked at him in such a strange fashion . . .

He told his wife the entire story. He poured it out in nervous fashion, and he placed the money in her hands. Propped up in the bed, she gazed at the cash with huge eyes.

"What will we do?" he asked her. "I have never been so worried in my life. I am afraid. I think it's best that I go back with the money right away. Give it to me."

His wife pleaded with him. She wanted him to keep it, to bury it somewhere until it was safe to take it out. She cried out that it would mean so much to her; that perhaps it was God's way of restoring her to health. She urged and urged.

But no. The more she spoke the more frightened her husband became. He walked to the window, and he could have sworn he saw a strange man in that shrubbery across the way. He turned back and snatched the wallet from the bed.

"To the devil with it," he cried. "I can't stand this. I'm going to turn it in."

Out he went again, his wife's protestations floating after him. He raced back to the car barn. And he turned the wallet over, intact. Then, whistling, he went back home.

The following day he received two letters. One from the superintendent of the line and the other from the farmer. They were very nice, indeed. The superintendent complimented him highly and said that he was a model employe. The farmer praised him to the skies and begged him to drop in for a drink of applejack any Sunday afternoon.

There was no mention of any reward.

I think it was some five months later that a stranger boarded the conductor's car. The fare to his destination was 35 cents. He pulled out a quarter and winked at the conductor.

"This is all I have, buddy," he whispered. "I have to get to that town and I haven't got the extra dime. Just put the quarter in your own pocket and forget about me."

The conductor nodded. This was nothing new to him. He had been doing the same thing for years. All the employes did it on occasion. After all, it was a simple way to make a few extra dollars and nobody was ever the wiser.

In this case, somebody was. The stranger turned out to be a spotter for the company. And when the conductor reported for work the next morning, his job was a thing of the past.

Queer, wasn't it? With pennies, he could cheat with a clear conscience. But had he stolen the big dough, it would have driven him insane . . .

PULITZER PRIZE GIVEN KAUFMAN MUSICAL PLAY

Former Pittsburgher Wins With 'Of Thee I Sing,' First Show With Tunes Honored

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—That staid and decorous company, the Pulitzer prize plays of other years, was invaded today by a rollicking newcomer, "Of Thee I Sing," whose barbed minstrelsy is aimed at the foibles of American politics.

Its authors, George S. Kaufman, a native of Pittsburgh; Morrie Ryskind and Ira Gershwin, were among the 16 individuals and one newspaper designated for the 1932 Pulitzer awards for outstanding achievement in the fields of drama, journalism, literature, art and music.

This is the first time a musical comedy has been chosen, and in announcing the award the trustees of Columbia University said:

"This award may seem unusual, but the play is unusual. Not only is it coherent and well knit enough to be classed as a play, aside from the music, but it is a biting and true satire on American politics and the public attitude toward them."

KAUFMAN 'UPSET'

Probably the best word to describe how Kaufman "took" the news of his play's winning the first Pulitzer prize ever awarded a musical comedy is "upset."

Tall, quick-moving, personable, Kaufman paced across the carpets of his apartment living-room last night in agitation, now and then running fingers through his dark hair. He said:

"Of course I'm pleased—it would be the worst kind of pretense to say anything else.

"But what else is there to be said, after all? If you agree with the Pulitzer judgment, you sound pompous, and if you don't you're rude."

OTHER PRIZE WINNERS

The Indianapolis News—$500 gold medal for the most disinterested and meritorious public service by an American newspaper during the year.

Walter Duranty, of the New York Times, and Charles G. Ross, of the St. Louis Post Dispatch—$500 each for the best example of correspondence.

John T. McCutcheon, of the Chicago Tribune—$500 for the best cartoon published in an American newspaper.

Gen. John J. Pershing—$2,000 for his book, "My Experiences in the World War," for the best book on American history.

Henry F. Pringle—$1,000 for his book, "Theodore Roosevelt," for the best American biography.

MUSIC SCHOLARSHIP

Ernst Baco, San Francisco—$1,800 annual scholarship awarded to the American music student deemed most talented and deserving.

Frank R. Kelly, Brooklyn; Selma Hautzik, New York, and Jonathan Springer, Port Chester, N. Y.—$1,800 traveling scholarship each, awarded to honor students at Columbia School of Journalism. Alternates are Michael J. Caplan, New York; Betty Ballantine, Berkeley, Cal., and William Harrison, New York.

Prizes for the best editorial published in an American newspaper and the best work of a reporter during the year were not awarded.

The awards, which total $17,000, were founded in the will of Joseph Pulitzer.

Former Opera Singer, Ill, Plans Comeback

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—(AP.)—Mme. Jeanne Jomelli, former opera singer, confined to a wheel chair as the result of an arthritis attack, which interrupted her professional career, announced today she would seek to make a "comeback from my wheel chair if necessary.

Mme. Jomelli, who had sung in grand opera here and in New York, said she might consider radio singing.

Wife Sues Film Man For $89,400 Alimony

LOS ANGELES, May 3.—(AP.)—A suit demanding $89,400 as back alimony was on file today against Alan Crosland, motion picture director, by Juanita L. Crosland. They were divorced in 1927.

The petition claimed that, under the terms of a property settlement, Crossland was to pay his wife $500 a week as long as she remained unmarried. She declared Crosland paid her $22,600 of a total of $112,050 due.

Capt. Dollar Ill, Ordered to Rest

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., May 3.—(INS.)—Capt. Robert Dollar, 88-year-old dean of American shipping men, was reported today in "good spirits and not worried over the fact he was ordered to bed for a few days."

Fire Damages Boot Shop in Homestead

Damage estimated at more than $8,000 was caused to stock and furnishings in Harry's Boot Shop, 208 East Eighth avenue, Homestead, by fire today. The blaze was discovered by a roomer in the home of Mrs. C. A. Parker on the second floor of the building. Firemen confined the flames to the first floor storeroom.

LEAST VALUED PITCHERS PROVE BEST

WINTER PITCHING APPRAISEMENTS turn out strangely sometimes. It happens occasionally that the man on whose services the least value has been placed proves to be the most valuable member of the staff. The Pirates have experienced this two years running. Following the retirement of Heine Meine in the middle of the 1930 season, Jewel Ens, then manager, was none too keen about making room for Meine to come back to the local club last year. He figured the veteran would not amount to much. Heinie won 19 games, a total not surpassed by any other National League flinger and equaled by only Bill Hallahan and Jim Elliott, and was the leading right-hander of the league in effectiveness.

Steve Swetonic

This year, it's Steve Swetonic. The North Sider was slated for release to the minors last winter, and was kept only because an eastern National League club refused to waive on him after the first set of waivers had run out. So far Swetonic has been the shining light of the Rover staff. His brilliant performance yesterday in shutting out the Cubs with only three hits to end the Buccaneer losing streak of five straight was only a continuance of the great work he has been doing all spring with the exception of one game in Chicago. In his two victories Steve blanked the Cards and Cubs with a total of only six hits in 18 innings. In a relief role he pitched three innings without allowing a man to reach first base. He has hurled 25 innings and part of another and was scored on in only two of them, allowing only five runs all told. He has held his opponents to 12 hits in 86 times at bat, for an average of only .138. No flinger in either of the big leagues has pitched better ball than Swetonic up to date.

THERE WERE MANY tough babies swinging bats in the National League during the 19 season Rube Marquard pitched in that circuit, but the veteran southpaw didn't have to think twice when asked who was the greatest hitter he had ever faced. Honus Wagner got the award from Marquard without an instant's hesitation.

Rube said he had never been able to find a ball that Wagner couldn't hit. "I waved my outfielders back," he added, "pitched 'em low inside, and hoped the ball would not land on the elevated tracks ouside the Polo Grounds in New York." Marquard is now coaching the Atlanta club.

IT WILL NOT be surprising if the reunion and banquet of this district's old-timers in basketball at Webster Hall this evening, suggested and arranged by Johnny Freund, lead to the holding of an annual affair of this sort.

AS MANAGER OF the White Sox, Lew Fonseca since last December has smashed all records for the trading of players. In five months of rebuilding he traded 11 postimers for nine and bought another by the waiver route. Fonseca gave Reynolds and Kerr to the Senators for Jones, Hadley and Hayes; Weiland to the Red Sox for Gaston; Cissell and Moore to the Indians for Hodapp and Seeds; Hadley and Campbell to the Browns for Kress; Jolley, Watwood and Tate to the Red Sox for Berry; Simons to Louisville for Funk, and bought Rothrock from the Red Sox for the waiver price of $7,500. It won't be because he hasn't tried to get a little new blood if Lew doesn't produce a winner eventually.

Charley Berry

IT HAS ALWAYS seemed strange to Herb McCracken, former Pitt athlete, now head football coach at Lafayette, that the best two ends he ever developed at the Easton college, turned out to be major league baseball catchers, the first being Charley Berry, all-America end in 1924, the last year in which Walter Camp picked a team, and McCracken's first season at Lafayette.

But it's stranger now than ever, because they're on the same club since Berry was traded to the White Sox by the Red Sox. For the other old Lafayette end now backstopping in the big show is Frank Grube, who has been doing all the catching for the Pale Hose until Berry was obtained to share the burden with him.

FANS IN THIS section feel a particular interest in Berry, because in baseball's off season he is part of the Western Pennsylvania football community as head coach at Grove City College, where he has made a fine record in recent seasons and is annually welcomed back.

And they are pleased to look on the trade as an advance for the popular Charley. The White Sox aren't going to win any pennants immediately, but at least they bid fair to finish higher than the club Berry has left.

DISCUSSING BASEBALL THE otherday, Berry raved about the Yankees. "The way they hit," he marveled, "they don't need great pitching. And Babe Ruth, say—you talk about hitters, and when you finish saying all there is, you just start with Ruth. He'll last as long as he can carry a bat up to the plate. You can't pitch to him. You just call for something and start praying. But counting the A's out of the picture this early in the season is a trifle premature. That dissension talk is the hunk. They got off to a poor start, that's all. You'll see them galloping pretty soon. The Senators will be up there, too. But the Yanks—boy, what hitters!"

JOCK SUTHERLAND'S football clinic, carded for Saturday morning on Trees Field as a feature of the University of Pittsburgh's Silver Anniversary Interscholastic Track and Field Meet, has struck a popular chord, judging from the rate at which letters are pouring in to Pitt authorities signifying the intention of various schools to send coaches and players.

The response was much greater than had been anticipated. The Panther leaders had figured that Elmer Layden's clinic and demonstration of the popular Rockne system one day earlier would draw the football coaches of all the schools that were not sending track teams to this city on Saturday.

BUT APPARENTLY MANY of the gridiron tutors of the district are making plans either to stay over from Friday to Saturday after attending the Duquesne clinic, or to make two trips to Pittsburgh.

Aside from the entry roll for the track meet, which by the way, is the largest in years, a rapidly increasing list of schools which do not support track teams will send their coaches to Trees Field Saturday. One reason for the popularity of the clinic is believed to be the way in which it is to be carried on, a way planned by Coach Sutherland himself.

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

THE PROGRAM AS announced by the Panther mentor will not include anything in the nature of a regular scrimmage. Instead, there will be demonstrations of the different positions at various points of the field, with Sutherland's own coaching assistants taking charge of the posts which they direct during the regular season. After this feature, which will last from one to two hours, Sutherland will call two picked teams together, and they will go through offensive and defensive maneuvers, step by step. This slow-motion work is expected to be of more than ordinary interest to the visiting coaches desirous of seeing just how the Pitt power plants get under way.

FOUR CITY LOOP FRAYS CARDED FOR TODAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Title chasing among the schoolboy baseballers will be resumed this afternoon with full programs on tap in both the City League and the W. P. I. A. L. The Turtle Creek-McKeesport battle in Section IV, of the W. P. I. A. L., and the Ambridge-Beaver game in Section II loom as the feature engagements of the day.

In the City League, in Section I, Peabody takes on Westinghouse on the Westinghouse diamond and Vocational meets Allderdice at Allderdice. The defending league champion, Schenley, has an idle afternoon.

Langley engages Carrick and Allegheny meets Houth Hills in Section II tussles. A single contest is slated in the junior division, Herron Hill engaging Knoxville in Section II.

BUBRICK TO HURL

McKeesport may find the going tough against Turtle Creek, even with the star Bubrik on the slab. The Tuber ace, who already has pitched and won two one-hit shutout contests beside another three-hit victory will have his hands full with the Turtle Creek entry.

Ambridge in first place in Section II meets its toughest opposition in the veteran Beaver outfit. Aliquippa meets Monaca in another Section II game. In Section I McKees Rocks plays at Stowe and Crafton at Carnegie.

Canonsburg and Findlay go in Section III and Cecil plays Trinity. In other Section IV contests, Elizabeth meets Rankin and Wilkinsburg takes on Edgewood.

SCHENLEY VICTOR

Schenley, Arnold School, Turtle Creek, Mt. Lebanon and Kiski turned in triumphs in yesterday's scholastic tennis matches.

Arnold School took a 4-to-1 victory over University School. McKay winning University's single point. Turtle Creek nosed out Clairton, 3 to 2, and Mt. Lebanon blanked Shady Side Academy, 5-0. Kiski also won by a shutout score, beating Wilkinsburg, 5-0.

TITLE GO DATE SET BACK

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—In order to avoid conflict with the political conventions, Madison Square Garden plans to postpone the Schmelling-Sharkey heavyweight title match until June 21. The match originally was to have been held June 16. Sanction for the postponement was to be sought of the New York State Athletic Commission today.

Local Hockey Club Seeks Rules Change

Coach Charley Reid will be the Pittsburgh Hockey Club's only representative at the annual meeting of the International Hockey League, to be held Monday at Syracuse. Illness will prevent Roy D. Schooley, president of the local club, from joining the loop chiefs for their spring confab.

Coach Reid said that he would urge that the player limit be raised from 13 to 14, would seek to obtain the services of Goalie Sonny Boy Baxter for Pittsburgh permanently and would strive to put through such trades as he would deem beneficial to the Yellow Jackets.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: HIS MAJESTY THE BOOTBLACK—When Haypold Jansen died in Oslo, in February, 1931, after working as a bootblack for 36 years in a local warehouse, there came to light one of the strangest "riches to rags" stories, together with his identity. The humble bootblack was a former king. He was none other than King Bell II, of Kamerun, a country on the west coast of Central Africa. His father, King Bell I, concluded a treaty with the Germans in 1884. His son and successor, Bell II, was expelled by the Germans immediately upon ascending the throne in 1885. He roamed the world until 1901, when he settled down to the humdrum existence of a bootblack in the Norway capital. He who had been a king now followed this humble vocation for three decades. THE BIRTHLESS AND DEATHLESS ISLE—Miyoshima, in the gulf of Hirosima, Japan, is sacred to the goddess Bentin, and a place of pilgrimage. Such is the veneration of the Shintoists for this Isle of Light that births and deaths are prohibited there, and there is a further prohibition on the consumption of meat. No dogs are permitted at Miyoshima and its inhabitants are compelled to travel to the mainland whenever either birth or death is about to occur among them. GEN. SIEH'S "HAPPINESS"—It is considered very meritorious for a Chinese to select at random a character of the alphabet and then proceed to reform it at a great cost in time and patience. His task is not accomplished until he thinks that the idealized letter is a reflection of his own soul. It is all very mysterious and very Oriental, and Gen. Sieh, who spent 20 years in perfecting the Chinese character "happiness," thereby acquired great distinction and an immortal tablet in the temple of Hua.

SEALS ARRANGE VARIETY BILL

How would you like to hear:

Paul Waner, of the Pirates, play the saxophone, with accompaniment by Adam Comorosky, also of the Pirates?

Well, it's all set. The Trained Seals of the sports staff of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, under the direction of Harry Keck, sports editor, will trot their menagerie of talent before the microphone in their weekly broadcast over WCAE tomorrow night, in a period extended from the usual 15 minutes to 25.

Tune in at 6:50 daylight saving time and get an earful. In fact, get two earsful.

Ripley to Watch Bucs Play Today

Robert L. Ripley, creator of the famous "Believe It or Not" cartoons, which are a daily and Sunday feature of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was to be the luncheon guest of William E. Benswanger, president of the Pirates, today, and then attend the game between the Pirates and Cubs at Forbes Field later in the day, in between other features of a busy one-day program arranged for him in Pittsburgh.

PIRATES BEAT BRUINS, 2-0; FINNEY HURT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Having emerged from a slump that kept them in the losing column for five consecutive games, the Pirates will square off with the Chicago Cubs this afternoon in the second contest of the series, with Bill Swift on the mound, opposed to Boo Smith, veteran Bruin hurler. Yesterday, the Buccos turned the Cubs back, 2 to 0, with Steve Swetonic hurling three-hit ball.

Hal Finney, clever young Pirate catcher, is lost to his club for at least four weeks, it developed today. X-Ray pictures of Finney's right arm, injured yesterday, disclosed a partial fracture, his physicians stating that the youthful receiver would be out of action for approximately one month.

Hal was struck on the right elbow by one of Pat Malone's fast pitches in the second inning of the game yesterday at Forbes Field. The peppery athlete had been spoiling to get into battle, and with Earl Grace already on the hospital list, Manager Gibson instructed the snappy Finney to don the backstop dress and go to work.

UNABLE TO THROW

Malone's speedball struck Finney flush on the right elbow and he winced in pain. The game was held up for a minute or two while he was given first aid. Unwilling to leave the fight, he insisted on running for himself. When the inning was over Manager Gibson asked the youngster about his condition and Finney replied he wanted to catch. He went to the plate, threw two balls and walked mournfully back to the dugout. He found it impossible to throw, and Bill Brenzel, the last available receiver, went in to catch. Finney was hustled away to an X-ray specialist where a photograph was made. The developed plate showed an incomplete fracture of the right ulnae bone below the elbow.

Finney's injury is not the sort of a fracture that requires a cast. His arm was placed in a supporting splint, which will be kept on for some time. He was permitted to go to his home, but it will be more than two weeks before he can exercise the arm in any manner.

Grace, meantime, is lost for at least a week. Earl's index finger of his throwing hand was badly bruised in Sunday's game with the Reds. Brenzel, however, is in fine condition, and while it is a bit risky to move along with only one catcher, the trick has been done quite often. In the event of another emergency, Gibby probably would have to call upon Coach Grover Hartley for receiving duty.

SWETONIC MASTER

Steve Swetonic stole the show at the Oakland Orchard yesterday. Steve recorded his second shutout success as he triumphed over the Cubs, with Pat Malone up. As on the occasion of his shutout victory over the Cardinals in the home opener, the Native Son yielded only three hits.

Swetonic's slab work of yesterday was so efficient that nary a Bear reached the three-quarter post and only one was able to get to the midway post. Rolly Hemsley, running for Leo Hartnett in the eighth, was left on second in the inning.

The battle runless as the last half of the sixth began. P. Waner singled for his second hit, his first blow being a double. Piet sacrificed and Traynor walked. Suhr slammed a hot drive to right, scoring Paul, Pie racing to third. Dugas pulled a hot liner to Dan Taylor, who muffed the ball. P. Waner might have scored on the drive had it been caught; he went over without trouble in the mixup. Malone put on the brakes, but the two were sufficient to settle the issue.

INDIANS NEAR LEAD IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

TRIBE PRIMED FOR INVASION OF EAST

Associated Press.

With the year's first intersectional warfare only two days away, the Clevelang Indians again shape up as the West's best bet to break into the eastern clubs' monopoly on American League laurels.

Roger Peckinpaugh's Tribe is running a strong second today, only one game behind the Washington Senators, after winning nine straight against western opposition. Detroit, in fourth place, also will invade the seaboard in an excellent position.

The Indians, who have been winning largely on sheer offensive power, will make their eastern debut against the Athletics Thursday at Philadelphia.

INDIANS BEAT BROWNS

Two big innings that netted all their runs gave the Tribe a 6-to-5 victory over the St. Louis Browns yesterday.

The leading Senators handed Vernon (Lefty) Gomez his first reverse of the year in slugging out a 10-to-3 decision over the Yankees. Joe Cronin led the way with a home run, a double and a triple.

Jimmy Foxx's home run in the eleventh inning broke up a mound duel and gave the Athletics a 3-to-2 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Sad Sam Jones collapsed after allowing only four hits in eight innings, the Detroit Tigers scored five runs in the ninth and beat out Chicago, 5 to 3.

National League fans were treated to a pair of superb pitching performances by Sylvester Johnson, of St. Louis, and Steve Swetonic, of Pittsburgh. Swetonic blanked the aspiring Chicago Cubs, 2 to 0, while Johnson beat the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1.

WRIGHT'S HIT WINS

Dazzy Vance's tight pitching and Glenn Wright's timely hitting gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 3-to-1 victory over the Giants. Wright tripled with two on in the eighth to break a deadlock.

The Phillies went on another hitting rampage behind Ed Holley's seven-hit pitching to subdue the league leading Boston Braves, 7 to 2.

Tech Racqueters Victors Over W. & J.

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 3.—Carnegie Tech's varsity tennis team nosed out a 4-to-3 triumph over the Wash-Jeff varsity racqueteers on the local courts yesterday afternoon. Tech won three of the five singles duels and one doubles match. The summary:

Singles—Gruling, Carnegie Tech, defeated Graham, 6-2, 6-0; Morris, Carnegie Tech, defeated Hooper, 6-1, 6-0; Hartig, Carnegie Tech, defeated Ludwig, 6-1, 6-4; Perkins, W. & J., defeated Jaimonck, 3-6, 6-4, 9-7; Thompson, W. & J., defeated Gruver, 3-6, 6-4, 9-7.

Doubles—Groves and Gruling, Carnegie Tech, defeated Perkins and Hooper, 6-4, 6-1; Thompson and Ludwig, W. & J., defeated Jaimonck and Hartig, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

House in Favor Of Service Game

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—An Army-Navy football game in the national capital this year is favored by the House.

It unanimously adopted a resolution offered by Representative Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, designed to bring the service academies together again on the gridiron.

Giles established a new mark at Wheeling Saturday when he leaped 20 feet, 8½ inches. He has been clocked in 10 flat in the 100 during workouts.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" ROBERT L. RIPLEY

BUT HERE ARE THREE TAYLORS ON A MAJOR LEAGUE CLUB . . . . . THE CUBS' TAYLORS

WHY? WHY? ALVIS ASKS

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Leave it to good ol' Ray Alvis, manager of Tony Herrera and a flock of other fighters, including Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, to stir up an argument to put life into a fight in which one of his men is a principal.

He has his Tony Herrera in with Lew Massey, Philadelphia Italian, at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, and isn't satisfied. He's burned up because Battling Gizzy is fighting Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, at the Meyers Bowl on May 23.

Admitting that his Tony is the ace lightweight card in Pittsburgh season in and season out, although not a native son, Alvis wants to know by what sort of a yardstick Gizzy rates getting a crack at the champion here while persistently refusing to meet Herrera in an elimination test. According to Alvis, Gizzy, through his manager, the estimable Abie Witz, also has refused to box Massey.

ATTACKS GIZZY

So what? So Ray Alvis doesn't want the folks to forget that his Tony Herrera is fighting Lew Massey at the Garden before Gizzy meets Canzoneri at the Bowl, or something to that effect.

By way of a parting shot, Alvis writes in a long letter from Chicago that Herrera is coming in here several days in advance of next Monday's fight and would like to have Gizzy work out with him to help him get in shape for the battle. Will Abie Witz burn up when he reads this? Will he?

Between Rounds

Headed by Coach Danny Ryan, three of the local amateur champions left by train last night for New York to compete in the national senior A.A.U. championships at Madison Square Garden, beginning tomorrow night and continuing through Friday night. Joey Chavez, A. Zuccaro and Johnny Rauch, all Lawrence boxers, were in the party. Tony Gamble and Dave Varga, of the left to right, automobile, morning and Charley Prevatte, of Uniontown, and Chuck Mullins, of the Willow Club left with John T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., and Al Sandorf, of Uniontown, by automobile yesterday.

Having announced the closing of his arena with the cancelling of the Battling Shaughnessy-Eddie Adams show for next Saturday night, Eddie Rappahan is hiding his time about going into an outdoor venture and may remain out of the sport entirely this summer.

The Mickey Doris-Nick Ellenwood show at Johnstown is slated for tonight instead of last night.

Jackie Fields has turned down an offer of 45 per cent of the receipts to defend his world welterweight title against Jimmy McLarnin in the Chicago Stadium on June 2.

While the Rappahan Arena show for Saturday night is off the Moose Temple will go through with its card on Friday night. Frankie Bojarski, of Erie, and Joe Terry, of St. Louis, are in the main bout.

Ray Trumble left here Sunday afternoon to drive to Indianapolis for his fight tonight with Dave Shade. He will return here after the battle.

Ray Miller and Wesley Ramey have been rematched for the Olympia Arena in Detroit, May 13. They were booked originally for early in March, but Ramey was injured and had to cancel.

Everything is set for the invasion of Ray Fabbert's grapplers for another evening's entertainment at the Garden tomorrow night. Frank Sparks, who has been on every one of Ray's cards here this year, will carry a spear again in the fair name of the sport when he meets Gino Garibaldi, of Italy, in the main bout. The following preliminaries, limited to 10 minutes each, round out the bill: John Maxon vs. Mike Romano, Sporty Rotenberg vs. Steve Zmoki, Howard Cantonwine vs. Alex Abetz and Kola Kwariani vs. Anton Petersen.

READING SETS TTO'

READING, Pa., May 3.—(AP.)—Clarence Rowland, president and manager of the Reading International League club, announced he has retained Outfielder Vince Barton from the Chicago Cubs on option.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Back in the old days of wrestling, one of the favorite gags of the performers was to grasp an opponent's arm or leg and twist it in grinding fashion until the victim registered excruciating pain and then declare with a foreign accent, "If you don't giff oop I br-rr-eak!" . . . It always was good for a reaction from the spectators, the more timid among them yelling, "Don't break it!" or "Stop the match!" . . . Which is a reminder that the best crack of the most recent show at Motor Square Garden, where the behemoths of the mat do their stuff again tomorrow night, occurred when Frank Speers was working on Jim Londos, the Greek holder of the world heavyweight title . . . "Broke his arm!" boomed a voice from the distant seats.

The ambition of Steve Hamas, former Penn State star, who meets Tommy Loughran in a return bout in Philadelphia's Convention Hall Wednesday night of next week, is to become a doctor, and he plans to continue his studies when his boxing days are over . . . . He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree . . . . Max Schmeling's cousin, one Max Knecht, of Germany, is entered in the American Legion intercollegiate boxing championships in the Chicago Stadium next Friday and Saturday nights . . . . He is the heavyweight champion of the University of Wisconsin . . . . He began to box six years ago on the banks of the Rhine.

A stroll down Memory Lane in Kentucky Derby history . . . Whereas the value of the classic to the winner now is around $50,000, it netted only $2,850 to the owner of Aristides, the first winner, back in 1875 . . . The distance was cut from one and one-half miles to its present standard of one and one-quarter miles in 1896, because the longer route was considered too tough for the 3-year-olds so early in the year . . . Reigh Count won over the largest field, 22, in 1928 . . . In three years only three starters went to the post . . . The record for the race is Twenty Grand's 2:01 4-5, beating Old Rosebud's 2:03 2-5 of 1914 . . . Favorites have won 29 of the 57 Derbies so far contested, and the longest price paid on a "dark horse" winner was 92 to 1, on Donerail, in 1913.

Regret is the only filly ever to win the Derby, and only two owners ever have repeated, H. P. Whitney, with Regret, in 1915, and Whiskery, in 1927; E. R. Bradley, with Behave Yourself, in 1921, and Bubbling Over, in 1926, and G. J. Long, with Azra, in 1892, and Sir Huon, in 1906. . . . Sir Barton, in 1919, and Gallant Fox, in 1930, are the only horses to win both the Preakness and Derby . . . And for the first time, this year, the Derby is run before the Preakness, a feature of the Pimlico track in Baltimore. . . . H. P. Whitney won both races in 1927 with his entry, Bostonian taking the Preakness and Whiskery the Derby . . . Both were entered in both races.

No filly has finished inside the money in the Kentucky Derby since Prudery ran third in 1921. . . . Earl Sande, veteran jockey, who expects to have a mount in Saturday's race, has ridden three derby winners, Zev, in 1923; Flying Ebony, in 1925, and Gallant Fox, in 1930.—HARRY KECK.

LEONARD LANDS K. O.

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, stopped Willie Garfaola, of New York, in 2 minutes 15 seconds of the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here last night. Leonard weighed 152½ pounds, Garfaola 147.

Wash-Jeff Revises Week's Sports Card

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 3.—Washington and Jefferson College's sports calendar for the week has been slightly revised. A dual track meet originally scheduled with Carnegie Tech for Wednesday will be staged at the Tartan Bowl Saturday.

A dual meet with Waynesburg, scheduled for last week, will be held here Tuesday, May 10, Wash-Jeff officials have announced. The Presidents' remaining track engagements will be with Allegheny, here May 14, and Western Reserve, here May 21.

The W. & J. varsity tennis team will be host to Bethany College racqueteers Thursday in a return match. The Presidents dropped the previous match.

By TOM BIRKS

With the Homestead Grays clashing with the North Siders on the Salt Works grounds and a number of league games on the card, sandlot enthusiasts have a fine selection of contests to chose from for their entertainment today. The crowd naturally will take in the Salt Works battle to see how Mart Kenny's team fares against the crack Negro outfit.

While the smaller leagues are entertaining their followers in schedule battles, the leading clubs in the district will be staging practice sessions. It is evident that Dave Black, former North Side and minor league star, will be with Reliance Life this season. Black worked out last evening with Cy Rheam's club, and with Yost on third, Quider at short, Black at second and Miller on first, there is every reason for Rheam to feel that his inner defense will stand the strain.

ACES SHOW CLASS

Manager Jack Fertig certainly was tickled with the showing of his Homestead Aces in the opening game at Wheeling Sunday. Miller, the ace of the pitching staff, allowed one hit in the four innings he worked. Eight of the opposition fanned the breeze. Wheeling only garnered four hits off Asamonga, who finished the game.

The Book nine of the City League, closed its pitching staff by signing Lou Jacoby. Jacoby is without doubt one of the best twirlers in the loop and should go great with a winning club.

HOMEWOOD VICTOR

Homewood turned in a win over Swissvale in an independent battle last night, 9-1, with Novey and Kren turning the losers back with four scattered hits. Homewood presented a lineup composed almost entirely of recruits.

In other sandlot tussles, the Lincoln Builders defeated the Warrens, 2-0; Alba Williams nosed out the Williams A. C., 3-2, and Lightining and Scott Morgans tied at 2-2.

COLLEGE SPORT EXEMPT FROM TAX LAW

By JESS CARVER

The colleges and universities are going to beat the proposed tax on admissions, included in the new federal tax law which is being whipped into shape in Washington.

Two of the district's athletic chiefs, W. Don Harrison, of Pitt, and Harry Adam Stansbury, of West Virginia, have been informed that the Senate Finance Committee has decided to exempt college athletics. Harrison was the recipient of a wire from Senator David Reed last night, which read as follows:

"Glad to tell you that Finance Committee in adopting admission tax voted unanimously to exempt college athletics."

Stansbury, in commenting on the situation, said that the necessity of colleges and universities revising their methods of collecting fees would be removed by the revenue measure.

With no tax to be collected from the schools, it is probable that Pitt will decide to slice its admission prices for football next fall. The athletic council is expected to take the matter up at the next meeting.

The Tipoff

The harriers at Westminster and the basketballers at Geneva have elected captains for their next campaign. Tommy Coles, of Homestead, will lead the Titan harriers next fall. He is a sophomore. Al Geneva, Walter (Popeye) Manning, of Canonsburg, has been elected captain of the Geneva basketball varsity for 1932-33.

Westminster also has completed and polished up its varsity tennis schedule for this season. The complete list of engagements for the United Presbyterian netters follows: May 7, Geneva at home; May 10, Butler Musketeers at home; May 14, Youngstown College at Youngstown; May 18, Waynesburg at Waynesburg; May 19, Bethany at Bethany; May 24, Youngstown College at home; May 26, Butler Musketeers at Butler; May 30, Geneva at Beaver Falls.

There are going to be more dark horse winners pop up in Pitt's silver anniversary interscholastic track and field championship meet in the Pitt stadium Saturday than you can shake a stick at. With the possible exception of the 100-yard dash, where Warren Hines looms as a favorite, the outstanding performers are few and far between.

Right now, Andy Lasky, of New Castle, one of the best all-round athletes ever developed by Phil Bridenbaugh, looms as a very logical high point winner. Lasky is a pip of a hurdler, can win a point in the discus unless he breaks an arm and is almost certain to figure in the shot putting. It won't take very many places to take down the high point trophy, either.

Ed Walenki, one of Grove City's former favorite sons, a three-letter man and a pretty nifty halfback when he was in school, has been made assistant coach at York (Pa.) High school. Emory Patterson, former Waynesburg star, has been named athletic director at Mid-Pacific Institute in Honolulu. He formerly coached at West Brownsville and Masontown.

M'LARNIN TO D[illegible]

CHICAGO, May 3.—(INS.)—Jimmy McLarnin, hard-hitting warrior of Vancouver, will meet the winner of the featherweight bout between Billy Petrolle and Bat Battalino, it was announced today by Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Chicago Stadium. Petrolle and Battalino clash here May 20 and the winner will meet McLarnin some time next month, Lewis said.

Nick Altrock
Baseball's Humorist
Says:

WASHINGTON, May 3.—My gosh, this season National League umpires must spend an hour in the stands before game time to see that players don't talk to the spectaters. Now, why don't they pin revenue badges on the umps' suspenders and let 'em snoop around the water buckets for traces of juniper?

Nick Altrock

Gabby Street already has been fined for saying "hello" to a friend in a field box, and from now on it's dangerous to even wink at a blonde in the stands. The umps will be carrying false whiskers instead of whiskbrooms in their hip pockets yet.

59 CARS ENTER AUTO RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 3.—(AP.)—Fifty-nine cars, powered by virtually every type of gasoline burning motor known to the industry, have entered in the annual 500-mile automobile race to be run here May 30.

The prospective starters in the contest for approximately $100,000 in prizes consisted of front drives four-wheel drives and a two-cycle job. Nine of the entries are powered by four-cylindered motors, 45 by eight-cylinders two by six-cylinders and three by 16-cylinders. Only 40 of the fastest cars will be permitted to start.

W. & J. STAR HURT

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 3.—Tom Pyle, of Burgettstown, an end candidate for the Wash-Jeff football team, will be out for the remainder of spring practice, it has been determined. Pyle suffered a severe injury to his ankle in a recent workout.

PITT NETTERS BEAT DUKES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Capt. Ed Alcorn and his crack Pitt tennis array registered another 9-0 triumph over Grant Silverd's Dukes on the Stadium rectangles yesterday afternoon, and in so doing kept the Panther net slate entirely spotless, the Herron Hill array having yet to taste defeat in either singles or doubles in the course of two matches with Duquesne and one with Bethany.

MEET TECH NEXT

The Dukes jaunt to Schenley Park for a return battle with Carnegie Tech tomorrow and on Saturday they fare abroad to Waynesburg. Pitt remains at home for the rest of the week to combat with Grove City on Friday and Bethany the following day.

The Pitt freshmen-Duquesne freshmen joust, billed for the Duke courts yesterday, has been postponed till later in the month. The varsity summary:

Ralph Jacobs, Pitt, defeated Casey, Duquesne, 6-0, 6-1; O'Loughlin, Pitt, defeated Burton, Duquesne, 6-1, 7-5; Gamber, Pitt, defeated Bonano, Duquesne, 6-2, 6-1; Alcorn, Pitt, defeated O'Neil, Duquesne, 6-0, 6-0; Goodman, Pitt, defeated Shillenger, Duquesne, 6-0, 6-1; Ward, Pitt, defeated Fuller, Duquesne, 6-1, 6-1; Fenchel, Jacobs and Gamber, Pitt, defeated Casey and O'Loughlin, Duquesne, 6-0, 6-1; Alcorn and Goodman, Pitt, defeated Bonano and Hilton, Duquesne, 6-1, 6-1.

COTTON FALLS THEN RISES

NEW YORK, May 3.—Cotton opened steady today, unchanged to 6 points off on southern and local selling. July sold at 5.67.

Prices dipped slightly right after the call selling off to 5.64 for July, but later worked about 1 to 5 points net higher with July selling at 5.73 and October at 5.98.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange Service world's consumption of American lint cotton for March amounted to 1,157,000 bales against 1,066,000 for February and 979,000 for March last year.

The mid-morning advance extended to 5.80 for July and 6.04 for October, making net gains of about 6 to 12 points on the general list and, in the case of July contracts, a recovery of 35 points from the low level of yesterday. These prices met a little more selling which seemed to come partly from the South and New Orleans. The market at midday was quiet and steady at net declines of 3 to 6 points.

LIVERPOOL, May 3.—Cotton 1,000 bales, including 400 American. Spot in moderate business, prices 4 points higher; quotations in pence; strict good middling 4.66; middling 4.61; strict low middling 4.56; low middling 4.46; strict good ordinary 4.26; good ordinary 3.96. Futures closed very steady: May 4.42, July 4.38, October 4.41, December 4.45, January 4.47, March 4.53.

BUSINESS

Reserve System Putting Hundred Millin Dollars Weekly Into Circulation

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE FEDERAL RESERVE System is pumping $100,000,000 of new money into the banks each week in an effort to check the vicious circle of deflation. The extent to which this experiment succeeds will prove or disprove many economic theories of the relation of credit and business.

The move to expand currency in circulation has been under way since the end of February when the Glass-Steagall act became a law.

Since that time the reserve board has bought a total of $450,000,000 of government securities. This increased its holdings to $1,191,000,000, nearly double the amount of a year ago. Purchases on this vast scale have been made possible by the Glass-Steagall act since these bonds provide a basis for the issuance of additional currency so that their purchase does not over strain the resources of the reserve system.

Puts More Money Into Circulation

THE PURCHASE of these securities takes them out of the hands of banks, corporations or individuals and replaces them with money. This money increases the deposits of banks. It is having the immediate effect, along with the work of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, of relieving the strain on banking institutions. Eventually it is hoped that this will give banks a surplus of cash which they will have to put to work in the form of loans to customers.

In the long run it is believed that this will stop deflation. Up to now the banks have been calling loans. This has resulted in forced liquidation of securities or the forced sale of other types of property. This in turn has depressed market prices and has compelled banks to make further calls to protect themselves. But with the strain removed from banks, forced liquidation which breaks prices and brings about more forced liquidation should come to an end. In addition banks should be able to grant new credit accommodations to business as they are needed.

Credit Not the Only Circle of Deflation

THE EFFECTS of this Federal Reserve policy will be closely watched by bankers and businessmen. It holds the promise of greatly improving the situation although it will not necessarily cure all the prevailing troubles of business. Credit does not constitute the only vicious circle of deflation although it has an important effect on the other factors.

Buying power will be needed to get business on its feet. At present reduced purchases are forcing employers to lay off workers and to cut wages. Every reduction in payrolls reduces buying power and this in turn necessitates further payroll reductions.

Improvement in the credit situation will have some effect on buying power. Just how far it will go or how long it will take for its influence to act as a break on other factors of deflation is difficult to determine.

Lancashire Cotton Agreement Ended

MANCHESTER, England, May 3.—(AP.)—A decision of great importance to the Lancashire cotton industry was made today when the Spinners and Manufacturers Association announced it would terminate the agreement of 1929 which specifies a standard wage and working schedule for mill hands. It leaves the spinning and weaving sections of the industry, involving 500,000 workers, without any agreement on hours and wages. A number of firms already have entered into private agreement with their employes.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged early today at 2.60c for spots with no sales reported.

Sugar futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower and later showed additional losses of a point on some positions, with May contracts making another new low all time record selling at 2.55c while some of the later positions made new lows for the season. There was no change in refined prices.

U. S. DEFICIT INCREASED

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—A deficit of $2,234,105,142 confronts the government at the conclusion of 10 months of the 1932 fiscal year.

The Treasury statement on the condition of its finances at the end of April, made public today, showed it had collected from all sources $1,685,666,535 and had spent $4,019,771,677.

The chief cause of the decline in government collections, which for the same period last year amounted to $2,659,730,518, was caused by a slump in income tax.

This form of the government's income in the 10 months of the present year, amounted to $873,303,905, compared with $1,535,928,202 in the same period last year.

Miscellaneous internal revenue fell off $50,000,000 to $420,728,151, while customs receipts declined nearly $30,000,000 to $292,375,894.

European Sales Depress American Dollar in Exchange Market

The American dollar lost ground in the world's principal foreign exchange markets today. Heavy foreign selling sent dollar quotations down and foreign currencies up. Exchange authorities said the movement was due in part to passing of the Goldsborough bill by the House of Representatives, while advocates stated that the bill, which directs the Federal Reserve System to use its power over credit and currency to restore commodity prices to the 1926 level, does not smack of unbridled inflation. Bankers said European sellers had apparently decided that it does. Ever since European nations have been bogged in difficulties resulting from currency inflation in their home countries, any hint of possible currency inflation in America, they said, has caused heavy foreign selling of the dollar.

Washington comment today said favorable action on the Goldsborough price-stabilization bill is highly doubtful. If the Senate should follow the House in accepting the measure, it would face a veto by President Hoover. There seems to be but little prospect of any early enactment of the bill into law.

Following "satisfactory" conferences with Washington officials, the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway expects to receive its $1,800,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation tomorrow, according to C. Michel, assistant to the chairman. The road is ready to meet the conditions for the loan as outlined by the Interstate Commerce Commission, Michel said. The most important condition was that the railway should prepare a plan by July 1 whereby the interest charges on its funded debt of $292,000,000 would be reduced. Michel said the management had started consideration of means to reduce its fixed charges.

Reports are current in banking quarters that Eugene Meyer, head of the Federal Reserve Board, has called a number of leading commercial bankers to Washington to ask their fullest co-operation with the Reserve Board's present credit expansion program. Willam C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Company, it was said, went to Washington last Thursday. Other New York bankers were also said to have visited the nation's capital on like missions. At the New York Federal Reserve Bank there have been several recent informal sessions. Informally, some bankers have described the New York part of the credit expansion program as entirely satisfactory.

The stock market has suffered seven major declines since the bear movement started in the fall of 1929, Poor's points out, though it might have been expected the latest phase would be distinctly less severe than preceding periods, the service points out that it was more precipitous than any of those preceding except the first, adding, it almost equaled that. "All the other declines were unlike the seventh," says the service, "they were the inevitable result of bad business; this last decline was psychological."

Commenting on the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the packers' consent decree case, G. F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., said: "The ruling of the Supreme Court will have practically no effect on our current business. The court's decision will merely limit our operations to those in which we have been engaged during the past 12 years.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES ON DOWN GRADE

Early Gains Soon Lost and Some Shares Lose 2 to 3; U. S. Steel Holds Up Well

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—A sprinkle of selling was sufficient to keep the stock market still on the downgrade in another listless session today.

Weakening of the dollar in the foreign exchange markets was one of the notable developments of the day in Wall street, and was generally attributed in international banking quarters to the obstacles encountered in Washington in the way of budget balancing, and the passage by the House of the Goldsborough bill, directing the Reserve System to endeavor to restore commodity prices through manipulation of credit and currency.

Stocks showed little change from recent sessions. Oils, and some of the leaders, such as United States Steel and American Telephone, held up well. The entire market rose a point or so in the first hour, but this was lost later, and a number of shares declined 2 to 3 points, including American Can, J. C. Penney, Lehman Corporation, Safeway Stores, Western Union, Columbian Carbon, Hershey, Coca Cola, Drug, Inc., and a few others. Declines of a point or so were numerous.

Special liquidation, such as the cleaning up of bank loans on security collateral, was believed in brokerage quarters to be playing an important part in the continued heaviness of the market. Selling of Western Union was linked to the proposed federal tax on communications, but American Telephone held up better than it did yesterday. Weakness of such issues as Penney and Lehman Corporation was said in sources close to the companies to reflect special selling, rather than new developments within the organizations.

Oils were firm for a time, notably Royal Dutch and Standard of New Jersey, in response to news of the arrival of Russian oil chiefs in this country to attend an international conference in an effort to end cut-throat competition in world markets. Furthermore, preliminary figures on last week's domestic crude production indicated a substantial decline. Standard Oil of California reported net for the first quarter of 22 cents a share, as reduced from 33 cents in the like period of last year. There was a notable lifting of recent pressure against Royal Dutch in foreign markets.

A private survey of leading brokerage houses by one of the larger investment trusts found the majority of the opinion that liquidation had not altogether spent itself, although a substantial minority was described as feeling that selling was about complete in many issues. Favorable factors mentioned was the Federal Reserve credit expansion program, and increased confidence in banking. Unfavorable factors included uncertainty over congressional activities, continued flat business, and doubt as to the outcome of the Lausanne conference next month.

CAR LOADINGS DOWN 4,349

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Loading of revenue freight during the week ended April 23 totaled 862,340 cars. This was a decrease of 4,349 cars under the preceding week, a drop of 196,123 cars below the corresponding week in 1931 and 344,499 cars less than the same week in 1930, the American Railway Association announced today.

Federal Grand Jury Finds 23 True Bills

The Federal grand jury today returned 23 true bills, 12 of them for liquor law violations. Included in the list was an indictment against Earl McWhirter, on a charge of passing counterfeit money on the South Side. When arrested April 12, police said 34 bogus notes were found in his possession.

Kennecott Makes Offer for Nevada

NEW YORK, May 3.—The Kennecott Copper Company is offering holders of stock of Nevada Consolidated Copper Company one share of Kennecott for two shares of Nevada. For many years, Kennecott, through its subsidiary, the Utah Copper, has been in control of Nevada.

Oil Production Takes Big Drop

TULSA, May 3.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended April 30, totaled 2,171,632 barrels, a decrease of 89,202 barrels from the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Re-Employment More Urgent Than Reform

By B. C. FORBES

WHEN DOCTORS decide that a series of operations is advisable, they prefer to have the patient in as robust condition as possible. They realize that the very worst time to operate is when the patient is frightfully weak.

Mr. Forbes

A number of operations on financial and economic America are considered advisable are advisable. Some are major operations. Proposed operations include for example the stock exchange, also railway capitalization.

Might it not be advisable to wait until the stock market has regained some measure of health before subjecting it to a severe operation?

Might it not be well to wait until our railroads are in better shape before gratuitously submitting them to ordeals calculated to inflict shock upon their nervous system?

AS I SEE IT, every other objective in this country should be subordinated to that of increasing employment, decreasing the number of unemployed.

THIS OBJECTIVE, as well as almost every other constructive objective, would be facilitated by substantial improvement in the market value of securities, by restoration of confidence by a freer flow of credit and new capital.

THE INTERSTATE Commerce Commission bluntly tells the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad that it must cut its bonded debt practically overnight—inside of 60 days. Financial reorganizations of colossal corporations always are complicated, long-drawn-out processes. It is hardly conceivable that the 'Frisco could revamp its entire financial structure in two months.

Again, is this an ideal time to inject fresh uncertainty into financial and corporate situations? I understand that only 18 months ago this same Interstate Commerce Commission, when this same railroad proposed to issue obligations, insisted that the bankers pay more than 90 for 4½ per cent bonds.

If the road's 4½s were adjudged by the I. C. C. as worth more than 90 18 months ago, surely the present moment is the very worst time possible to order refinancing.

PERHAPS I AM unduly perturbed over the way things have been going. Perhaps I am unduly concerned over the existence of so much unemployment. Perhaps I am unduly anxious to have the public's confidence in the market values of securities, commodities and other things restored.

Perhaps I am wrong in regarding the elimination of unemployment as the most important immediate objective. Perhaps I am wrong in regarding the restoration of confidence as the first step in getting started toward relieving extraordinary unemployment.

He meant, of course, that a full stomach is the first thing most essential.

The most pressing, the most urgent, the most dire problem confronting America at this moment, in my humble but perhaps mistaken view, is the bringing about of such sentiment, such conditions, such reflation as will put people to work and enable them to fill their stomachs through their own efforts.

IF THIS REASONING be sound, why not for the time being make reforms subordinate to reconstruction, subordinate to the development of confidence, subordinate to easing credit conditions, subordinate to restoring security and commodity and other prices to something like level?

FIRMS FORCED TO RETRENCH FURTHER

Layoffs Seen as Continuing Until United Effort Is Made to End Depression

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, May 3.—Until co-ordinated efforts are successfully made to control the economic cycle, individual business institutions, forced to adjust themselves to prevailing conditions, will be in the anomalous situation of reluctantly adding to the depressing influences through further layoffs and additional retrenchment.

Mr. Rukeyser

The enlightened president of one of America's premier co-porations in chatting with me about these paradoxes said that though he knew that the country needed most of all additions to aggregate payrolls, he was letting men go. He said that he felt compelled to do so in order to maintain the solvency of his corporation.

He remarked:

"When the stampede is moving relentlessly in one direction, you must either run with the herd or get crushed."

Hardly an optimistic thought about rugged individualism.

GIVES PRESCRIPTION

The head of another especially well run company told me that thus far he had resisted the deflationary tendencies, although he frankly indicated to his associates that the company could only stand for a time against the economic tornado.

His prescription is to exert management against the major economic forces, and to reverse the adverse economic tendencies through a vast prosperity loan for public works, a scheme for farm relief that would restore the purchasing power of $.000.000 on the farms, the sales tax, banking reform and other fundamental adjustments. He believes that such a thorough program would be bullish for the stock of his corporation and for other ex-blue chip issues.

It is a hopeful sign when even a few of the more enlightened industrialists are beginning to think deeply about economic adjustments. These men are really optimists, for they believe that there is a way out of the present muddle.

To one who attempts to think through these economic questions, it seems strange that the proposal to spend $5,000,000,000 over a period of years for useful job creating public works should be rejected on the ground that the country can't afford it, whereas the negative policy of letting millions of men and women remain idle is costing the country about $50,000,000,000, according to Malcolm C. Rorty, former statistician of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and a recognized authority on the subject.

CONVERSION NEEDED

If the current enthusiasm for economy and retrenchment could be converted into enlightened economy, it would become an irresistible impulse in favor of redeeming from devastating idleness the millions who are without employment.

What the country can afford when its people are at work and exchanging the fruits of their hours of labor is vastly greater than what it can afford under prevailing conditions of widespread unemployment. The ultimate ability of states, municipalities and other agencies of government to meet their accumulated debt charges bears a close relationship to the prosperity of the country and also to the level of commodity prices.

In the last quarter the flow of thoughtful economic books from the presses has been unprecedentedly heavy. It is a good sign that much of the creative thinking is being done by business men, who are inclined to test theories in the proving ground of experience.

Court Decision Big Blow to Packers

CHICAGO, May 3.—Invalidation by the United States Supreme Court of the modification of the packers consent decree authorized by a lower court is a severe blow to future expansion by leading packers principally Armour & Co. and Swift & Co., who asked for the modification.

Cudahy Packing Company and Wilson & Co., the smaller two of the "big four" packers, who were restricted by the consent decree had not entered into the court action for its modification as they are not directly interested in expanding their lines.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Swift & Co. and Swift International reached new low marks on the New York Curb Exchange as an aftermath of the packers' consent decree decision.

Russians Arrive For World Oil Conference

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—A Russian oil delegation holding supreme power over the Soviet's important oil monopoly, arrived in New York today to begin a series of conferences designed to end throat-cutting competition in the industry.

The three Russians are the vanguard of an entourage of European oil potentates who are now either en route to New York or shortly will be, at the invitation of American oil men headed by Charles E. Arnott, president of the Socony-Vacuum Corporation. The prospect of a round table peace meeting has drawn the lively interest of the American petroleum industry.

Improvement Noted By Cleveland Bank

CLEVELAND, O., May 3.—(AP.)—A considerable reduction in member bank borrowings, falling-off in the number of bank failures and a slowing down of withdrawals from savings institutions were noted in the Fourth Federal Reserve Bank district during March and early April.

Lower levels were reached by indexes of industry and trade during March and April than a month ago. Only one or two major lines gave evidences of the normal seasonal expansion.

Coal production increased more than seasonal and iron and steel operations showed a slight turn upward the third week in April after declining for six weeks up to that time.

Farm Board Limits Sales of Cotton

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Farm Board plans to sell not more than 650,000 bales of its present holdings of cotton in the crop year beginning August 1.

U. S. Public Debt Shows April Gain

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Public debt of the United States on April 30 amounted to $18,596,695,430, comparing with $18,506,270,307 a month earlier and $16,655,379,119 on April 30, 1931. The public debt reached a peak of $26,596,701,646 on August 31, 1919.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

CHAPTER XXIII.

"I was very glad," remarked Dougherty, "that you got that hypodermic syringe from Dr. Baldwin. I would not be surprised if he were an active part of the scheme."

"But how do you connect Baldwin with the case at all—under your jewel-thief theory?"

"He was her doctor. Doctors often find out the most secret of family affairs. She may have him in her power. Don't forget what Eunice James told us."

"And is that as far as you go?" he asked mildly.

"Oh, there are lots of details still to be cleared; we haven't got a case at the moment—but we can get it by digging."

"Such as?"

"Oh, major mysteries and minor mysteries—and it will take a smarter cop than I at this stage of the game to tell which is major and which is minor."

"Nevertheless?"

"Mrs. Carewe says she is an Englishwoman. Yet she speaks with an almost indetectable foreign accent. Why should she lie about her origin?"

"But that isn't necessarily important, Thatcher!"

SAW BASIL SOMEWHERE

"Real clues often do not seem to be necessarily important when you find them. Like that picture of Basil on Lola's bureau. You can call it guesswork if you like but I know that I have seen those earnest, eager features somewhere before. I cannot get that unknown boy's face out of my mind. The picture may not necessarily be important—but I believe it is. The mention of his name threw old Mrs. Carewe into a fit. Yet she said she did not know his last name. And Lola had been kissing the portrait—the scarlet mark of her lipstick was on the glass."

"Time will tell. Certainly the question of Christine Quires' movements between 12:15 o'clock, when she left the elevator and 4 o'clock, when we discovered her lying stiff, wet and dead is a major mystery. We searched those rooms thoroughly—we still do not know where she could have been concealed, although I have a theory about that. How did she get into the apartment without being seen by the three people in the place? And how did her killer get in—if none of the three persons present in the apartment is guilty?"

DIFFICULT QUESTIONS

"Those questions, I agree, are for the moment unanswerable," rumbled Dougherty.

"Yet there are others that pique my curiosity even more," continued the commissioner. "Why is it, for example, that the two rooms of mother and daughter offer such a crazy contrast to the rest of the apartment—and to each other?"

"Does it matter?"

"I don't know. But the contrast remains—a peasant simplicity in the mother's room, a garish old-fashioned mid-Victorian fussiness in the daughter's—and the rest of the rooms in chaste modern simplicity. There is something behind that, Dougherty."

"Sounds metaphysical to me!"

"And without metaphysics I have seldom seen any mystery solved. There is the curious three months' visit of this heiress at Lola's home. Why? Lola had never had any other friend visit her for so long. Your jewel theory may be right—but Christine had no jewels to amount to anything. She was heiress to a million. Did Lola intend to advise her about investments, as she did Guy Everett? Mrs. Carewe hinted at something of the kind. There is a lead that promises something. But if it does lead us anywhere, then we shall have to ask ourselves a harder question—why should Lola or anyone else want Christine to die before she received her inheritance?"

"The girl knew too much about the jewel racket," insisted Dougherty doubtfully. "I'll bet you find that her brother inherits the money after her."

POSSIBLE MOTIVES

"But Lola has never met the brother. You see, there is some essential factor that keeps evading us all the time—when we find that missing segment, the rest of the pieces probably will fall into place. Why was Guy Everett so nervous when we questioned him? Did he really go on a solitary auto ride last night? What method was used to kill these two women? Dougherty, old man, I could go on indefinitely reciting the riddles that still have to be answered in this perplexing case!"

"And when you get all through you'll come back to my jewel-ring idea," predicted Dougherty, gratefully accepting a second glass from the Jamaican butler.

"Perhaps," conceded Colt. "But in the meanwhile, you would not have us overlook the other possibilities within the ambit of this inquiry."

"I mean that, granting at the moment we do not know how Lola Carewe and Christine Quires were slain, there are a number of people who might have killed them. We begin with Guy Everett. He had a motive of one kind or another; it seems trivial, but if he had a grudge against Lola and Christine, he might have slain them—sordid, if you like—but sheer malice has served as the motive of many murders in our records. Then there was the elevator boy. Not a very dignified or likely suspect—and yet, so far as we know, he was the last person to see Christine Quires while she was conscious. Eunice James seems to have had no motive at all—yet she might have. But Mrs. Carewe was annoyed by Christine's presence in the apartment—in senile madness, she might have killed her daughter and guest. Chung had his reasons. Never forget the fury of the Cyclops—the malicious vengeance of the ugly man who considers himself a superior being, who loves and is turned down. Perhaps, indeed, so did Vincent Rowland have a motive. Or Dr. Baldwin, unapt to do such a deed, yet with opportunities, as you very wisely suggest. Again, the brother would have a million-dollar reason for wishing to get rid of his sister—and God knows he would not be the first brother to kill his sister with tricky deceitfulness and for the same reason. I could go on, widening the list, but for our purposes the ones I have named are sufficient."

WAS WELL PLANNED

"I believe there was more than one murderer. There were at least two. Whatever happened, it was too complicated for just one person to get away with it," declared Dougherty fervently.

"Bravo, Dougherty," cried Thatcher Colt. "Your reasoning sounds accurate. But what if the poor girls were the accomplices in their own execution?"

"I hadn't thought of that," confessed Dougherty. "Sounds metaphysical again. How could they be?"

"I don't know—but there are several theories that occur to me."

"The very look of the corpse," declared Dougherty, "suggested poison to me. Have you formed any notion as to what kind of poison might have been used?"

"Not in the least. But Multooler has promised the earliest possible word. In any case, I still feel we are dealing with a highly superior criminal intelligence. Even as far as we have gone, we can see that the plan was outrageously well worked out."

In the silence that followed we could hear the early morning noises from the dark defile of West Seventieth street — the creaking harness of a horse and the clinking of milk bottles carried in a basket.

Colt lit his pipe.

"If the poison," he resumed, "had reached the girl on the tip of an arrow blown from a blow-gun, a sabarcand or something of that sort, our job would have been much simpler. But Multooler says there is not an open wound on her body. Our guilty one has already evinced a truly infernal cunning, thinking to commit the perfect crime, no doubt. Of course we three in this room know there is no such thing. There is always a flaw in these perfectly planned atrocities. There is a flaw somewhere in this pent-house business tonight — only we haven't found it yet."

The telephone bell rang. From my extension I heard the brittle voice of the assistant medical examiner greeting Thatcher Colt.

"Hello, Mr. Colt! Say, this case gets funnier every time you turn around. I don't care how mysterious it sounds, it begins to look like those two girls died natural deaths. At least I can't find any poison in them."

I heard the sharp intake of Colt's breath. It was a body blow to his plans. What hope was there of tracing a murder, if the police were unable to prove the girls had died unnaturally?

"I had six assistants working with me—we went through everything, including the viscera."

"You found no symptoms at all?" demanded Colt, amazed.

"Well, I found a very queer condition in both cadavers, but I don't know what it means. There was a congestion of the muscles around the two hearts, you see—sufficient to cause death. But the valves of the hearts showed every indication that they had been functioning properly all their lives."

"Just one minute," interrupted Colt. "Are you certain of that last statement?"

"Of course, Mr. Colt!"

Synopsis

Following the receipt of a death threat, Lola Carewe, known as "The Night Club Lady," is mysteriously slain in her penthouse apartment at 3 a. m. New Year's. Dr. Hugh Baldwin reports death due to heart failure. The only clue to the murderer is a medical laboratory specimen box found outside Lola's window. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt attaches importance to the young man whose photograph is found in Lola's room, and whose identity Lola had refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil." At the mention of "Basil," Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, becomes hysterical. It is known that Lola quarreled with Guy Everett and Vincent Rowland, a lawyer, over investments. Eunice, the maid, confesses she was employed by Everett to report the goings on in the apartment. The mystery deepens with the finding of the body of Christine Quires, Lola's guest. Christine had been killed before Lola and her body hidden until an opportune moment arrived for the murderer to place it, soaking wet, in Lola's room. The findings are similar to those in Lola's case except that Christine's neck was bruised after death. Everett, Christine's last escort, claims he left her at the apartment elevator at midnight New Year's Eve, and then went for a ride on the Motor Parkway, alone, arriving home after 3 a. m. Mrs. Carewe informs Colt that Christine lived with a brother, Edward, in Rochester, and was to receive her inheritance shortly. Colt orders Basil's picture telephoned to the Paris police. Everett's alibi of the lone Motor Parkway drive is shattered. Rowland discloses that Everett wanted to marry Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin. Colt believes revenge the motive for the murders.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Receives Mary's Report on Charles Owens' Activities

It was fully half an hour before I had an opportunity to speak to Harry Underwood concerning Helena Brixton's request to keep Marion and Mary with her for a longer time. I did not wish to call him away from the sick room where he was aiding Katherine in caring for the wounded Chinese, and evidently there was no errand to call him away from the library which we had turned into a hospital room. So I had ample time for reflection over the surprising things Mary had told me after Mrs. Brixton had surrendered the telephone to her.

Her astonishing assertion, "Sometimes I think our charming hostess doesn't yearn for yours truly as she might," I dismissed as impossible of solution until I could see Mary and demand an explanation of what she meant, and upon what she based her opinion. But her cryptic references to Charles Owen, the rascally brother of Samuel Brixton, who, she had told us, was trying to attract Marion romantically — indeed was scheming to marry her—those demanded my most serious attention.

SUSPECTED PLAN

If she meant anything by her veiled allusions, she was taking advantage of Charles Owen's interest in Marion to find out something incriminating about him. This entirely changed the status of things, to my mind. Harry Underwood and Mary—and I from Mary—had suspected Charles Owen's matrimonial plan before Marion went to the Brixton house party. But we had counted upon Marion's liking for Ronald Brixton, and his constant attendance upon her to protect her from any attentions, welcome or unwelcome, upon the part of the fascinating older man. And Harry also had insisted upon Mary's accompanying Marion to the Brixton home. Thus fortified we had believed that Marion was safer than in the farmhouse where her secret lock box was the object of the Chinese criminals. But Mary's quoting of the Stalky proverb, "The bleating of the kid attracts the tiger," had made me wonder if Mary had not concocted some scheme wise of hair-brained, of trying to find out Owen's schemes by having Marion evince a real or feigned interest in him.

If this were true, and everything in Mary's excited words and manner pointed to it, it was time that older heads intervened. I knew how impulsive and what Dicky called "crazily brilliant" was his niece, and I knew also Marion's love for adventure inherited from her mother.

I hated to spoil the pleasure of the girls, but it was not loyalty to Lillian, I decided, for them to remain up there in the same house with Charles Owen, when they were involved in some youthful scheme which would involve trying to get hold of his secret activities concerning Marion's fortune. That was entirely too dangerous a game for them.

PLANS TO TELL LILLIAN

As the word "loyalty" came into my mind, it was like a sudden burst of flame illuminating a dark corner of a room. There was something else which was not loyalty to Lillian, even though Harry Underwood, Mary and I had meant our conspiracy of silence to protect her. But as I realized that we had let Marion go to the Brixton home without her mother knowing of Charles Owen's matrimonial intentions concerning her, I quailed. Lillian would not forgive us readily, I feared, and I saw clearly that we must no longer keep that knowledge from her.

It was the first thing I meant to say to Harry Underwood, when he next came from the sick room and I had no sooner reached that conclusion, than the door of the library opened, and he came out exactly as if I had willed his exit.

He came on into the living room, and gave me his customary wide grin.

"Hello, there," he said. "Lil said you were going to do sentry-go in her place."

"Harry," I said earnestly, "please sit down and let me ask your advice. I've just received a telephone call from Mrs. Brixton and Mary, but I don't want to wake Lillian if I can help it. Yet——"

"Yet you think you ought to," Mr. Underwood said shrewdly. "Go ahead, shoot the works."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Last Saturday almost 1,000 boys and girls in the Pittsburgh area enrolled in the Sun-Telegraph-Warner-Theaters Junior Komic Club which meets every Saturday morning at the 17 Warner neighborhood theaters.

CARDS PRESENTED

These youngsetrs were each given a membership card and button and they enjoyed the stage show which was presented by their fellow members. Those taking part in the stage show were: Eleanor Crawford, Laura Kessler, Irene Sullivan, Bill Mossburg, Vera Hollywood, Cliff and Jane Carr, Doris Kirchell, Joe Mondak, John Swetto, Georgia Mae Crossman, Cookie Ueltzen, Grace Reed, Richard Fetters, Dorothy Smith and Peg Lydon.

After the stage show and the showing of the picture the main topic of conversation among members was the big free show which will be held at the Stanley Theater on Sunday, May 15.

Preliminary to the show at the Stanley Theater on Sunday, May 15, the youngsters will meet at the Sun-Telegraph Building and will march to the theater, led by a troop of Boy Scouts and the bands of the Schenley and Enright theaters.

Remember to listen in tonight to "Uncle Bob and Betty," those two lovable characters who will read the Sun-Telegraph comics for you at 6 o'clock from Radio Station WCAE. Be sure and have your comic section ready, as you'll get many a laugh when these two honorary members of your club "take the air" tonight at 6 p. m.

If you are not a member of the Sun - Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you. Or you may join at any of the following theaters any day this week or at the regular meeting next Saturday: Arsenal, Ambridge, Belmar, Cameraphone, Enright, Etna-Harris, Grand (Greensburg), Harris (Downtown), Kenyon, Manor, Memorial (McKeesport), Mt. Improving Water Front

Nothing Will Increase Pittsburgh's Attractiveness More Than Cleaning Up the River Banks.

At last the city administration seems disposed to do something really noteworthy for the improvement of the river banks in the Golden Triangle. With $2,000,000 of bonds authorized by the voters last week for public works that will relieve unemployment, and with work on the wharves well adapted for the employment of numerous unskilled laborers, the time is ripe to go ahead with the beautification of the water front.

E. W. Mudge, chairman of the City Planning Commission, has written to City Council to recommend that Duquesne way and Water street be improved for their full length west of Eleventh street and Grant street as one of the first steps in the river bank improvement program.

Certainly these important thoroughfares should be improved at the earliest opportunity, not only to permit freer circulation of traffic, as Mudge suggests, but also as an essential of making Pittsburgh more attractive.

Nothing will do more to increase satisfaction with Pittsburgh as a clean, self-respecting and impressive city than to provide wide, well-paved avenues and tidy wharves along the banks of the Monongahela and Allegheny, with a beautiful park at the apex of the Triangle at the Point.

A Town Hall for Opera

Pittsburgh music lovers have been asking why we have had to do without grand opera of any kind during the past year. Cleveland, with a smaller metropolitan district population than Pittsburgh, recently enjoyed a successful season of grand opera by the Metropolitan company. Can Pittsburgh afford to deprive itself of high-class music drama?

An inquiry into the reasons for the difference between the situation in Cleveland and that here discloses that the opera was presented in Cleveland in a large municipal auditorium, with seating capacity far in advance of that in our largest theater, the Syria Mosque. It develops, too, that for some of the operas every seat was sold.

Cleveland, by reason of its greater audiences, is in position to charge less for seats. Since our audiences are severely limited by the comparatively small size of the theater, it is necessary, if expenses are to be met, to charge a proportionately higher price per seat. This tends to discourage people from attending.

A decision in the litigation over the site is expected to be handed down shortly. If it permits, it is to be hoped the County Commissioners will obey the mandate that the people gave them in voting $6,000,000 of bonds for the construction of the Town Hall, and, without further ado, will proceed to build it.

A Patron of Science

Ambassador Mellon Is Acclaimed in England as a Promoter of Industrial Research.

Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon is attracting attention in Great Britain as a patron of science and promoter of industrial research. This phase of his reputation is based, of course, on his founding, with his brother, of the Mellon Institute, and on the work that the institute has done.

It cannot but be gratifying to Pittsburghers to note the recognition that the British have given this work. Nature, a famous magazine of science, published in London, says in its issue of April 16, that it is a tribute to the wisdom of Ambassador Mellon and his brother, Richard B. Mellon, as founders of Mellon Institute, and to the essential soundness of the principles on which the institute is based, that the Liberal party of Great Britain, in an official statement of policy recently published, has urged the establishment of a similar institute in that country.

The Mellon Institute, soon to occupy a large building on Fifth avenue modeled after a Grecian temple, bids fair to be the Mellons' greatest monument.

Speeding the Count

County Commissioner Barr Has Done Well in Expediting the Work of the Return Board

County Commissioner C. M. Barr, as acting chairman of the board, has directed the workers who are tabulating the votes cast in the primary election last Tuesday to make haste. He has given them the task of counting the returns in 30 election districts each day, and has forbidden them to quit for the day until the task has been completed. A penalty has been prescribed for tardiness in arriving at work.

There will be some grumbling over these requirements, but there is justification for them, and the public no doubt will uphold Barr's course in the matter.

Allegheny County has suffered again and again from the slowness of its Return and Recount boards. There is no reason why slackness which would not be tolerated in private employment should be permitted on a public job.

THE HEARST PAPERS ADVOCATE:

2—Proportional representation in the United States Senate—no state to have less than two Senators.
5—Army, Navy and Aviation—all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
6—Vigorous federal action under a Secretary of Education to abolish illiteracy in the United States.
7—Federal sales tax and excise taxes to replace the income tax which has degenerated into a racket.
9—Construction of Nicaragua Canal for commerce and defense, advocated by Hearst papers since 1895.
10—Acquisition of French and English West Indies as part payment on debts to United States.
11—Selective immigration to admit only those suited for American citizenship and American needs.
12—Deportation of undesirable aliens and extension of preliminary citizenship period to 10 years.
14—A calendar year of 13 months of four weeks each, all holidays to fall on Saturday.
15—A five-day working week or a six-hour working day to provide more jobs and better conditions for workers.

Tipping the Boat

And then their occupants get wet.

Before the lady takes a swim.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 3.—There are many reasons for the declining popularity of the highly publicized penthouse, tipping skyscrapers. The first is a problem in economics and the second is the aura of scandal that has temporarily engulfed them.

The majority were and are eminently respectable abodes—fastidiously poised high in clean air and far from the crowd. But respectable occupants suffered from the high jinks that escaped into sensational banners in the tabloids.

The penthouse became a symbol for loose living from a flood of novels featuring penthouse crimes passional in a background of gin, jazz and philanderings. Plays exploited the theme. So did movies. And the "love nest" became a part of newspaperese.

In the beginning, the penthouse was a cheap shack to house scrubwomen and janitors after the fashion of the plantation cabin or Mexican jacal. Some cramped-in city dweller visualized the freedom of roof homes, and although he built a sky castle, it retained the old name, penthouse.

Each new one expressed an increasing grandeur. Brooks slithered through terraced lawns. There were squash and tennis courts, artificial lakes and gurgling waterfalls. The miniature splendor of a Long Island estate was often packed in small space.

The first of such magnificent aeries nidified in the canyons below Fulton downtown and were erected by Percy Rockefeller and Henry L. Doherty. Earl Carroll followed these with a garish Chinese bungalow in the theatrical district. Conde Nast was first on the Gold Coast.

Today there are scores between the Bronx and Bowling Green, but many are now deserted. Occupants have moved to less expensive quarters. Of course, rents will fill again in brighter days, for in many ways they are the most desirable domiciles in the metropolis.

* * *

The sudden democracy of the times is among the warming phenomena of a jaded town. Only recently a gracious hostess gave a luncheon for her masseuse at her home on the fashionable East Side. And among the guests at a recent cocktail party was a bachelor's barber, a former student at the Sorbonne, who proved one of the most delightful conversationalists present.

* * *

A few years ago I motored to a home in the remote English countryside for a dinner party. The late Arnold Bennett was one of the distinguished guests, yet a distinct memory of that event was of a self-effacing valet who came to my rescue in knotting a dinner tie. He had for six years luxuriated in the despair of an isolation in India with his master. A suppressed loneliness burst out in a five-minute flood of talk. It was the most interesting commentary on civilization I ever heard. Suddenly conscious of his garrulity, he withdrew with an apologetic mumble. No brilliant at the dinner touched the narrative splendor of his mood.

* * *

The head of a celebrated detective agency revealed to a few intimates recently that the passing of Enrico Caruso broke up one of the most amazing of kidnaping plots. A vessel had been actually chartered and the singer was to be abducted to sea and held for $1,000,000 ransom.

* * *

The passing of another Enrico deprived the city of seeing the world's most astonishing juggler this fall. He was Enrico Rastelli, belonging to the third generation of Italian jugglers, who attracted stiff shirts, ermine and royalty—the elegants who turn out to see a Nijinski or a Duse. The neatest of the current jugglers is appropriately named Serge Flash, a nimble young man whose act is a superb symphony in symmetry.

* * *

The neatest of the possessives came over the phone from a Jersey correspondent to a South street re-write man the other day. It ran thus: "He struck the girl he was engaged to's brother."

But still the most hilarious mix-up to me was the excited native of our town, frightened by a rushing, barking dog, who jittered to the owner: "Call off your dog off or I'll knock off his head off."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"Don't you think women are smarter than men?" says she with a mean look, "dasting" me to disagree.

I think they're both smart, lady—but in different ways.

One can't, of course, generalize about people. No one rule will fit them all. But this is what I think about the average run of humans after playing around with several million of 'em for nearly 50 years. I believe that—

Men are more intelligent than women—AND WEAKER.

Women are more stupid than men—BUT STRONGER.

Women have a million ways of being stubborn, most of which men never suspect.

Men are more sensitive than women, particularly about abstract principles which have no connection with their personal lives.

Women are more self-centered than men; take everything more personally; get gladder or madder or sadder about things.

Women lie more than men, and are more wily in dealing with other liars.

But women use men.

And THAT'S just the beginning of what I think about men and women.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Ever, at the Dawning

I could never lose you
Though you wandered far
Past the golden portals
Of the outmost star.

Though your dust were scattered
By the breezes' breath,
I could never lose you,
Dear, through space or death.

Ever, at the dawning
Or through summer rain,
Ever with the twilight
You would come again.

With the spring's returning,
In my heart would flower
Joy that love had blest us
In an April hour.

I could never lose you,
Save if you alone
Barred me from the heaven
Which we two have known.

The Way Out

No. 6—Rehabilitate Carriers.

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

THE prolonged business depression and far-reaching unemployment constitute a broad challenge to political and business leadership. Instead of decrying the lack of leadership, the Hearst newspapers desire to make such contribution as they can to constructive, forward-looking economic leadership. The depression should be attacked simultaneously on all fronts. The emergency calls for the spirit of a field marshal who can co-ordinate and synchronize various remedial campaigns.

Mere piecemeal aid to needy railroads through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation falls far short of a fundamental solution of America's transportation problems.

In urging federal regulation of interstate passenger bus operations and licensing of motor trucks, the Interstate Commerce Commission got closer to fundamentals.

It wisely urged that the carriers be encouraged to make use of these newer modes of transportation to supplement their own facilities.

Since the public pays the bills—and railroad rates are based on the theory of a fair return on property value—it would be good public policy to enable efficient carriers to earn a satisfactory fair return on a basis which will assure the lowest practicable freight and passenger rates.

Any further continuance of arbitrary restrictions, which perpetuate economic waste and competitive disadvantage, tends to penalize shippers and passengers through high rates.

CONGRESS should therefore accept the implications of the newer doctrines of regulation, and authorize railroad managers TO TAKE ANY REASONABLE STEPS in THE DIRECTION OF ELIMINATION OF WASTE in order to reduce operating expenses and hence charges to the traveling and shipping public.

Specifically, this would entail the right of railroads to become great transportation trusts, dovetailing with their own operations trucks, buses, steamers, airplanes, and even pipe lines.

The inhibition in the Panama Canal act, which forbids railroads to own steamers passing through the canal, should be lifted, and the White act, prohibiting the railroads from operating steamers on the Great Lakes, should be modified.

As a further means of promoting efficiency and economy, the carriers should be encouraged to create giant consolidations, eventually running from coast to coast and from the Canadian line to the Mexican border. The Canadian Pacific suggests a pattern for a genuinely nation-wide carrier, which operated a wide variety of feeders and supplementary agencies, including steamers and a chain of hotels.

THE Interstate Commerce Commission should observe scrupulously the mandate of Congress, expressed in the transportation act of 1920, that only such consolidations be approved as are in the PUBLIC INTEREST and which PRESERVE COMPETITION in the territory affected.

If the Commission could consistently approve the pending four-system eastern merger, which would be a preliminary to truly nation-wide consolidations, such an affirmative development would help to stimulate business imagination and to improve public sentiment.

Instead of waiting and hoping for better times, Congress and the instrumentalities which it has created, such as the I. C. C., should leave undone nothing that would contribute to SOUNDLY CONCEIVED ECONOMIC REHABILITATION.

BIG FAMILIES

By Winifred Black

"The American tragedy—that's what I call this only-child business here in this country," said the woman from Dublin, Ireland.

"I've been in this county seven years," she went on, "and I'm not used to it yet. I can't seem to adjust myself to the idea.

"My husband and I haven't a chick or a child, and I'm here to tell you they don't think very well of us about it at home in Ireland. They write me letters telling how Agnes, and Lillie, and Eileen, and Cathleen, and Michael, and Patrick are all having christenings; and I can see they think I've gone United States when I don't write back and tell about a christening of our own.

"I feel a little tragic about it myself, but my American friends all think I'm lucky. 'Children are an awful nuisance,' they tell me, 'and they cost such a lot, too, you're clever to do without them.'

"And whenever I meet new people here in this country I'm pretty sure to discover that they are clever, too.

"Sometimes there's a new couple with one child. I was counting them up on my fingers the other day, and I know 10 couples with one child apiece; and oh, I do feel so sorry for the poor child!

"Smart as a whip, bright as a dollar, quick as scat, as hard as nails, as old as the hills—I can't look at one of them without wanting to cry.

"Whatever is going to become of them when they grow up, and have to mix with a world full of regular people, and eat regular food, and wear regular clothes, and read regular newspapers, and pay regular taxes, and drive a regular car, and earn a regular salary, paid by a regular boss who won't give them a mite of 'special attention?'

"They aren't used to regular things. They go to special schools. They have special doctors. They read special books. They have a special diet. Half of them have never tasted a good honest piece of molasses candy in their lives, and as for going out in the kitchen and having a candy pull—Ouf! They wouldn't think of such a thing! Too messy. Too much bother. And sweets are bad for the skin, and not the thing for the digestion.

"I suppose it is all right, but somehow a boy who cares whether he's messy or not doesn't seem like a boy to me. And as for the poor little girls, why, some of them have permanent waves, poor darlings, and do their faces with vanishing cream before they're 11 years old.

"They don't seem like children to me at all. They seem like precise, fussy, pale, little old men and women. They don't play right. They don't laugh right. They don't even fight right. I'd be worried to death about him if I had one of them, myself.

"Children ought to have brothers and sisters, and cousins, and aunts, and grandmothers. And there's another thing, the grandmothers—good comfortable souls with peppermint drops in the pockets of their black silk aprons, and their heads full of fairy stories, and their laps nice and cozy for a tired little girl or boy. What's become of all the grandmothers?

"I suppose they're out somewhere looking for the little brothers and sisters who never seem to arrive."

Queer people, these Irish—with their sentiment, and their old-fashioned notions about homes, and families, and all that sort of thing—aren't they? But don't you wish the world had more like them?
